TWO SHIPS AND PLANE ON WAY TO HUNT ITALIA

Norwegian Ace, After Flight to Tromsoe, Goes Aboard Vessel With Seaplane for Spitzbergen.

SWEDISH CRAFT ALSO STARTS NORTHWARD

Snow, Intense Cold and North Wind Hamper Efforts of Citta di Milano to Find Dirigible.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, May 29.—Lieut. Gustaw Holm, Norwegian flying ace, arrived at Tromsoe at 11 a. m. (4 a. m. central standard time) on the way to Spitzbergen whence he will start in a Norwegian seaplane on an air search for the missing dirigible Italia.

Lieut. Holm, with his airplane, which carries no wireless, went aboard the Hobby, which will sail some time this afternoon.

The sturdy little ship will then make a swift run to Spitzbergen in order that the first search by air for the Italia may get under way. This probably will be toward the end of the week before the Hobby lands at Kings Bay.

Lieut. Holm will fly over the north and Lieut. Lutzow will fly over the north and east in the hope of finding some trace of the dirigible.

The larger auxiliary expedition being prepared by the Norwegian government with Capt. Riiser-Larsen in charge, has been postponed indefinitely, as the Italian Government is said to be inclined to await further developments.

Reports that the dirigible Italia was down at Amsterdam Island, north Spitzbergen, were received in Oslo with great skepticism today as the base ship Citta di Milano passed the island on its outward trip Sunday, and it appeared therefore quite incredible that the Italia could have landed there without being observed at that time.

Riiser-Larsen said that there were many wireless stations, not only those in Siberia, sending out messages asking for assistance for the Italian dirigible and that these messages could easily be misinterpreted as coming from the Citta di Milano. The captain is going ahead with his plans for bringing help to the Italia.

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 29 (11 a. m.).—Intense cold and a heavy snow at Kings Bay today increased the difficulties of the base ship Citta di Milano in its search for the missing dirigible Italia.

"This morning a north wind was blowing and the snow was so thick that it was impossible to see the nearby mountains.

The Citta di Milano was thought to be on its way north from the northernmost part of Spitzbergen but it was considered that it would be difficult for the ship to find an opening to get through the ice under the present weather conditions.

The Citta di Milano took aboard Hunter at Magdalena Bay, where the vessel sought shelter from the floes, and will try to get in touch with other hunters in the hope they may be able to give tidings of the Italia.

One team of dogs, driven by two hunters, Tandberg and Noels, was ready to make a trip of three or four days to Widje Fjord in the hope of learning the fate of Gen. Nobile and his crew of 17. Other teams were afoot for explorations with the huskies.

The base ship reported that fog hung over the mountains and visibility was poor. Experts at Kings Bay said it was hopeless for the Citta di Milano to try to proceed. Nevertheless the ship reported it would try to reach New Friesland.

OSLO, Norway, May 29.—Men experienced in penetrating the Arctic today placed their reliance in large airplanes for use in search for the dirigible Italia, missing with 16 men.

The planes will use must be equipped for work among the floes of the North as bases.

Search by ship alone was regarded futile, especially in view of the Italia's base ship, the Citta di Milano, becoming icebound. The British steamship Braganza, however, today was en route from Oslo to Spitzbergen to aid in the search.

While the Norwegian Government awaited the approval of the Italian Government for extensive

LINDBERGH IN ST. LOUIS ON FLIGHT TO PACIFIC COAST

Travels 900 Miles From New York in 9 Hours and 37 Minutes—Goes On After 65-Minute Stop to Refuel.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh stopped at Lambert-St. Louis Field for 65 minutes this afternoon on the third leg of a flight from New York City to the Pacific Coast in his new capacity as chairman of the Technical Committee of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc.

He arrived at 2:40 o'clock and departed in a heavy rain at 3:45, stating he was going West and did not know where he would stop for the night.

In his new Ryan brougham, with three passengers part of the way and two all of the way, he made the flight of more than 950 miles in 9 hours 37 minutes flying time and 10 hours 15 minutes elapsed time, having left Curtiss Field, New York, at 6:25 a. m., Eastern daylight time (5:25 St. Louis time).

As passengers Lindbergh carried Col. Henry Breckinridge of Washington, D. C., his attorney, and Maj. Thomas Lanphier, commandant at Selfridge Field, Mich. From New York to Dayton he had carried Phflip Love to St. Louis, his old time flying partner on the St. Louis-Chicago air mail route.

Two stops were made on the way, the first for 35 minutes at Columbus, O., which he reached at 9:57 a. m., and the second for three minutes at Dayton, O., about 70 miles west of Columbus. At Columbus he showed his ship to Ruth Elder, the trans-Atlantic flyer, who is appearing at a theater there.

Upon landing here Lindbergh announced he was stopping only to refuel. While mechanics were busy putting gasoline and oil in the plane, Lindbergh made a close inspection of it and then chatted with about 40 flyers and mechanics, old-time friends, who crowded about. It began raining after his arrival, taking the creases out of his neatly pressed gray suit and soaking his brown fedora.

Two parachute flares were attached under the fuselage for a possible forced night landing. Sandwiches were taken aboard from Louie's stand, a favorite recreation spot for Lindbergh in the days before he became world famous.

"All we can do is hope," said Lindbergh, when reporters asked him to comment on the missing dirigible Italia, lost in the Arctic. He added that he was not in position to commen authoritatively.

Lindbergh told reporters the purpose of his trip was the survey the proposed route of the Transcontinental Air Transport, which plans a 48-hour service from coast to coast, using airplanes during the day and trains at night. He is investigating the tentative sites chosen for landing fields and possibilities for increasing their terminal facilities. Upon his departure from New York it was announced he would stop at Columbus, St. Louis, Wichita, Kan., and Clovis, N. M.

PUTS AD IN PAPER DENYING HE WILL MARRY MARQUISE

Englishman Never Thought of Wedding Commodore Vanderbilt's Great Grandchild

By the Associated Press.

NICE, France, May 29.—Following rumors that the Marquise de Maleissye, great-granddaughter of the late Commodore Vanderbilt, was to be married to Frederic Nash of England, were formally denied today in an advertisement published in the morning papers.

The denial read: "Frederic Nash of the Junior Carlton Club of London, now a resident of Monte Carlo, denies the published report of his prospective marriage with Marquise de Maleissye and wishes it known that he has never contemplated marrying her."

The Marquise, who was the former Edith Lyman Collins of New York, and at one time was the ward of the late Chauncey M. Depew, lives at the Chateau Hermitage near Monte Carlo. It was rumored two years ago that she intended asking the Vatican to annul her marriage, but so far as is known nothing has been done in this direction. She was married in 1911.

WILMAS' SECRET INCOME TRACED THROUGH BANK

County Sheriff Repaid Loans in Currency When He Had Enough on Deposit to Pay by Check.

The $30,000 received from mysterious sources in the last three years by Sheriff Albert Wilmas of St. Louis County above his $10,000-a-year salary as Sheriff and on which he was compelled by the Government to pay $900 income tax and civil penalty for failure to make a Federal tax return on his secret income, was discovered by tracing cash transactions the Sheriff had with the St. Louis County Bank in paying loans.

Most of the Sheriff's secret income, or at least that part of it he used to pay off loans at the bank, was in currency, mostly $10 and $20 bills.

At one time he paid the bank about $7000 at one time in $10 and $20 bills and at a time when there was sufficient money in his bank account to pay by check.

What Grand Jury May Uncover.

An investigation by a special grand jury, which Circuit Judge Mulloy has announced will be impaneled at Clayton next week, into the source of this special income, which the Sheriff for three years successfully concealed from the Government, is likely to disclose that he had numerous other big cash transactions with the bank.

When pressed by the Government examiners to disclose the source of this money, Sheriff Wilmas waved them aside with the remark that it was "pocket money." The examiners admitted they knew that much and were disappointed when he steadfastly refused to tell them where he got it.

Wilmas' Transactions.

When he made his campaign for Sheriff in 1924, Wilmas, who had been County Collector for eight years at an annual salary of $10,000, borrowed $5000 from the bank and later repaid it in cash. He also reduced a $25,000 deed of trust the bank held on his farm with large numbers of $20 bills and currency of smaller denomination. His attorney, former State Senator A. E. L. Gardner, has stated that the Sheriff carried huge amounts in his spacious pockets, and kept other large amounts in cash in his home.

And besides the home farm at Chesterfield, the family owns a farm purchased of the Parks estate for $30,000, in the name of Clifford Wilmas, on which $10,000 has been paid since Wilmas became Sheriff three and one-half years ago.

In addition to the transactions running into the thousands, Wilmas made numerous short-time bank loans of $500, which he always paid off promptly in currency.

The special grand jury can call

CONGRESS TO QUIT TODAY; NO ACTION ON BOULDER DAM

EXECUTIVE SESSION ENDS DISORDER

After an Hour Behind Locked Doors, However, Status of Western Project Remains Unsettled.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—An hour's executive session failed to settle today the question of the status of Boulder Canyon dam legislation at the next session of Congress and Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, prepared to hold it before the Senate until adjournment, if need be, to insure its place in the winter session.

The Boulder Canyon dam measure was temporarily laid aside this afternoon to permit passage of bills of minor importance, but it did not lose its place before the Senate.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The Boulder Canyon dam filibuster was ended this morning in an explosion that shattered the dignity and decorum of the Senate. On a new concurrent resolution, the Senate voted, 46 to 35, to adjourn at 5:30 p. m. today. The House approved the resolution by a vote of 155 to 9.

Seldom has the Senate witnessed such a tumultuous proceeding as followed the passage of the adjournment resolution, which was presented by Senator Curtis of Kansas, majority floor leader. Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.) California, leader of the fight for the Boulder Canyon project, objected on the ground that the resolution was not privileged and should lie on the table for a day. He was overruled by Vice President Dawes and the vote was taken.

Immediately, Johnson asked for unanimous consent to make his bill the unfinished business of the next session of Congress, to be brought up on the first day. Senator Bruce (Dem.) Maryland, objected and asked whether Johnson had made a deal with Curtis and Minority Leader Robinson of Arkansas.

Johnson Resents Insinuation.

Johnson resented the insinuation that he had made a deal with any one regarding his project. Bruce, standing in the center aisle, ignored the protestations of such Democrats as Robinson and King of Utah, one of the bitterest opponents of the Johnson. Bruce declared that Johnson had been whipped and should accept the fortunes of war. It looked as though Johnson would go after the erudite Bruce and demand personal satisfaction. He started to answer Bruce in the same truculent tone and was checked by Robinson, who demanded that he should be allowed to answer the Maryland Senator. He stated that he could assure Bruce that Johnson had made no deal whatever with him.

The galleries were expectant, but Robinson repeated his suggestion of yesterday, that Johnson should ask unanimous consent that the Boulder Canyon bill be temporarily laid aside to be taken up at 5:29 p. m. It would thus automatically become the unfinished business of the next session. This procedure would have allowed the Senate to devote the afternoon to other legislation.

"I want to know whether the suggestion of the Senator from Arkansas and the Senator from Kansas resulted from any concession made by the Senator from California before he took the risks of votes with reference to adjournment?" Bruce demanded.

"I want to know just what the Senator means by that?" Johnson said defiantly.

"I mean just what I said," Bruce answered, equally defiant.

Denies Making Agreement.

"If the Senator means to imply that I entered into any agreement in relation to the vote—no," Johnson shouted.

"I just asked as a matter of curiosity, because, since the Senator chose to take the fortunes of war and he did not win and we did," Bruce commenced, but was not allowed to finish.

"All right, you did win on adjournment," Johnson declared.

"I recollect that Benjamin Franklin once said that when he

MISSOURIAN LEADS MARINES WHEN CAPTAIN IS SHOT

GO AHEAD! RALLYING CRY OF DYING KANSAN

Corporal Williamson of This City Among the Dead After Fighting in Nicaraguan Ravine.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 29.—How Capt. Robert S. Hunter, of the United States Marines, whose home was in Prescott, Kan., died rallying his men against Sandino's forces is described in a report received at Marine headquarters. It gives details of the fighting at La Flor near the Cua River, when a small Marine patrol was attacked by Nicaraguans on May 13 and 14.

Captain Hunter was wounded in the neck in such a manner as to make speech almost impossible. Corporal William R. Williamson of St. Louis was killed outright. Capt. Hunter seized a machine gun from the hands of the dead Corporal and was firing upon the Sandino men with it when he was knocked down by a bullet which pierced his chest. His last words were: "Don't go back—go ahead!"

Special mention is made in the report of Lieut. Earl S. Piper of New London, Mo., who was left in command when Capt. Hunter died and of 11 enlisted men in the patrol.

The patrol of 25 Marines, one member of the United States Navy Hospital Corps and 10 Nicaraguan National Guardsmen left Quilali May 9, to reconnoiter in the Central Jinotega area east of the Coco River. At 3:40 p. m. on May 13.

Could Not See Nicaraguans.

The patrol was fired on as it penetrated a deep ravine. The detachment immediately deployed to the right. Rebel fire broke out along the entire front and caused confusion among the pack animals and riding animals. The brush along the narrow trail was so dense that the patrol could not see the insurgents.

When the fire of Sandino's men died down, Capt. Hunter doubled to the rear to order the reconnaissance of the high ground to the rear of the patrol. Lieut. Piper, seeing about five men attempting to capture a runaway mule on the trail ahead, moved with a group down the ravine to a position from which he could fire on the opposing forces. A strong burst of insurgent fire answered this maneuver and brought Capt. Hunter on the run to the head of the column.

Corporal Williamson was struck in the chest while moving forward with reinforcements for Lieut. Piper's men. He gasped one word "Doc" and fell dead into the arms of Pharmacist's Mate Oliver L. Young of Boonesville, Miss.

As Young ran forward to aid Private Max M. Dubois of Livonia, N. Y., who was wounded, Capt. Hunter was struck in the neck. Dubois yelled into the ear of the medical man, "I'm all right, take care of the Captain."

After Capt. Hunter was struck a second time, a group which suddenly opened fire from the left flank was quickly silenced by Private Clay O. Parish of Draper, N. C. A few minutes later the Nicaraguans withdrew.

This entire action lasted about 50 minutes and the Marines were not able to pursue the irregulars because they had to care for their own wounded.

St. Louisan Is Buried.

Capt. Hunter and Private Dubois were made as comfortable as possible and a stretcher was improvised for the Captain's removal in the morning. At 11:25 p. m. Corporal Williamson was buried by his companions, who offered simple prayers.

At 8 a. m. on the fourteenth, the patrol started for La Flor. Capt. Hunter was carried on the stretcher by eight marines. This was a difficult task because of the narrow trail. At 8:15 Corporal Clayton W. Cox of Edwards, Ill., prevented a dangerous ambush when he saw a force of Nicaraguans and opened fire before they could fire upon the marines. Nicaraguan fire immediately broke out to the right and rear of the marines.

$235,000,000 AUTO MERGER WITH DODGE FIRM VOTED BY CHRYSLER DIRECTORS

Civil Courthouse Griffin

THIS is the first photograph of the model for the two griffins which will be mounted on the peak of the new Civil Courthouse, one facing Memorial Plaza and one gazing over the river. The base for them is being completed and they will be placed soon. They will be 20 feet long, each, and 11½ feet high, the tops of their heads being 385 feet and 1 inch above the Twelfth boulevard sidewalk. Aluminum is being used in their construction, and this metal will cover the pyramidal roof also. The whole mass of metal will be connected with the steel framework of the skyscraper, serving as a lightning conductor. The griffin is a mythical creature, half eagle and half lion, significant of watchfulness and guardianship. The figures here will have human faces, suggesting the mercy tempering justice. On the breast of each will be the fleur-de-lis of St. Louis.

PRISONER TELLS OF PLOT TO KILL NEGRO WITNESS

Robert E. Cunningham Makes Deposition About Kidnaping of O'Dell Slattery, April 16.

In his deposition taken this afternoon in the Circuit Attorney's office, Robert E. Cunningham, who spent several weeks in the city jail waiting trial for carrying concealed weapons, retold the story which apparently led to the indictment of three men for kidnaping and murder of O'Dell Slattery, 18-year-old chief witness for the State in a robbery case against Joseph Buschman, Cunningham's cellmate.

Slattery was spirited away and slain on the eve of Buschman's trial. In spite of the murder, Buschman was convicted and is under life sentence for robbery. Cunningham testified the kidnaping of Slattery, who was sheltered in the House of Detention near the jail, was directed by Cunningham and executed by Joseph Troup and Joseph Passafiume, the two other men held for the murder of the Negro youth.

"He's going to be taken for a ride," Cunningham testified Buschman remarked as Troup and Passafiume drove away from Thirteenth and Clark streets with Slattery in an automobile April 16. The next morning Slattery's body was found in St. Louis County, a bullet in the head.

After his testimony, Cunningham was taken to the workhouse to serve 60 days for carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty Monday to get away from the jail.

ICE FORCED ITALIA TO LAND, LIEUT. COL. PAEGELOW THINKS

Scott Field Commandant Surmises Men Are Safe, Despite Forced Descent.

Belief that the airship Italia has been forced to land in the Arctic wastes because it became laden down with an accumulation of ice on its bag and cars, was expressed today by Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, commandant at Scott Field, who said he no longer had any hope that Gen. Nobile and his crew were still aloft.

"I still see no reason why we should believe that the ship has met disaster, however," he said. "Gen. Nobile is resourceful and a skillful airship man. If it became necessary to land his dirigible because it had become over-weighted, there is no reason why it should have meant disaster to the crew. I am still confident that the crew is safe and waiting for rescue."

WOULD REPEAL PROVISIONS FOR FLEXIBLE TARIFF

Senate Committee Bases Recommendation on Impracticability of Act in Administration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Repeal of the flexible provisions of the 1922 tariff act was recommended today by the special Senate committee which recently made an exhaustive investigation of the operations of the Tariff Commission.

Other recommendations in the report, filed by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and chairman of the committee, are that the Tariff Commission be made a congressional agency to recommend duties, thus relieving the president of action on commission reports; that findings of the commission be published and that no former representatives of special interests or organizations concerned directly with the work of the commission be appointed to that body.

In recommending repeal of the flexible provisions of the tariff act, the committee assigned three principal reasons:

"Experience has not demonstrated the practical value of the provision. The administration of it has absorbed almost the entire time of the commission without corresponding benefits.

"It is impracticable for the President to devote the time and attention essential to the proper performance of the duties imposed upon him by the flexible tariff law. The Chief Executive is already overburdened with executive duties.

"Tariff making and revision under our Constitution are legislative duties, and to impose such responsibilities on the President as are carried in the flexible provision confuses legislative and executive responsibility."

House Hails Winning Bunioneer.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The winner of the trans-continental "bunion derby," Andrew Payne of Claremore, Ok., was acclaimed last night by the House, the proceedings of which he watched from the gallery. The attention of the Congressmen was called to Payne's presence by Representative Howard (Dem.), Oklahoma, who described him as "America's greatest runner."

DEAL TO BE MADE BY EXCHANGE OF CONCERNS' STOCK

LARGER COMPANY REORGANIZED IN 1925

Assets of Plant Taken Over by Dillon, Read Are $131,569,000 — Other Rated at $103,894,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Directors of the Chrysler Corporation today approved a plan to acquire the entire property of Dodge Brothers Corporation, including its subsidiaries in this country and abroad, through an exchange of stock.

Under the terms of the merger, one share of Chrysler common stock will be exchanged for each share of Dodge Brothers' preference stock, and one share of Chrysler common for each five shares of Dodge Brothers' Class A common, and one share of Chrysler common for each 10 shares of Dodge Brothers' Class B common.

Dodge Brothers reported assets of $131,569,000, and the Chrysler Corporation of $103,894,000 as of Dec. 31, 1927.

The Chrysler corporation will assume all outstanding liabilities of Dodge Brothers, Inc., including the balance remaining of $57,276,000 6 per cent debenture bonds.

The Chrysler Corporation was formed through a merger of the Maxwell and Chalmers Motor Car Cos. Under the leadership of Walter Chrysler, it has been termed one of the most successful motor car companies in the industry.

On the Stock Exchange today Chrysler common rose 8 points to a new year's high at 88½, and Dodge Brothers preferred was lifted more than 13 points to a new peak for the year at 83.

Wall street also heard that negotiations for a merger of Jordan Motor Car Co. and Pierce Arrow Motor Car Co. were approaching conclusion. Edward S. Jordan, president of Jordan Motor Car, while not denying possibility of a merger, declined to discuss the subject.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., May 29.—Dodge Brothers, Inc., acquisition of which was approved today by directors of the Chrysler Corporation, was formed in May, 1925, when Dillon, Read & Co. of New York purchased the company from the heirs of John F. and Horace E. Dodge in one of the largest commercial deals in industrial history. The purchase price was $146,000,000. The Dodge plant at the time was the third largest automobile plant in the world.

U. S. A FOUR-AND-A-HALF BILLION DOLLAR COUNTRY

Appropriations for Running Government Next Year $4,643,293,897, Rise of $627,304,961.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The cost of Federal Government has got back to a better than $4,500,000,000 basis, the Seventieth Congress having appropriated the staggering total of $4,642,293,897.57 to carry on affairs in the next fiscal year. This exceeded the appropriations for this year by $627,304,961.17.

Of the grand total, $1,356,752,735.53 will go to cover annual fixed charges, such as interest on the public debt, leaving $3,283,540,162.04 for carrying on the active departments and agencies of the Government. Of this sum, however, $200,936,668.02 represents deficiencies which occurred this year.

Despite this increase in expenditures, Congress has reduced Federal taxes $222,495,000 for next year, corporations getting the bulk of the reduction.

PUBLIC UTILITIES SCHOOL COURSE PROFESSOR'S IDEA

WORK IN DAKOTAS UNDER INQUIRY

North Central Electric Association Spends $15,000 to $20,000 a Year on Publicity.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The Federal Trade Commission in its investigation of power utilities today turned to activities in Minnesota and the Dakotas, calling John W. Lapham, executive secretary of the information bureau of the North Central Electric Association. This committee spends, he said, from $15,000 to $20,000 annually, and receives the money from member companies. Only one news bulletin had been issued, he said, of which 1100 copies were sent to members and newspapers.

Included in the association's membership list were Professors W. T. Ryan and E. H. Stewart of the University of Minnesota, and Ralph T. Patty and Harold Crothers of the South Dakota State College at Brookings. Lapham said that Ryan, a professor of electrical engineering, was chairman of the association's educational committee.

Lapham testified that Professor Ryan, who teaches a utility course at the university, in 1926 suggested to him that the National Electric Light Association sponsor the establishment of public utility courses in colleges throughout the country.

A letter from Ryan to Lapham was introduced in that connection, in which he wrote, "I would like to see the National Electric Light Association co-operate on a larger scale with the engineering schools in giving courses having to do with public utilities, particularly public utility economics."

Professor's Expenses Paid.

Lapham said that his organization had paid the expenses of Prof. Ryan to attend a meeting in Chicago in January, 1927, called by Carl D. Jackson, chairman of the National Electric Light Association's committee on co-operation with educational institutions. In a letter dated Dec. 16, 1926, Ryan wrote Lapham that he hesitated to "again ask your organization to pay my traveling expenses," but that if the organization could pay them he would accept. He wrote that he thought Jackson would have some constructive ideas on co-operation with educational institutions.

The witness said that his organization had succeeded in having short courses on public utility problems established at the University of Minnesota and other institutions in his territory for the employes of power concerns.

Lapham said the textbooks used in North and South Dakota and Minnesota schools had not been surveyed by his organization, but added that he understood they would be examined in the future by the National Electric Light Association. He said that power executives had made addresses to engineering students at the University of Minnesota on utility subjects.

Paid His Way to Geneva.

Lapham said Prof. Stewart represented the University of Minnesota and the National Electric Light Association at the World Power Conference in Geneva in 1926 and that his expenses, amounting to $1485, had been paid by his association. He said Stewart was an instructor of agricultural engineering at the University of Minnesota Agricultural College and project director of the Red Wing (Minn.) rural experiment line, which conducted experiments to show that farm electrification was a paying proposition. The association had paid the university $5000 in 1925, $5000 in 1926 and $2500 so far this year for research and experimental work in rural electrification, Lapham testified.

Small payments for traveling expenses, Lapham testified, were made to Prof. Donald G. Patterson of the University of Minnesota and Mrs. Willard Baylies of Chisholm, Minn., president of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs. Lapham said he had made no attempt to influence legislation.

Marshaling of Lawyers.

Telegrams went out from Washington, it was disclosed today, as soon as the Senate had ordered the investigation. They dealt with marshaling of lawyers and interest as to who would conduct the inquiry as well as the presiding officer, and were sent by Josiah T. Newcomb, counsel-general for the joint committee of National Utilities Associations to a long list of individuals. The telegrams showed that Newcomb marshaled 22 lawyers in Washington, Feb. 20, 1928, four days after the Walsh resolution had been referred to the Federal Trade Commission.

Activities of New York Power

The diverse activities of the New York Power Utility Publicity organization were looked into yesterday. The developments included testimony concerning the fight of the utilities against Gov. Smith's campaign for State water authority, and the disclosure that the National Electric Light Association had sponsored a nation-wide survey of text books, with the purpose of revising them, if necessary, in their relation to the industry.

Fred W. Crone of New York, director of the New York State Committee on Public Utility Information, and Charles H. B. Chapin of New York, secretary of the Empire State Gas and Electric Association, were the witnesses.

Chapin testified that a committee from his organization had appeared before the New York Board of Education in an effort to have public utility courses placed in the schools, and that a number of college professors had received payments for radio and other talks in behalf of the utilities. He said his organization spent about $33,000 a year.

Crone revealed that, since 1922, his organization had spent $227,000 carrying on public relations; had distributed hundreds of thousands of pamphlets to New York citizens, schools and banks, besides sending news bulletins to 1000 newspapers and receiving large space in news and editorial columns.

Produced a Text Book.

Another development in Crone's testimony and documents introduced in that connection was that Edward Hungerford, formerly of Rochester, had co-operated with the Rochester Board of Education and various public utilities in producing a text book which is now being used in Rochester schools. In addition it was brought out that Mrs. Henry G. Danforth of Washington, president of the Board of Education, wrote the foreword and that the book was copyrighted in the name of the Children's Memorial Scholarship Fund, Inc.

Another development was that a survey of text books was made in New York in 1924. At that time J. B. Sheridan of St. Louis, director of the Missouri Committee on Public Utility Information, and chairman of the National Electric Light Association's subcommittee in charge of the book surveys, sent a letter, presented in the testimony, informing Crone of the purpose of the survey.

The object, he wrote, "is to accurately inform ourselves of the nature of matter dealing with the public utility industry in these textbooks, and, if found necessary, to take up the matter of revising, rewriting and bringing up to date the textbooks with the proper authorities.

Water Power Authority Fight.

Crone testified that the utilities were opposed to Gov. Smith's proposal for water power authority, and that he had written and distributed more than 200,000 copies of two pamphlets urging the development of the streams in New York for water power under private control.

Minutes of the meeting, April 22, 1927, of the Executive Committee, placed in the record, showed that the committee planned to place women members in the New York League of Women Voters in order to get copies of the league's publications said to contain publicity for municipal ownership of utilities.

Rochester Utilities Paid for Book Used in Schools.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 29.—Public utilities interests in Rochester paid $15,000 to underwrite publication of "The Story of Public Utilities" used in Rochester public schools, F. W. Fisher, director of public relations of the Rochester Gas and Electric Company, said today.

The book, written by Edward Hungerford, came under inquiry yesterday at the hearing conducted by the Federal Trade Commission at Washington into the use of propaganda by utility interests.

Herbert S. West, superintendent of schools, today said there was no propaganda in the book.

GEORGIA NEGRO BEAT WHITE MAN FOR HOOVER JOB

Ben J. Davis, G. O. P. National Committeeman, Tells Senators How He Won Domination.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—How the Negro National Committeeman for Georgia successfully fought white domination of his campaign activities in favor of Herbert Hoover was told today by Ben J. Davis, the committeeman.

Testifying before the Senate Elections Committee, Davis related how the fight between himself and Clark Greer of Washington, who, he said, tried to run the campaign, ended with Davis getting $2200 from Rush L. Holland, former Assistant Attorney-General and a Hoover campaign leader.

Davis came to Washington to lay his trouble before Postmaster-General New and Perpry W. Howard, Negro National Committeeman from Mississippi. They sent him to Holland, who gave him a total of $2200, of which $200 was for expenses.

The witness, who said he was editor of the Atlanta Independent, first testified he had used the money for campaign expenses, then that he had given it to the treasurer of the State committee and to the committee itself. He corrected his statement that he had not deposited any of the money in banks and said $1000 had been so deposited.

Davis said he had kept no account of how he spent the money, but followed this by saying the money went to his State committee. He had received $750 from J. H. Watson, another Negro political worker of Georgia, he testified.

Fight With White Man.

The fight with Greer started, Davis said, when the white man appeared in Georgia with the announcement he was there to run the Hoover campaign. Davis refused to work with him and said the campaign did not "get into the hands" of Greer.

Finally questioned by Senator Bratton (Dem.), New Mexico, Davis remembered another $200 a man named Flanders had given him. He spent this as he had the Watson money without keeping track of where it went. Asked how he had spent the $1150 collected as expenses from Holland, Watson and Flanders, he said it was to "reimburse myself for trips."

"What was the occasion of spending $3000 of Hoover money in Georgia?" asked Bratton, who had drawn from the witness that there were only three contests in the State. Davis said the $2000 was used to pay expenses of the delegates to the State convention. Watson, he said, chosen delegate-at-large on the Hoover ticket, was reported to have changed his mind and now was said to oppose Hoover. The $2000, he said, was turned over to John W. Martin of Atlanta

Family Controls Paper.

Davis said, under Bratton's questions, that he and his family controlled the Independent. The paper did not run advertising for Hoover. It did publish calls by the national and State Republican committees, he said, and received $1.25 an inch for them.

Senator McMaster of South Dakota, took over the questioning and Davis insisted he had not drawn up a Hoover slate, saying all the delegates to the State convention favored Hoover. One of the delegates at large named Hendrix, he said, contributed $1000 and it was believed he ought to be selected to go to Kansas City.

Howard testified he had received or would receive $5000 in all from the Hoover campaign organization to be used in his activities on behalf of the Commerce Secretary's presidential campaign. He took exception when asked if he had not been paid $2000, saying that he had been "allowed" the money. Of the amount, $2000 was given to him by Holland for use in Mississippi. He received $2000 for his office expenses here and had $1000 more due from the Hoover nations, headquarters.

Congress to Quit Today; Senate in Row

Sharp Exchanges Between Pair.

"We will give you another if you go on now, sir," Johnson declared.

"We have given you one; we will give you another," Bruce announced in the manner of a small boy.

"Well, go on, you are at liberty to give another, if you can," Johnson challenged.

"I resent the insinuation that was contained in the suggestion that I entered into any agreement with anybody in respect to this matter. The implication ought never to have been uttered on this floor and I resent it being uttered in respect to me."

Then came the dramatic moment. "I have made a fight on this bill," Johnson declared with fervor. "I made the best fight of which I was capable. I have been whipped; but, by heaven, there is another day and somebody else may be whipped on that other day."

The galleries broke into prolonged applause at this stand and the Vice President rapped in vain for order.

Robinson Gets Into Fray.

During the confusion, Robinson obtained recognition.

"I want to make a fair suggestion," Robinson began, referring to his suggestion that the Boulder Dam project be temporarily laid aside, "One that can work harm to no one; that does injustice to no one and it will relieve the Senate of great difficulty and very many embarrassments. I trust there will be no objection to it."

"I object," Bruce shouted. From the gallery it looked as though Robinson lost his temper at this move from Bruce. With his eyes directly on Bruce, he said, "Mr. President, I sugest to the Senator from California that he move to proceed with the consideration of another bill and I pledge him that if he secures recognition and moves to proceed to the consideration of what is now the unfinished business, I will vote for it and every member on this side, with the exception of the Senator from Maryland, will vote for it, and his bill will be the unfinished business when the Senate adjourns at 5:30."

Tumult again broke out. Cries of "vote, vote" resounded through the chamber. Robinson, like a cheer leader at a football game, egged the Democrats on. Fainter cries of "Regular order, regular order" were heard, but Robinson continued to shout for a vote. Bruce was resentful of this almost unprecedented procedure on the part of his leader. He had been put in the same isolation as his bitter enemy, Heflin of Alabama, had been put in several months ago when he defied Robinson.

Norris Offers Some Advice.

Norris of Nebraska, one of the best parliamentarians on the floor, pointed out that while he would gladly support the Senator from Arkansas, the Robinson suggestion would make the motion take up the unfinished business debatable, a fact of which Bruce could take advantage.

On the advice of Smoot and Watson, two die-hard Republicans, Johnson moved that his bill should come up under a special order on the first day of the Congress convening in December.

Bruce again objected. "I am as much opposed to this suggestion as I was to the last," he declared. "I cannot see why any concession of any kind should be made to the Senator from California. He should take as the rest of us do, the hazards of parliamentary procedure.

Bruce Assails Boulder Bill.

"I am opposed to his bill. No bill is pending in this body to which I am more profoundly, more bitterly antagonistic than I am to his bill. The Senators from Arizona are no more opposed to it than I am. Why, therefore, should I be expected to acquiesce in this proposal simply because somebody rises here and, with vim and violent gestures, endeavor to place me in a position of parliamentary isolation? I have my own convictions about this matter, and I propose to adhere to them; and, as I say, if the Senator had entered into any understanding about the course which things were to take here I should feel entirely differently; I should have the generosity that any successful antagonistic should always have; but there was nothing of the sort. He did everything in his power to bring this bill—highly obnoxious to me and other members of this body—to a vote. He failed, and he should take the consequences of failure; and I say that I can see no reason why this bill should enjoy a privileged status at the beginning of the next session, only to be an obstruction and a nuisance, as I look at it, again as it has been during the present session."

Again the cries of "vote, vote," resounded through the chamber. Robinson of Arkansas called for the yeas and nays.

"You can howl yeas and nays until you are black in the face; I have the floor," Bruce shouted.

Reed of Missouri stated that he rose to a point of order, apparently in defense of Bruce's parliamentary position. Before he could start, however, La Follette, the youngest member of the Senate, appealed to his elder for dignity.

La Follette Denounces Tactics.

"I object to these tactics," La Follette declared. "I make the point of order that the Senator from Maryland was addressing the chair. The body has a certain dignity to maintain and its rules must be kept in their integrity.

Bruce, who is antagonistic to all the La Follette legislative ideas, observed, "the Senator from Wisconsin has spoken in the manly spirit in which he always speaks. It is very pleasant, indeed, to find that when I am subjected to little short of indignity and impulse by the leader of my own side, that there is on the other side still an individual prepared to see that I receive the proper measure of justice."

Several Senators again called for a vote, but when they learned that Bruce could retain the floor and prevent a vote they desisted. Finally Bruce yielded to Borah, who called for an executive session. Thus ended the most riotous half hour the Senate has seen for years.

The two Missouri Senators, Reed and Hawes, switched their vote on the adjournment resolution. Yesterday they both voted against adjournment, presumably to give the conferees on the inland waters corporation bill, time to reach an agreement on the Senate amendments. Today they voted for adjournment.

Arizonans Make 21-Hour Fight Against Boulder Dam Bill.

Ashurst and Hayden held the Senate in the firm grip of a filibuster for more than 21 hours in the struggle of physical endurance, against the proposal to construct a huge dam at Boulder Canyon in the Colorado River.

First one, then the other, took the floor, while Johnson (Rep.) California, leader of the forces advocating passage of the bill, stood helplessly by as the debate went in. Reinforced occasionally by supporters, the Arizonans stood firm. All throuhg the night, with no rest except for an hour or two necessary to muster a Senate quorum, Ashurst talked giving little evidence of the strain he was undergoing. This morning at 9:40 o'clock, he surrendered the filibuster to Hayden, a newcomer to the Senate.

On the other side Johnson kept a sharp eye open for any break in the filibuster to jump in for a demand that the voting begin but the chances for a final decision were far off because of the innumerable amendments offered by Ashurst which first must be acted on.

Lounging against the front of a desk, his tall, sturdy figure held erect and his words delivered in a slow, conversational tone, Ashurst made good his threat to use every ounce of his energy and endurance to prevent passage of the bill, which was passed by the House last week.

Hayden Holds Floor 7 Hours.

Hayden, who held the lines for seven hours yesterday and last night, came back seemingly as fresh and strong as ever. He was armed with quantities of documents and carefully prepared manuscripts with which to carry on against the silent, insistent pressure exerted by Senator Johnson in his effort to force either a vote on the bill or an agreement that it be made the unfinished business of the Senate at the beginning of the winter session of Congress.

Between them, the two Arizona Senators, who charged that the bill is an injustice to their State, held up proceedings of the Senate since 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They had brief help from Heflin of Alabama and Blease of South Carolina, but the bulk of the burden of delay fell upon Ashurst, leader of the Arizona-Utah forces in the Senate opposing the Boulder dam bill.

At one time, the Arizona Senator gave way to permit a handful of Senate bills, approved by the House with amendments, to go through, Johnson agreeing to lift the filibuster bars for a moment or two.

The Senate was prepared with plenty of advance notice on the Boulder Dam filibuster and committee rooms in the Capitol were improvised dormitories for the Senators who remained all night on the job. Most of them went home in relays for a little sleep.

The proposed engineering investigation of the Boulder Canyon dam site by a board of five engineers was approved today by the House with the passage of the Pittman resolution. The measure now goes to the President.

SHIPS AND PLANE START NORTHWARD TO SEEK ITALIA

plans, one rescue expedition got under way hoping to reach Kings Bay late this week.

Capt. Riiser-Larsen, who took charge of the main Norwegian relief expedition, thinks the Italia came down on the ice somewhere north of Spitsbergen. He thinks an air survey of this district offers the best prospects of finding the dirigible since every meteorological condition seems to point to the Italia's being north of its base.

Wilkins Offers Help.

Capt. George H. Wilkins and Lieut. Carl B. Eielson, who flew from Alaska to Spitsbergen, volunteered their services in search to Premier Mussolini of Italy. They also participated in conferences for expeditions as did other men with knowledge of the Polar regions, such as Roald Amundsen and Capt. Otto Sverdrup. Wilkins and Eielson sent this message to Mussolini:

"Learning that the Norwegian Government has placed Capt. Riiser-Larsen at the head of an expedition at your disposal, we realize that everything will be done in a most competent manner. If it is considered that the services of our machine or ourselves can be of the least aid to our friend Nobile, please consider us yours to command.

"If my services are required," Wilkins added, "I will gladly fly to Spitzbergen, search its east coast, and then go on to Northeast Land as I think it likely that Nobile and his party landed there. If that search proves vain, I will fly on to Franz Joseph Land and Nova Zembla."

Amundsen's Chief Aid.

Riiser-Larsen was the right hand man of Amundsen and Ellsworth in the Norge expedition across the North Pole in 1926. He has much experience in flying in Arctic regions and also is a dirigible expert.

Soviet Explains How S O S Calls Were Sent.

Tass, the official Soviet News Agency, has explained that messages from Siberia reporting the Italia in distress which were picked up in California, were broadcast in response to a wireless message sent to all Siberian stations by the Soviet Aviation Commission. This message notified them of the plight of the airship and added:

"Instruct population of necessity to give aid. Efforts to make radio contact with airship imperative. Any news must be reported to Aviation Commission, Moscow."

Prof. Golovstchikoff of the Far Eastern University at Vladivostok, presumably was ordered by President Chukaiev of Khabarovsk to broadcast a message in five languages instructing all Siberian authorities to rush aid to the Italia in event she were located.

Every radio station in Norway and Russia, particularly in Siberia, tried to catch some radio message from the Italia, but nothing was heard.

OPEN SEA FOUND NEAR NORTH POLE, SAYS MEMBER OF ITALIA'S BASE CREW

By the Associated Press.

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 29.

One of the base crew of the missing dirigible Italia told the Associated Press correspondent today that the explorers had made a deep sounding near the pole, finding open water.

It was recalled that Roald Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth found open water at 88 degrees north longitude. The base crew member said that very few reports had been received from the Italia when she was going to the Pole or after she arrived there.

FARM RELIEF FIGHT AT G. O. P. CONVENTION

Spokesmen of Two Organizations Declare They Will Carry Issue to Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 29.—From [illegible] sources today came announcements that supporters of farm relief legislation would carry their fight to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City next month.

In Chicago, M. J. Tobin, who was keynoter at the Iowa State Republican convention, issued a statement that 14 agricultural states have organized a committee to present their plea for farm aid to the national convention.

At St. Paul, Minn., announcement was made by J. F. [illegible] president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, that farmers of that State would mobilize [illegible] in the next fortnight in four sections, preparatory to going to Kansas City.

The 14-State organization announced in Chicago is composed, Tobin said, of supporters of Frank O. Lowden and of the favorite candidates, Senators Watson, Indiana, and Curtis, Kansas.

The Tobin statement said:

"We want the farmers to have a chance to get away from 'deep distress they have suffered' as stated in the 1924 platform.

"The party is facing the greatest crisis in its history. If Republican party leaders will listen to the voice of the West and heed the demand for economic justice, victory will follow. But if they continue to be indifferent to the needs and requirements of the corn belt and farming states [illegible] then defeat is invited and disaster will follow."

States represented on the committee, Tobin said, are: Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Missouri, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma and Montana.

On the delegation are R. W. Bolling, brother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson; Breckinridge Long, formerly of St. Louis, an assistant Secretary of State in the Wilson administration; Mrs. George Marye, wife of the former Ambassador to Russia; John F. UNION ELECTRIC CHANGES IN RATES WILL BE APPROVED

State Public Service Commission to Issue Order Today Making Them Effective Friday.

CITY ACQUIESCES BUT WANTS AUDIT

Muench Desires to Know If Small Consumers Should Not Be Included in Reductions.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 29.—An order will be issued today by the State Public Service Commission approving the new rate schedule of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis, effective next Friday.

The new schedule provides no reduction for the 221,000 residence consumers of electricity in St. Louis, whom the company feels got the benefit of the lowest possible rates in 1923.

There is an estimated reduction of $691,000 a year in the bills for current for wholesale, industrial and commercial power users and for 157 consumers of steam heat supplied by the company, the latter saving about $102,000.

Outside St. Louis and St. Louis County, in scattered communities of Franklin, St. Charles, Jefferson and St. Francois Counties, the new schedules will reduce bills of residence consumers about $27,000 a year.

The company does not anticipate a reduction in revenue as a result of the new rates, since the industries and other users affected are expected to take more current.

It was learned by the Post-Dispatch last March that the Public Service Commission was investigating Union Electric's rate structure and accounts, for guidance in considering a new schedule. After informal conferences between the commissioners and company representatives, the company decided to file the reduction schedules. It had been shown that Union Electric made a profit in 1927 that was $927,142, or 21 per cent, greater than in 1926.

The new rate schedules probably will cause postponement of a full valuation of the company by the commission for a determination as to whether it was obtaining a fair or excessive return.

Muench Thinks New Schedule Is Too Low; to Seek Audit.

The city wants an "audit and investigation" to determine whether the rate cut will be large enough to bring its earnings within a fair return on a fair valuation and to see whether domestic consumers should not have been included.

City Counselor Muench, in a letter to the Public Service Commission, declares that he does not think that $691,000 is a large enough cut and feels that small consumers should have some benefit in the cut. He notified the commission that he would soon submit a formal motion to that effect. Meanwhile, he says, the city does not object to the cut, as proposed, going into effete on Friday, because a large number of consumers will gain some benefits.

The company last year earned 3.14 per cent on a valuation of $58,000,000, which, however, is its own estimate of its value, the commission having set no figure since 1919.

The new rates are calculated by the company to be productive of the following savings among large users: $199,524 a year, or 8.14 per cent to 126 power users; $355,139, or 7.59 per cent, to 26,700 store and office building owners; $24,500, or 2.69 per cent, to 320 industrial power users, and $102,504, or 15 per cent, to 157 steam heat customers.

GOVERNMENT HELD TO BLAME IN COTTON MARKET COLLAPSE

Preliminary Report to Senate Places Responsibility on Farm Department Bureau.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Direct responsibility for the cotton market collapse in 1927, which cost American cotton growers losses estimated at from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000, is placed on the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Agriculture, in a preliminary report filed with the Senate today by the Agricultural Subcommittee, which spent three months investigating the subject.

A downward price trend prediction issued by the bureau on Sept. 15 and the estimate of cotton carry-over for the year, which the subcommittee finds to have been probably as high as 800,000 bales overestimated, were the chief factors in precipitating the decline, the committee found.

Its report specifically denied, however, that the committee was charging "any sinister motive" prompting issuance of these official statements.

KIDNAPED DOCTOR SLAIN BY ROBBERS

DR. W. W. WINEINGER.

THE Dighton (Kan.) physician was one of three persons killed by robbers who raided a bank at Lamar, Colo., last Wednesday and escaped, kidnaping him to force him to treat one of their number who had been wounded.

Posses today abandoned the search for the fugitives in Western Kansas. Hope that Everett A. Kessinger, assistant cashier of the bank, whom the bandits carried away as a hostage, would be found alive, virtually has been abandoned.

A Kansas farmer's wife said the desperadoes invaded her home and stripped part of her clothing off to make bandages for their wounded companion. The woman's home is between Garden City, Kan. and Dighton, Kan., the town from which Dr. Wineinger was kidnaped.

The loot in the robbery, according to the latest compilation, was $76,560 in bonds and $10,000 in cash.

on the St. Louis County Bank for a comprehensive statement showing a complete accounting of those transactions, together with a statement of his two accounts—as Sheriff and as Albert A. Wilmas, personal.

The special grand jury has plenty of work cut out for it. Besides the Sheriff's activities and secret income, it will be called upon to investigate conditions of alleged bootlegging under official protection in St. Ferdinand township, as disclosed in sworn testimony last week in the trial of Henry Ronsick, ex-convict and associate of deputy constables in bootlegging. And whisky running, gambling and other law violations at which officials are said to have winked in other parts of the county will be looked into.

Circuit Judge Mulloy called the special grand jury after disclosure of the Sheriff's secret income in Sunday's Post-Dispatch. He did not indicate who would conduct the grand jury. County officials do not think this work will be placed in the hands of Prosecuting Attorney Fred Mueller, and it is almost certain Sheriff Wilmas will have no part in drawing the panel.

Judge Mulloy and Prosecuting Attorney Mueller are candidates for the Republican nomination for Circuit Judge, subject to the August primaries, and Sheriff Wilmas has told friends he would seek the Republican nomination for County Assessor at the August primary.

As told yesterday, Sheriff Wilmas did not report his income from secret sources in his State income tax returns in the last three years, and State Auditor Thompson has promised an investigation of this delinquency. His State tax and penalties on the mysterious $30,000 would amount to about $500.

And in the end there looms the likelihood of a Federal grand jury investigation, as United States District Attorney Breuer has said he would make a preliminary investigation of the Sheriff's concealment of the $30,000 from the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Wilmas' payment of tax and civil penalty, as has been pointed out, does not estop criminal prosecution for "willful failure" to file a Federal income tax return, conviction of which carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Meanwhile a special group of Federal prohibition agents continues its inquiry in the county, under way for two months, into reports of official protection to liquor law violators.

Speaking of crime conditions in the county, Judge Mulloy, at a political meeting in Brentwood last night, said perjury was committed in 75 or 80 per cent of criminal cases and went unwhipped of justice. He is in favor of going after the perjurer.

Effective law enforcement, he said, could not be had except by inculcating into the mids of criminals a fear of the law. In this day and age of lawlessness, he added, "we find corruption everywhere, and to make the subject more appalling, we find it even among officers, high and low."

MAPLEWOOD BANK TELLER MISSING, $4384 SHORTAGE

Edward Cover, 28, Has Not Been Seen Since Examination by State Auditors on May 15.

Edward Cover, 28-year-old teller at the Bank of Maplewood, 7372 Manchester avenue, has been missing since May 15, and last night it became known that a $4384 discrepancy in the bank's books had been discovered.

Cover put on his hat and left the bank two hours after State bank examiners had appeared there to make a routine examination. He told another bank employe he was going out for a drink of water and would be back in a few minutes, but he failed to return.

Learning of this last night, Chief Deputy Constable Charles Boenecke went to the bank and found the directors in conference. N. B. Baker, president, said the authorities had not been notified as private detectives were conducting an investigation. Boenecke was informed that Cover frequented a gambling house in the South End of St. Louis County. Another report is that he attended the dog races.

President Baker today told the Post-Dispatch that $4384 had been taken in two consecutive days; $2100 from a cash drawer on a Monday, and the rest on Tuesday, the day the bank examiners appeared and the teller disappeared. Baker said he had regarded Cover as a man of exemplary habits, and was surprised to hear later that he gambled.

Cover was underbond, and the loss has been adjusted by the surety company, Baker added.

Cover and his wife, who also is away, lived at 7406 Elm avenue, Maplewood. Two days after they left, a time-payment store took back their furniture. Cover's landlord was told that Cover and his wife had gone to Kansas City. On the day he quit the bank, Cover bought a second-hand automobile.

Cover had been employed at the bank for nearly three years. His wife formerly worked there as a bookkeeper. Her parents live at Nashville, Ill., and private detectives went there but found no trace of the missing teller and his wife.

ST. LOUISAN LEADS MARINES WHEN CAPTAIN IS SHOT

of the National Guard was struck by a dumdum bullet and killed instantly. Gunnery Sergeant Ollie R. Blackburn of Portland, Me., Sergeant Charles Pelz, whose next of kin is a brother, also a marine, and Private Willie E. Hood of New Orleans, were the only three men who could get in a good firing position because of the lay of the land. They bore the brunt of the assault and drove the attackers back. A few minutes later the firing ceased and the insurgents disappeared.

Husky Arm Saves the Day.

The marines started forward again and violent firing broke out on the right flank. The insurgents continued their attack for about an hour and then fled. The individual work of Private James P. Harison of London, Ky., and Sergeant Gerald R. Brown of Kansas City with grenades was largely responsible for the final driving back of the Sandino men. Brown is a six-footer with such a husky arm that the other marines handed him their grenades to hurl in addition to his own.

With the retirement of the Nicaraguans, Lieut. Piper moved his column into La Flor, intending to evacuate the wounded as soon as possible. Capt. Hunter was greatly weakened from being moved but appeared to be gaining in strength up to the hour of his death at 3:25 a. m. on May 18. He was buried at La Flor.

Worthy of Corps Traditions.

Lieut. Piper and all of the noncommissioned officers and men of his command spoke in the highest terms of their dead Captain, saying his conduct, military judgment, personal bravery and fortitude when wounded were an example worthy of the best traditions of the corps. Lieut. Piper's own actions and his handling of the situation have elicited a special letter from his superiors.

These men have been especially mentioned for their bravery and conduct under fire: Pharmacist's Mate Young, Gunnery Sergeant Blackburn, Sergt. Charles Pelz, Private Hood, Sergt. Charles L. Arndt of New York City, Corp. Clayton W. Cox, Private Michael T. Fisher of Albany, N. Y.; Private James P. Harrison, Corp. Spencer T. Honyust of Falls View, Can.; Sergt. Brown and Private Parish.

It was estimated that 75 to 100 Nicaraguans took part in the encounter and their casualties were 15 dead and 18 wounded.

Corporal Williamson Will Be Buried in St. Louis.

As has been told, Corp. Williamson was the son of Mrs. Florence McGee, 1213 Mason street. He was 28 years old and enlisted in the marines two years ago. He had been in Nicaragua eight months when killed. The body will be returned to St. Louis as soon as disinterment can be made.

SPHINX MOUNTAIN SLIDING INTO RIVER; RAILROAD DAMAGED

Track of Northern Pacific in Montana Carried 100 Feet Toward Stream.

By the Associated Press.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., May 29.—A part of Sphinx Mountain, 41 miles south of here, today was still sliding into the Yellowstone River, carrying with it a section of a branch line of the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Track walkers discovered the slide last night. They said the track had been carried nearly 100 feet. Should the movement continue, the track would fall about 200 feet into the stream.

Sphinx Mountain is a short distance north of the Gardiner entrance to Yellowstone National Park.

12-STORY BUILDING PLANNED ON OLIVE IF ALLEY IS VACATED

Henry R. Weisels Says Project Would Be East of Missouri Pacific Structure.

Construction of a 12-story office building at a cost of $1,500,000, just east of the Missouri Pacific Building on Olive street, is contingent upon vacation by the city of an alley, Henry R. Weisels, realty operator in charge of the deal, said today.

Weisels appeared before the aldermanic committee on streets to urge vacation of the alley. If the alley is vacated, Weisels said, the office building will extend from Olive to Pine, fronting 50 feet on Olive and 39 on Pine. In return for the alley ground, the city will be given an alley site, of equal width and length, farther east in the block.

Original plans for a building to extend from the Missouri Pacific structure to Twelfth boulevard have been blocked, according to Weisels, by the refusal of one property owner to sell or lease a small lot.

The aldermanic committee will inspect the ground before taking any action on the proposed vacation of the alley.

7-YEAR-OLD GIRL KIDNAPED, KILLED, THROWN ON PORCH

Child's Body Left at Door of Uncle's Residence in Toledo, O., Short Time After Abduction.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., May 29.—A man early today entered the home of Alex Sielagowski here and took Dorothy, 7 years old, from the bed where she was sleeping with her three sisters, carried her to his automobile, attacked and killed her and then 20 minutes later threw the body of the porch of the home of her uncle, Joe Skibinski, a few doors from the child's home.

Police immediately started search for a "small man in a black suit," whom Sielagowski said he saw drive away from in front of the home a few minutes after the abduction of the child. Sielagowski said he also saw a small covered auto truck stop in front of the home.

The automobile in which Dorothy was slain was recovered shortly before noon. Dust covering a rear window showed the imprint of a child's hand. There were stains on the rear seat and upholstering, and on the windshield and front seat. Police hope to find finger prints which would give them a clew to the slayer.

The child's father and two brothers were asleep in a front bedroom. Police said the slayer apparently was acquainted with the Sielagowski home as they entered it through a back door, which was opened with a key.

Creeping up the stairway, the man seized the child. A sister, Stella, was awakened and cried "They're taking Dorothy away." The children awakened the father, who saw the automobile drive away.

The father said that about 20 minutes after the child was abducted he saw two automobiles drive up in front of the Skibinski home. He thought nothing of it and immediately left for Police Headquarters. Returning with officers he noticed a huddled figure on the Skibinski porch and investigating found the body of his child.

The Coroner returned a verdict of death by strangulation.

TOM KEARNEY'S CIGAR STORE AGAIN RAIDED AS HANDBOOK

Three Other Places, Including One Conducted for Ex-Constable Bush, Visited by Police.

Tom Kearney, widely known betting commisioner, whose cigar store headquarters is at 407 Walnut street, was arrested again yesterday in one of the intermittent police raids on racing handbooks.

Arrested quite frequently, Kearney is sent to Police Court, charged with vagrancy and invariably discharged because of the inability of the police to prove vagrancy within the meaning of the law. Three other men were arrested in Kearney's store.

Former Constable Floyd Bush was arrested in an alleged handbook establishment at 15 North Seventh street and three other alleged handbooks also were raided.

WARRANT FOR DR. SAYMAN CHARGES SHOOTING OF DOG

Soap Maker Also Accused of Discharging Weapon in City Limits; Admits Firing Shot.

An information under the city ordinance covering cruelty to animals was issued today against Dr. Thomas M. Sayman, 5399 Lindell boulevard, wealthy soap manufacturer, by Assistant City Counselor Alvin F. Hackman.

Dr. Sayman is accused by Green Hunter, a Negro of 4476 West Belle avenue, of shooting one of Hunter's dogs in the nose as Hunter and two other Negroes were exercising them on property adjoining Sayman's home on April 29.

The case will be set for Police Court No. 1 some time within two weeks. A charge of discharging firearms in the city also was brought against Dr. Sayman.

In an informal hearing in the Prosecuting Attorney's office, when the case was first being investigated, Dr. Sayman admitted he fired the shot, but said he did so against a concrete wall and then only to frighten the Negroes and dogs away, when they failed to comply with his request that they leave.

DRAWS $1000 FOR WEDDING; FIANCEE AND MONEY MISSING

George Gacec Reports Loss of Savings From 14 Years in Mines, in East St. Louis.

On their way to a bank and to the marriage license office, George Gacec's prospective bride disappeared at noon today in East St. Louis, and with her went $1000, the bulk of his savings after 14 years' work in the coal mines at Zeigler, Ill., he reported to East St. Louis police.

Two weeks ago, Gacec related to the police, an attractive woman of 30, with black bobbed hair, who said she was Anne Kovac, and a disabled man who represented himself as her brother, George, struck up an acquaintance with him in Ziegler. Within a short time they were talking of marriage. She mentioned she had $2000 in the bank and property in Michigan. Gacec disclosed he had saved $1200.

Yesterday, Gacec related, he came to East St. Louis to meet her. They planned to get married immediately and she persuaded him to return to Ziegler to get his money to deposit in a joint account in East St. Louis. He spent $17 for taxi fare to Ziekler and back. This morning, he said, she turned over to him a canvas bag, ostensibly containing her $2000 and his $1000. On the way to the bank she remembered she had left $400 in her room. Gacec ran back. He could not find the money. He opened the canvas bag and found it stuffed with newspaper clippings. He ran to the State street corner, where he had left his prospective bride and her brother. They were gone.

FATHER DELIVERS GIRL RUNAWAYS TO POLICE

They Are Held After Series of "Tours," Latest Through Stores.

The wanderings of Violet and Celia Jesionowski, 11 and 9 years old, who a week ago were enjoying a life of untrammeled freedom in Carondelet Park, have ended, temporarily, in the House of Detention.

Yesterday morning, looking for new worlds to explore, they turned to downtown shops and spent the day roaming through department stores, with a younger brother, Zigmund, 8, and a sister, Helen, 6, again in tow, as they were in the Carondelet Park episode.

Their homecoming last night, however, was similar to their return from the two-day expedition to Carondelet Park and from other unauthorized "tours." Besides the frowns of their father, John Jesionowski, a laborer, a policeman awaited them in their home at 6813 Pennsylvania avenue.

Last week, after their sojourn of three nights and two days in Carondelet Park, a policeman lectured them and told them never to leave home again without permission of their parents.

This time there was no lecture. Jesionowski, the father of nine children, held Wallet—as Violet is called at home—and Celia responsible for the periodic wanderings of the younger two and turned them over to police to let the Juvenile Court attempt to do what he had failed—keep Violet and Celia from straying and in school. They are held awaiting action of the Court.

Yesterday morning the father told the policeman they took 40 cents from their mother's purse to finance their trip to the department stores.

FIREMEN CALLED TO ARREST MAN PERCHED ON OWN ROOF

Lorenz Simmons fled to the peak of his attic roof when police went to his home at 2326 Watson road yesterday afternoon on complaint of his wife that he was disturbing her peace.

Police, fearing Simmons might jump or fall, tried to coax him to the ground, but failed. Adopting sterner measures, the police fired six shots over Simmons' head. Sterner measures also failed.

A crowd gathered. Police reserves were summoned. Lieut. Hussey and his men held a conference and then left the scene.

Just when Simmons thought victory was his, Fire Engine Co. 51, summoned by the police, arrived. Ladders were placed to the attic roof and Simmons was taken down a ladder and away to a police station.

W. W. CANDY'S ESTATE GOES TO HIS FAMILY

$100,000 for Widow, Residue to Two Sons Later—Trust Fund for Daughter.

The estate of Walter W. Candy, 70-year-old founder of the Busy Bee Candy Co. of St. Louis, who ended his life Sunday in Pasadena, Cal., by breathing carbon monoxide exhaust gas from his automobiles, is left to his family under the terms of a will filed in Probate Court today.

To his widow, Mrs. Marguerite Casey Candy, he left $100,000, mentioning that he already had provided for her financially during his lifetime. Until the $100,000 is drawn from the estate she is to get $500 monthly.

Mrs. Candy, who is still in her thirties, was buyer for the Busy Bee stores when she and Candy were married in May, 1919. His first wife had died about six months before.

To his 6-year-old daughter, Margaret Kacy Candy, he left $100,000 in trust of the St. Louis Union Trust Co. and his attorney, Joseph W. Lewis. She is to have the income for life and may draw $25,000 from the fund when she becomes 25. She is also to have power to dispose of the trust fund in her will.

The residue of the estate is to go to two sons, Walter W. Jr. and William E. Candy, respectively 21 and 20 years old, now students at Princeton. The money is left in trust of Walter E. Candy, a brother, William Schattgen, and Lewis, to be paid to the sons when they reach 25. Schattgen, William Candy and Lewis are named executors of the estate with power, if they see fit, to sell Busy Bee stock held by the estate. The sales are to be subject to the approval of Lewis, however.

No estimate could be obtained on the value of the estate.

GEORGE G. VEST OUT FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL AS WET

Grandson of Late Senator Indorsed for Democratic Nomination by Judge Henry S. Priest.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT WILL RESULT

Elmer O. Jones Expected to Divide Anti-Prohibition Vote Here—Lozier's Position.

By CURTISS A. BETTS.

George G. Vest, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney-General, by virtue of an indorsement yesterday by former Judge Henry S. Priest, head of the Missouri Association Against Prohibition, takes his place in the three-cornered fight for the nomination as the wet candidate. His opponents are running as neither wet nor dry.

Vest's candidacy will serve to weaken Elmer O. Jones of La Plata, the nominee in 1924, who, in the absence of an out-and-out wet in the race, might have been expected to get the better of the election in St. Louis and the wet counties, but that vote now will be divided with Vest, except in Kansas City, where Jones has the support of the Pendergast organization.

If Pendergast had not committed his organization to Jones, Vest would have had a considerably better opportunity for the nomination, as his appeal to the wet vote of the State would have been without interference from an organized political group. He could have appealed to the wets with a forceful backing, while the rural vote would have been split between Jones and Lue C. Lozier of Carrollton.

Division Among the Wets.

But as the political influences are lining up, the wets will be divided and Lozier is making a telling fight for the out-State support on which Jones must count if he makes any headway.

Jones does not appear to have the strength he had in the 1924 primary. At that time virtually all of the younger Democrats of the State were lined up with him, while this time Lozier has captured not a small part of this element. It is known that some elements in St. Louis were disposed to support Lozier and undoubtedly will support him, but it is not unlikely that the Vest candidacy will be encouraged by these elements, with the idea that such a plan of campaign will be more effective in weakening Jones than an attempt at an active campaign among organization politicians in St. Louis for Lozier.

Lozier, a son of Congressman Lozier of the Second Missouri district, formerly was chief counsel for the State Highway Commission, a position he resigned to make the campaign. He recently addressed a letter to all members of the Missouri Bar Association urging them to support the candidate they "deemed best qualified."

Jones' Wide Acquaintance.

However, Jones has made two campaigns of the State and has a wide acquaintance, which always stands a candidate in good stead. Vest undoubtedly will have, except for the Kansas City organization and scattered groups throughout the State, which will go to Jones, the support of those wet Democrats who will be influenced by the prohibition question. In addition, Vest is certain to pick up a considerable vote because of his name, which is an honored one among Missouri Democrats. He is a grandson of the late Senator George G. Vest.

It bids fair to be a close fight, with all candidates having real strength, but as the politics of the situation is shaping up, Lozier at this early stage is in an advantageous position.

ATTACKS MUSCLE SHOALS BILL

Head of U. S. Chamber of Commerce Writes to Coolidge.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Opposition of the United States Chamber of Commerce to the Muscle Shoals measure now before the President was expressed today by William Butterworth, president of the organization, in a letter to Mr. Coolidge.

The legislation, the letter said, would "place the Government in the business of manufacturing and selling fixed nitrogen, a form of fertilizer, in competition with private enterprise, and would authorize the Government to embark in the hydro-electric business through construction of a dam and generating plant at Cove Creek, some 300 miles distant from the Muscle Shoals project."

Stabbed Six Times by Thief.

Ray Kulsick, 1240A High street, stabbed five times last night, told police he had been wounded by a Negro he caught picking his pockets in his bedroom. A Negro, arrested in the neighborhood, admitted stabbing a man, but said he did so in self-defense when attacked by several men in a backyard.

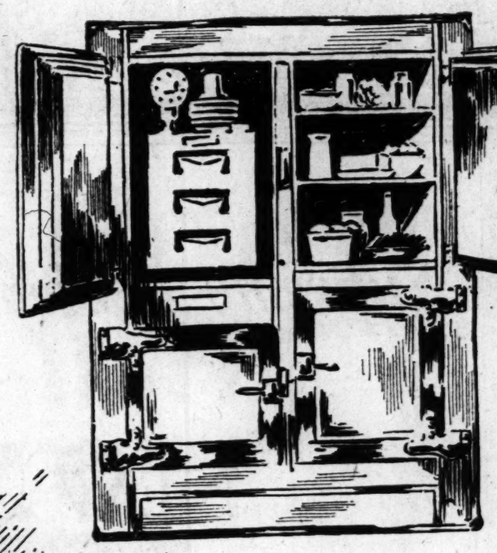
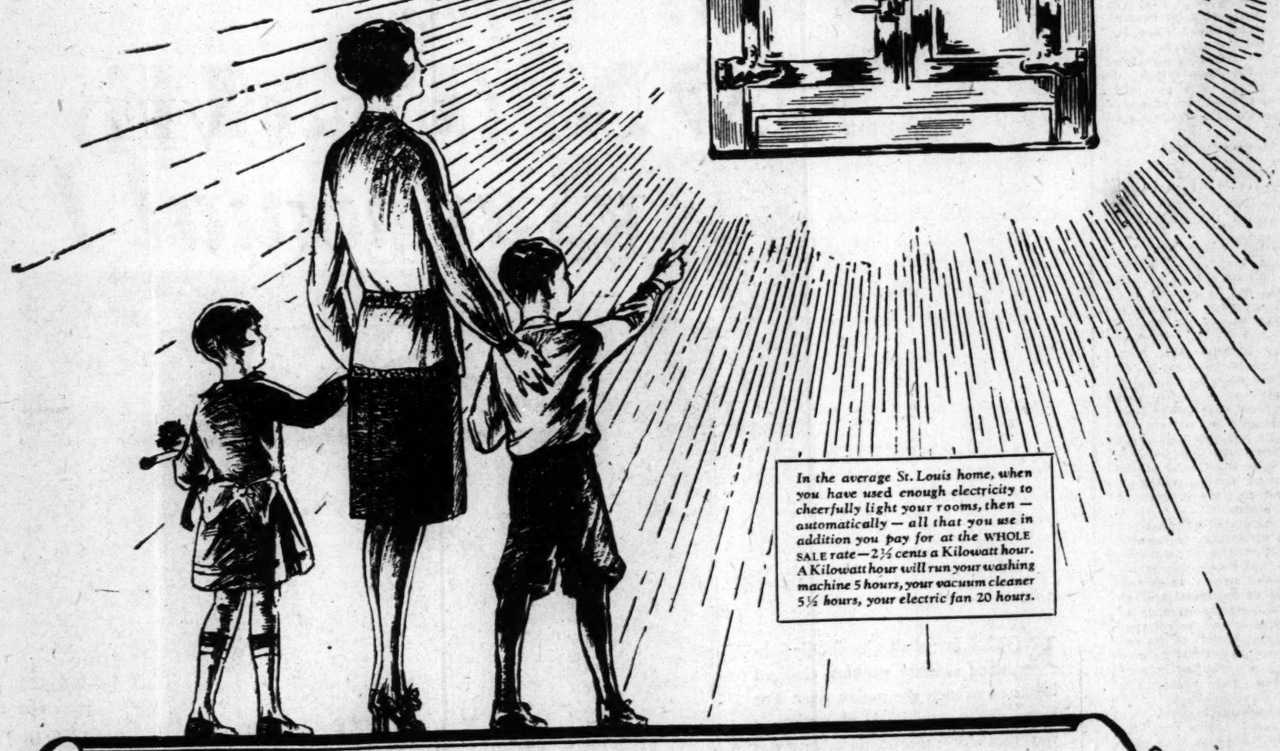
Electricity is Cheap in St. Louis

—it will operate an electric refrigerator for only 6 cents a day in the average St. Louis Home.





In the average St. Louis home, when you have used enough electricity to cheerfully light your rooms, then — automatically — all that you use in addition you pay for at the WHOLE SALE rate—2½ cents a Kilowatt hour. A Kilowatt hour will run your washing machine 5 hours, your vacuum cleaner 5½ hours, your electric fan 20 hours.

ISN'T it worth the price of a shoe lace or two? All the ice you need... Your food kept cool and fresh without worry or bother. Frozen salads and desserts easily made—by simply placing them in the freezing compartment of your electric refrigerator . . . Electricity brings all this to you for only 6 cents a day in the average St. Louis home.

This is just one of dozens of ways in which electricity makes your home more pleasant and comfortable. In the average St. Louis home, electricity will run an electric washing machine or vacuum cleaner for less than a penny an hour; runs your electric fan all day long for the price of your daily newspaper. Don't waste your own energy on what electricity will do for a few cents a month.

Never has it been easier to own an electric refrigerator. A down payment of $20 to $30 is all you need—take a year or year and a half to pay the balance. New models are now on display at all dealers. Order yours now and have it for the hot weather.

HICKMAN HANGING WAITS ON TEST OF SPEED IN JUSTICE

New Criminal Procedure Under Which He Was Convicted Is Before California Supreme Court.

CONSTITUTIONALITY UNDER ATTACK

Kidnaper and Slayer of Marian Parker Was to Have Been Executed on April 27.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 29.—In California's new criminal procedure, designed to close legal loopholes through which the guilty escape the penalties of their crimes, William Edward Hickman, slayer of 12-year-old Marian Parker, has found at least a temporary ally.

The new code, which saved Hickman from the quick meting out of a fate for which the public clamored, was molded through the force of moral opinion exasperated by the law's slowness and uncertainty.

Thus the "breaks," which enabled the kidnaper and killer of the daughter of a Los Angeles banker to elude for eight days capture by the police authorities of three states, have followed him past the date set for his execution.

The hanging of Hickman was set for April 27, but a Supreme Court hearing on his appeal could not be reached by that date, which served automatically to give a stay of execution.

It was Hickman's fortune to be the first brought to trial under the new code and so he was enabled to take advantage of the delays resulting from the first testing of a criminal procedure and its constitutionality.

Passes the Speed Test.

The efficiency of the statute was indicated to sponsors of the law by the speed with which Hickman was first found sane and then, by the same jury and almost without pause, declared guilty and sentenced to death. But the fact that the new statute had never been weighed as to constitutionality operated to save him, at least temporarily, when virtually no other factor could have served.

Jerome K. Walsh, chief counsel, and other attorneys for the defense lost no time in carrying to the State Supreme Court their fight to save the condemned youth. They assailed the statute as violating both the State and Federal constitutions because it permitted separate hearings on crime and mental condition.

They contended that the procedure operated to "whittle away" the defendant's "common law right to trial by jury," and that if the statute were upheld it would be possible for the prosecution to split up other defenses and there could be an indefinite number of hearings.

"Ambiguity of Statute."

A member of the court interposed the suggestion that Hickman had deprived himself of the complete defense by failing or refusing to enter a plea of not guilty. The California law permits a person accused of murder to plead not guilty by reason of insanity, but he can also plead not guilty of the crime, as formerly. The defense replied that the "ambiguity" of the statute kept him from entering the "not guilty" plea.

The state's attorneys declare that even if the high court's ruling is adverse, Hickman could be tried again. He is also under life sentence with Welby Hunt for participation in the murder of Ivy Toms, druggist near Los Angeles.

BREAD TRUST CHARGE RENEWED BY LA FOLLETTE

Resolution Urges Trade Commission to Resume Complaint Against the Continental Corporation.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The country is threatened with a nationwide bread monopoly, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, declared yesterday, in introducing a resolution directing the Federal Trade Commission to renew its complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation which escaped prosecution two years ago as a result of the celebrated consent decree engineered by the then Assistant Attorney-General Abram Myers.

The trickery which accompanied the dismissal of all proceedings against the Continental was roundly condemned by Senator LaFollette.

As has been told in the Post-Dispatch, the Federal Trade Commission filed a complaint against the Continental, charging violation of the antitrust laws. Subsequently the Continental, which already had acquired 25 bakeries, attempted to carry out a still greater merger, and a dissolution suit was filed against it by the Department of Justice.

Both Prosecutions Dropped.

Following private conversations among company attorneys and Federal officials, the Federal Trade Commission dismissed its complaint on the ground that the Continental was being prosecuted by the Department of Justice, and on the following day, the Department of Justice dismissed its complaint on the ground that the Continental was being prosecuted by the commission. Thus the Continental went scot free.

Myers, who conducted the proceedings for the Department of Justice, afterward was promoted by President Coolidge to membership on the Federal Trade Commission.

A Senate subcommittee which investigated the transaction, severely condemned Myers' conduct, and criticized both the Commission and the Department of Justice for allowing the Continental to get off.

"Bread Trust at Our Doors."

In offering his resolution yesterday, La Follette said:

"We ought not to content ourselves with a mere criticism of the two branches of government which ignominously lay down in the fight to frustrate this monstrous attempt to monopolize the nation's bread supply. The imminent danger of a nation-wide bread trust has by no means been dispelled. If at this moment the bread trust is not actually within our doors, it is at our doors, slightly concealed by the smoke screen of the consent decree, ready to jump in and do its evil work at the first opportunity."

La Follette pointed out that the Department of Justice, in its own petition against the Continental, had alleged that its charter granted it "unlimited power" to engage in all kinds of business, and to acquire an indefinite number of competing plants, and he referred to "the indecent haste" of the department later "to convert its own petition into a scrap of paper" by dismissing the proceedings against the Continental.

Action Improbable Now.

"The Federal Trade Commission," he said, "has also done very badly in this matter. But it remains a part of the machinery of our Government. We must do our utmost to make it function as it was intended to function. We can either make it work, or we can force it to give such a demonstration that nobody of good sense or good morals will attempt to defend it.

"With the attention of the public fastened upon it, as it is fastened by the present investigation of the power trust lobby, we may expect the commission to do its plain duty in this important matter involving the public interest."

La Follette admitted there was little likelihood of obtaining action on the resolution at the present session. He hoped, however, that the commission might be induced to reinstate the complaint on its own initiative, and failing in that hope, that the resolution would remain on the calendar of unfinished business, and come up at the beginning of the next session.

Boys Held as Battery Thieves.

Authorities of Richmond Heights St. Louis County, notified local police yesterday they are holding two boys, one 17 years old and one 15, who were arrested while trying to dispose of two storage batteries. The boys, it was said, confessed they had taken the batteries from automobiles which they had stolen and abandoned near Forest Park Highlands. One of the machines, it was learned, had been stolen from Louis Kouster, 1414 South Eighteenth street.

Sketchy Breakfasts Husbands' Sa
by Mary Blake

There's a young neighbor of mine whose ambition for her husband is unlimited. The other day she came to me in great distress because he had failed to receive a much-counted-on raise. "Jim says he can't really blame them, because he hasn't been turning out the work lately. He's lost all his old 'pep'—is tired out before the day is half over."

"Who gets Jim's breakfasts?" I asked.

"Why he does, himself. You know he eats practically nothing."

"Do you know," I asked, "what the schools have found out about listless, irritable, backward children? They are generally half-starved. Given a real breakfast every day, their school work improves miraculously. The same thing is true of grown people. If you want Jim to get that raise, give him a real breakfast every day—fruit, cereal, toast and coffee, with bacon and egg, or waffles or pancakes and sausage now and then. Start him out well fortified—he'll do real work."

SIX SLAYERS IN PRISON RIOT GET DEATH VERDICT

Convicts Found Guilty of Killing Another Prisoner During Attempt to Escape From Folsom.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 29.—Six convicts, charged with the murder of George Baker, a fellow prisoner, during the Thanksgiving day riots at Folsom Prison, last November, were found guilty late last night. The verdict carried the death penalty for all.

Eight prisoners and three guards were killed during the attempt of convicts to lead a prison break from Folsom. Thirty-one other persons were wounded. The riot leaders were found to be Tony Brown, San Francisco robber; Walter E. Burke, Roy E. Stokes, James Gregg, James Gleason and Albert M. Stewart.

Stewart was called a "squealer" last February by his fellow convicts when the same six convicts were convicted of the murder of Guard Ray Singleton and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The convicts were reindicted and brought to trial. Stewart turned State's evidence and it was expected that he would be granted life imprisonment. When he was convicted of first degree murder, along with the five others, they broke into sardonic laughter.

HEARING SET FOR MONDAY ON ILLINOIS TERMINAL FRANCHISE

Public Utilities Committee of Aldermen Calls Service Board in Consultation.

After reading objections of North St. Louis business interests to the pending franchise bill for Illinois Terminal System improvements here in its present form, the Public Utilities Committee decided today to go into details of the project with the Board of Public Service next Monday morning. Aldermen through whose wards the line passes between McKinley Bridge and the High street station will be invited to attend and City Counselor Muench will be asked to be present to take up legal questions. The meeting will not be public, but the press will be admitted.

It is the committee's idea that it would be well to have the assistance of engineer members of the Board of Public Service in considering the advisability of granting the 50-year franchise. The Aldermen are anxious to see if some way cannot be found to avoid the 16 main-line grade crossings it is proposed to retain between Cass avenue and Palm street. They are impressed also by the objection that the ordinance does not bind the company to fulfill the improvement plans.

18 ST. LOUIS POLICY HOLDERS SUE LIFE INSURANCE CONCERN

Breach of Contract Charged Against Mountain States Company by Plaintiffs.

Eighteen suits charging the Mountain States Life Insurance Co. of Denver, Col., with breach of contract have been filed in Circuit Court by St. Louis policy holders, asking for the return of about $10,000 in death claims and premiums. Approximately 50 more suits for an aggregate sum of $20,000 will be filed in the near future, according to Attorneys James J. O'Donohoe and Raymond L. Lahey, who represent 65 local policy hodlers.

The suits allege that soon after a merger in 1924 of the Liberty National Life Insurance Co. of Cape Girardeau, in which the plaintiffs were insured, with the Mountain States company, the latter concern refused to accept premiums on policies. By this act the policies were nullified, the petition continues, and the subscribers demand the return of premiums paid on the insurance and the settlement of death claims instituted after the discontinuance of the policies by the Mountain States Co.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR HEAD OF MOWEAQUA, ILL., BANK

A warrant charging C. E. Humphries, president of the closed First National Bank of Moweaqua, Shelby County, Illinois, with transfer to his own account of $1500 from the deposits of five school districts of which he was treasurer, was issued by United States Commissioner Feisen yesterday at East St. Louis.

The bank closed its doors May 23 with a shortage, of which this and other transfers from the school funds to Humphries' account, according to a bank examiners' report sent to District Attorney Baker, amounted to $20,000.

Moweaqua is 110 miles northeast of East St. Louis and deals with the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago. The warrant for Humphries, whose home is in Moweaqua, has been given to the United States Marshal for his arrest.

"There's great lure in beautiful smooth skin"

says William A. Wellman, director for PARAMOUNT

"People love beautiful skin. Only girls with rarely lovely skin—'studio skin'—have ever become stars. The close-up has taught us the great lure of perfect skin. Make-up can't fake it beneath the glare of the close-up. It must be real."

It can stir the emotions—the soft petal-smooth skin that is so innocently fresh and vital.

Motion picture directors know that a star's grip on her audience tightens the minute a close-up is shown — the fascination of her loveliness makes itself felt.

So they insist on utterly smooth "studio skin." Screen stars must keep their skin so perfect that even the glaring lights of the close-up reveal only beauty.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap.

There are in Hollywood 433 actresses doing important work, including all stars. 417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps their skin velvety smooth.

96% of all the lovely complexions you see on the screen are cared for by this soap.

All the great film studios, following their stars' example, have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms. Get some today and see how delicious your skin, too, feels after it.

TOMMY BURNS GETS DIVORCE

Former Heavyweight Champion Obtains Decree in Cuernavaca.

(Copyright, 1928.)

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, May 29.—A divorce was granted here yesterday to Tommy Burns, former heavyweight champion of the world, who had filed his application May 15, specifying incompatibility.

His wife, Julia Keating, now resides at London. The two were married in Los Angeles in 1906, just after Burns had won his championship from Marvin Hart. They have four children. They were separated in 1923 and a British court awarded to Burns the custody of the children.

SAYS ST. CHARLES BRIDGE TOLL WILL BE LIFTED BY 1930

Judge Hodgdon, in Kirkwood Address Declares Income Tax Exemption Will Speed Up Plan.

Exemption from Federal income taxes for the St. Charles toll bridge over the Missouri River, operated by a Citizens' Committee, is included in the tax bill passed by Congress and submitted to President Coolidge last Saturday. This will mean a material hastening of the time when the toll will be lifted and this important crossing will become free.

Announcement of this was made by Probate Judge Hodgdon of St. Louis County, chairman of the Citizens' Committee, at a regional dinner meeting of the County Chamber of Commerce at Grace Episcola Church in Kirkwood last night.

Tolls collected since the committee took over the bridge, a link in Federal Highway No. 40, on Aug. 1, 1926, have been applied to maintenance, interest and retirement of the $1,250,000 principal. In the first 17 months, up to the first of this year, $292,000 of the principal was retired and next July 1 another payment, of $225,000, will be made. Judge Hodgdon declared that more than half of the principal would be retired by the end of this year, and that the bridge would become free in less than two years.

$51,000 in Taxes Paid.

The income tax exemption will include a payment of $50,000 which would have been due on last year's revenue. The committee had to pay the Government $30,000 on the 1926 income and still pays State and local taxes of about $21,000 annually. The saving of the 7927 income tax alone will mean that the bridge will be free three months sooner than otherwise.

An indication of the growing traffic, Judge Hodgdon said is found in the fact that tolls collected last month were $8500 greater than in April, 1927. The State Highway Commission, he announced, is considering building aprons, or extensions, on each side of the narrow bridge structure, when it takes over the crossing, to procide additional facilities for automobiles. The existing space would be left for street cars and slow-moving vehicles.

The Chamber of Commerce meeting also took up a discussion of the belt highway to be built by the State Highway Commission, as a refund to the county, between Pattonville, on St. Charles road, and Mehlville, on Lemay Ferry road, by way of Denny road through Kirkwood. Joseph R. Matthews, former president of the chamber, presiding at the dinner, asked why construction was being delayed.

Presiding Judge Wehmeyer of the County Court, or administrative body, replied that the difficulty lay in the condemnation of right-of-way because hearings were delayed for various reasons. In addition to some new locations, existing roads must be widened. Matthews declared the chamber had obtained agreements a year ago from 30 of the 35 property owners along Denny road, between Big Bend and Gravois roads, to give the needed right-of-way or charge only actual damages, but that the County Court had not taken steps to obtain the deeds.

Now, Matthews continued, the court has changed the plan, so that 40 feet will be taken along the west side of Denny instead of 20 feet from each side. Wehmeyer explained it would be easier to get the land from west side owners than to deal with the five recalcitrant ones, who were on the east side.

Chief Engineer Cutler of the State Highway Department told the gathering that the department could not exercise the State's right of eminent domain to acquire this right-of-way easily because this will be a county road.

$10,000,000 Bond Issue.

Another discussion related to the $10,000,000 county road bond issue to be voted on June 23, sponsored by the County Court. Matthews said the Chamber of Commerce would support it, if a satisfactory citizens' supervisory body is appointed by the court. Wehmeyer announced an advisory body would be selected, and F. J. Hollocher, chairman of the Citizens' Road Bond Committee, added the explanation the court could not delegate authority to a supervisory body. Edward Beecher, former Mayor of Kirkwood, said the body should have a permanent personnel, instead of including the suburban Mayors, who change frequently.

E. Glion Curtis, one of the commissioners in the new Webster sewer district, warned that the new county sewer law, while flexible and beneficial in nature, was subject to abuses and its operation should be watched by the people.

Robert A. Roessel spoke in favor of the scheme under consideration to employ an expert to devise a system for a metropolitan control area here. W. W. Butts, advocating the city's proposed $2,000,000 bond issue for enlargement and improvement of the airport, said there are 5000 aviation [illegible] the country now.

The raw material from which the products of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are made is an uncertain quantity. "Oil is where you find it!"

Science is helping the search. The torsion balance, seismograph and magnetometer may aid in locating places which hold promise of being oil bearing—but that is all. No one knows exactly where oil will be found or how much will be recovered.

Working with an uncertain source of supply has not prevented the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) from building its business with certainty.

From a raw material of uncertain location and quantity this Company has produced products of unfailing dependability, supplying them through the years with an unwavering regularity wherever and whenever needed. It has built its entire business with certainty on solid principles of integrity.

Year after year this Company has proved a satisfying source of livelihood for thousands of employes. Year after year this Company has paid to its stockholders reasonable returns on their investments. Year after year this Company has supplied products and services satisfactory to the motorists of the Middle West.

The man securing work in this organization finds open to him every opportunity to advance as warranted by his effort and ability.

The widow finds in its stock a safe investment insuring fair returns.

The motorist traveling the highway finds at its Service Stations dependable fuel and oil and expert attention.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has served the public for so many years with such definite certainty that this service is taken for granted.

At thousands of points in all parts of the ten states, the products and the services of this Company are always ready—and always the same.

The man who buys Red Crown gasoline in Kansas knows that he will get exactly the same fuel when he goes to North Dakota. Polarine or Iso-Vis mean the same thing—dependable, scientific lubrication—in ten states every day in the year.

Courtesy and thoughtfulness are found behind the sign of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as surely on a remote country road as in a great city.

Throughout all its territory, every day, in all its relations with the public, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stands for a dependability that never varies. The people of the Middle West have learned to expect much from this Company. Their expectations, their confidence are high tributes earned by a long record of faithful service.

PARADES IN HONOR OF MEMORIAL DAY IN AND NEAR CITY

Spanish War Veterans to March on Twelfth Blvd. at Noon Tomorrow — Services at Grant Statue.

Webster Groves, keeping an annual custom, has planned impressive Memorial day services for tomorrow. Preparations of St. Louis patriotic organizations to honor the war dead are focused on a parade and exercises to start at 2 p. m. at Jefferson Barracks.

United Spanish War Veterans will stage their annual Memorial day parade on Twelfth boulevard at noon, and have invited other veterans and patriotic organizations to participate. The parade will move from Market street to Washington avenue, then east to Third street, where the marchers will disband to go to Jefferson Barracks for the afternoon exercises there.

A parade headed by an airship from Scott Field, the army field near Belleville, Ill., is to be one of the main events of the Webster Groves program. Flowers will be dropped from the airship on a monument at Big Bend road and Lockwood avenue.

Services at Memorial Park.

The parade, assembling in the downtown section, will go to Webster Memorial Park for services. The start of the procession at 10 a. m. will be signalized by a cannon volley. The American Legion, public schools, the army, Boy Scouts, churches, civic and luncheon clubs and a dozen patriotic societies will be represented in the parade. Last year 5000 persons joined the march.

The airship, in charge of Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow of Scott Field, is expected to hover low over the line of march.

Before the parade starts, details of former service men will visit graves of their comrades in eight St. Louis County cemeteries to scatter flags and flowers.

The Sixth Infantry band from Jefferson Barracks will play for the exercises at the park. Flags will be presented to Webster Groves schools by the Rev. Courtney Jones, pastor of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. The speakers will be Col. Walter F. Siegmund, 350th Field Artillery, and the Rev. E. L. Main, pastor of West Park Baptist Church.

G. A. R. Have Charge.

The Jefferson Barracks program is in charge of the Grand Army of the Republic and allied organizations. Forming on the barracks parade grounds, the procession of Civil War, Spanish and World War veterans and women representing auxiliaries will go to the National Cemetery near the barracks for the speaking. The Sixth Infantry, in command of Col. Moor N. Falls, will escort the parade.

The speakers will be John L. Pierson and John W. Lanley of the G. A. R. and Frank L. Eversull, principal of the Woodward School. After "taps" has been blown, flowers and flags will be strewn on the graves.

The Women's Relief Corps will decorate the monument of Gen. Grant in City Hall Park at 10 a. m. For those who died at sea there will be services at 10 a. m. on the Municipal and McKinley bridges. The ladies of the G. A. R. will be in charge.

A similar observance for the dead at sea will be held by East St. Louis organizations at 7 a. m., marking the start of the East Side's observance of the day. Wreaths will be cast upon the Mississippi River. At 9:30 a. m. there will be a parade downtown and at 1 p. m. services at Argonne Monument on Jones drive.

Services at Carondelet.

Memorial services under direction of Carondelet Citizens' Committee will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. before the monument on the lawn of the Carondelet Library, 6800 Michigan avenue.

An "air circus" and a 40-mile race by six planes will be held at Park's Airport, south of East St. Louis, tomorrow afternoon.

A complete program of stunt flying has been arranged, and several parachute jumps are scheduled. The six planes in the race will cross the field four times in completing the 40-mile course. There will be no admission charge. The airport is four miles south of the Free Bridge on State Highway No. 3.

Federal courts and offices will be closed tomorrow.

JEANNE EAGELS OBTAINS REHEARING BY ACTORS 'UNION

Committee Will Reconsider Suspension of Actress for Failure to Play in St. Louis.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Jeanne Eagels, actress, who was suspended by the Actors' Equity Association last April and fined and barred from the legitimate stage until Sept. 1, 1929, won her appeal for a rehearing of her case at the fifteenth annual meeting of the association in the Hotel Astor yesterday.

Miss Eagels was not at the meeting. She was represented by her attorney, Henry Uterhart, who stressed that the fines and adduced salaries, amounting, he said, to $50,000, was sufficient punishment to his client, who he said had never been allowed to plead her case before the council when penalized on a charge of having failed to appear with the company of "Her Cardboard Lover" in Milwaukee and St. Louis. He urged a complete review of her case in committee. Hearings will begin in a few days.

Teacher's Daughter Injured.

Ruth Bracken, 10 years old, daughter of John L. Bracken, superintendent of the Clayton public schools, suffered a broken collarbone yesterday afternoon while on an amusement device at Forest Park Highlands, where the annual Clayton School picnic was being held.

Botch Is Victor in Fairmount Feature; Bond Slave Graduates

By Dent McSkimming

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, May 29.—Coming fast in the stretch, without the urge of a whip, the mare Botch, from C. Bunt's stable, won the fifth and feature event ofthisafternoon's race program. Jockey J. Ford showed a perfect understanding of his mount's ability and merely sat tight as the mare passed up Realty and Battle Field in a great run through thestretch. The distance was a mile and a furlong.

Overcast skies and the fact that tomorrow is a public holiday held the crowd down to 4500.

Eight 2-year-olds went to the post in the opening event at five furlongs:

The result was just about as the fans expected, with Robina Seth winning by a head. The Doctor second and George Herget third. They were almost equal choices in the betting.

The Doctor was the pacemaker the greater part of the way, being passed by Robina Seth at the head of the stretch. Oceanid was prominent in the first two furlongs but ... The winner paid $7.76 for $2.

Bond Slave Graduates.

Bond Slave won the first race of his career, although he is a 3-year-old, when he raced Ladoga into submission nd then outlasted the threat of Malcolm, in the second event on the card. Bond Slave and Ladoga were almost equal choices in the betting and the winner paid only $5.86 for $2.

The field of eigh broke perfectly from the stall gate at the six-furlong chute and Ladoga, a beautiful filly, shot to the front. Bond Slave was onlya step behind and led Ladoga as they reached the stretch turn. Just then Malcolm came with new-found speed and L. McClair, riding Bond Slave, found it necessary to dispose of the other rival. The issue was decided right at the wire marking the finish, after a stirring stretch duel.

The fourth furnished an upset when Mac Maxin proved too fast for Southern Kiss and Post Mistress, both heavily played favorites. Mac Maxin rewarded his backers with $63.96 on $2.

Louis Rubenstein, regarded as one of the best of the field of 11 starters, would not behave in the gate and after breaking the barrier several times, finally got away very poorly when the field was released. He was last most of the way because of his poor start.

WHITCOMBE'S 68 SETS RECORD AND LEADS FIELD IN IRISH OPEN

By the Associated Press.

NEW CASTLE, Ireland, May 29.—Ernest Whitcombe, British professional, today scored 68, to set a new course record and lead the field in the first round of the Irish open golf championship over the course of the Royal County Down Club. Whitcombe was four strokes ahead of W. H. Davies, his nearest rival.

Abe Mitchell, Len Holland, T. H. Cotton, H. C. Jolly and L. Cotton were tied at 73. Archie Compston took 75 and George Duncan, who won the championship when it was first played last year, scored 76.

TRIPLE A TEAM WINS WEEKLY TOURNAMENT OF WOMEN GOLFERS

The Triple A team, composed of Mrs. C. B. Abney, Mrs. George Gough and Mrs. R. I. Caughey, won the fourth weekly tournament of the St. Louis Women's District Golf Association held yesterday at Normandie. The winning team tied with North Hills for second place in the standings as a result of its victory.

WISCONSIN ELEVEN TO PLAY NOTRE DAME

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., May 29.—The University of Wisconsin football team will play Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 19, 1929, in the game which will dedicate the new stadium there, the athletic department announced today.

BROWNS' GAME STOPPED BY RAIN IN THE SECOND

Two storms hit Sportsman's Park this afternoon and the second one, a downpour of rain which began about 3:30 o'clock, put a stop to the Browns' game with the Chicago White Sox.

Willis Johnson, secretary, announced that a double-header would be played Thursday afternoon between the Browns and the White Sox.

This was a welcome storm to the Browns, for it served as an effective antidote for the first, which was a rain of Chicago base hits in the first inning that sent Sam Gray to shelter. Gray, victor over the White Sox in two previous starts against that team, showed none of the mastery over Schalk's men that enabled him to gain his triumphs earlier in the season.

After the first Chicago batter singled, a man sacrificed, and that was the only out registered while Gray remained on the mound. Four more batters hit safely before Manager Dan Howley waved Gray out and sent Coffman to the box. A wild pitch gave the visitors their fourth run of the frame and a double play ended the assault.

Howley's men went out in order in their half and after the Sox had scored one more against Coffman, time was called and following a wait of 30 minutes, the game was called off. So Gray was saved a defeat.

If Gray can find any of his lost stuff overnight, it is possible that he will make another start against the Sox in one of the Decoration day double-header games. Hal Wiltse also is due to appear soon.

Tourney at Algonquin.

The Algonquin Golf Club will hold a tournament tomorrow. The program will include a contest for four men teams, handicap match play against par, low ball and net and low gross.

Bond Slave began well and raced with LaDoga in early stages, holding on gamely in the stretch to outstay Malcolm. Latter was under strong restrain in early stages and was verw wide in stretch, came steadily but hung a trifle right at the end. LaDoga showed good early speed and saved much ground but began tiring in last sixteenth. Model was gaining fast through the stretch. The others were bady outrun.

ALL FIGHTERS EXCEPT RENAULT PAID FOR BOUTS

All boxers who participated in the fight card at the Coliseum last Thursday night were paid this afternoon, through the State Boxing Commission, with the exception of Jack Renault of Canada, who appeared in the main event against Charles "Chuck" Wiggins of Indianapolis.

A difference of opinion in the amount Renault should receive, centering around the interpretation of the contract, exists between the representatives of Renault and the Fred W. Stockman Post of the American Legion, which sponsored the program. The organization this afternoon requested the State Commission to hold up Renault's end of the purse until a settlement is reached, and this the State Board agreed to do, according to officials.

U. S. OLYMPIC SOCCER ELEVEN IS ELIMINATED

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, May 29.—Argentina's crack soccer team eliminated the United States in the Olympic competition by a score of 11 to 2. The score at the close of the first half was Argentine 4, America 0.

The Argentines, champions of South America, were too fast and too tricky for the Americans. The South Americans led, 4 to 0, at the end of the first half, and showed to even better advantage in the second. Cooper, the goalkeeper of the United States, spent a busy afternoon and, but for his saves, the score would have been larger. He stopped numerous attacks.

Four St. Louis boys, Joseph Murphy, James Cronin, John Rudge and John Kane, are members of the American team.

HELEN WILLS BEATS GERMAN NET CHAMPION

By the Associated Press.

AUTEUIL, France, May 29.—Helen Wills today defeated the German champion, Cecilie Aussem, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—2, in their match in the international hard courts tennis championships in progress here.

The American champion was not forced to extend herself to win from the German titleholder. She played carefully and softly in the first set but caught her opponent out of position several times. The winner's court strategy was superior throughout. At the last she was stroking fiercely like the Helen of old.

Point score, first set:

Wills ......8 4 2 4 7 2 4—27—6
Aussem ....6 2 4 1 5 6 0—24—1

Second set:

Wills ....4 6 4 1 4 4 3 4—30—6
Aussem ..1 3 2 4 2 1 5 1—20—2

	A	PL	O	N	DF
Wills	1	9	25	12	3
Aussem	0	4	35	20	2

In defeating the German champion, Miss Wills overcame one of the most formidable obstacles in her path to the finals of the international hardcourt tennis championships. The victory was not a surprise to a majority of the 5000 spectators, but the ease with which it was accomplished and the tactics used excited interest.

Dr. Sleem, India's ranking No. 1 tennis player, outsteadied the Argentine, Cataruzza, to win the day's first match in the men's tourney. Scores were 6—1, 8—6, 6—2. Torrid heat greeted the players as they took the court and Dr. Sleem was content to let his younger opponent do all the attacking

Betty Nuthall Defeated.

Betty Nuthall, young English star, was eliminated from the women's singles by Mlle. Alice Charnelet of France, 6—4, 6—4. Her defeat in straight sets and in an early round was a distinct upset, as the English girl had been one of the favorites.

The Argentine Davis Cup player, Roland Boyd, continued his progress through the early rounds of the men's singles with an easy victory over Jan Artens of Austria, 6—1, 6—4, 6—1.

W. E. Robinson, Argentina, defeated Pierre Landry, fifth ranking French player, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1.

Wood, American junior player, lost to Henri Cochet of France, although putting up a hard fight in the last set. The scores were 6—1, 6—0, 7—5.

Miss Edna Boyd, Australia, defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory, former American women's champion, 3—6, 6—0, 6—4.

DISORDER FOLLOWS LEWIS' VICTORY IN BOUT WITH PLESTINA

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 29.—A championship wrestling match ended in disorder early today after Ed Strangler Lewis, heavyweight titleholder, had been given the decision over Marin Plestina, Chicago challenger.

The crowd surged around the ring, threatening Lewis and Referee Fred Toneman, Chicago who were protected by police.

Lewis and Plestina each had won a fall—Lewis the first with a toe hold in 39 minutes and 40 seconds, Plestina the second with a flying mare in 14 minutes, 33 seconds. In the third session Plestina suddenly went down, apparently from a swing to the jaw by the champion, who pounced on him and was awarded the decision. Plestina was unconscious for four minutes.

YANKEES OUTCLASS AMERICAN LEAGUE FIELD, McGRAW WRITES

FIVE TEAM FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT FOR HEAD IN NATIONAL

By John J. McGraw,
Manager New York Giants.
(Copyright, 1928.)

NEW YORK, May 29.—At this period of a pennant race, the more enthusiastic fans make the mistake of trying to gauge the actual strength of the clubs by the percentage table in the standing of the clubs. Of course, the percentage table is practically infallible in telling the story in the long run, but it really defeats analysis until each team has met all the others and all have played the same number of games. For example, a single game may change the standings completely in May, when it would take three or four games to produce the same result in September.

Personally, I have made it a point of never paying any attention to the standing of the clubs until the season is half over. The main thing to consider is the number of games lost. If the teams have not played the same number of games there is always a chance to win those that have not been played.

J. McGRAW.

Figuring on that basis, the record of the Yankees confirms all the more their apparent superiority in the American League. If they had played as many games as the Western clubs and won at the same rate, the lead would be all the greater. A ball club that can win 15 out of 17 games at home against all comers puts itself in an almost impenetrable position.

The big interest in the American League race is the fight between the Yankees and the Athletics. The others don't seem to matter much from present indications.

Free-for-All in National.

In the National League it is quite different. Right now it looks as if at least five clubs—the Reds, the Cubs, the Giants, the Cardinals and the Pirates—will be in a free-for-all fight for the greater part of the season.

A strong point in favor of the Giants is that they have lost fewer games than any other club in the National League. With the players in better physical shape, they have a better chance of winning those postponed games than they would have had they been played during the past four weeks. By winning the games so far unplayed, the Giants could take the lead. That is why I say percentage tables are not strongly indicative of actual strength this early in the season.

These baseball races in the majors as well as the minor leagues are much in the same position as a horse race with a lot of starters. There is little that can be told from the jumble until they all get straightened out and face the real finishing test of speed and endurance.

Newcomers Have Starred.

Early in the season I made the prediction that the newcomers in the league would have a decisive influence on the baseball campaigns and I am becoming more certain of it every day. If you love to dig into the dope just try for fun to find out how many ball games have been actually won by the work of newcomers. Note what Kress has done for the Browns; what Foxx, the young catching star, has done for the Athletics; what Ott and Cohen have done for the Giants; what Easterling did in the early weeks for the Tigers; what several newcomers are doing for the Red Sox; what Bissonette has done for the Robins.

The big feature in the American League race, an unexpected chance of making it closer, is the rise of the Red Sox. Carrigan is entitled to a lot of credit for molding that outfit into a machine and making it click. He has done a lot for the whole American League.

Joins Professional Ranks

Clarke Morse, former star golfer of the municipal links, has settled the question of his status, as regards amateurism or professionalism, by joining the ranks of the pros in the local district.

Last season he was ruled ineligible by the District body, and his case was under consideration by the National Association.

He will play in the qualifying test for the national open.

KNOTTY GOLF PROBLEMS

A player in addressing a ball on the fairway accidentally touched it. It moved up grade four or five inches and than ran downgrade and come to rest in its original position. The ball moved completely over, and we do not believe this should be considered oscillation. Would this entail a stroke penalty?

The ball left its original position and is therefore deemed to have moved and must be penalized under the rules.

A finds his ball in the trap and on his next shot plays the ball to another position, but still in the trap. After he makes his first shot he smooths out the footprints made by himself before making his second shot and while his ball is still in the hazard. Is this permissible?

There is no penalty for the player smoothing irregularities in the hazard made by his footprints and the soil misplaced by his stroke provided nothing is done that improves the lie of the ball for his subsequent play of the hole.

Sothoron to Go To Boston Club As Coach, Report

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 29.

IT was reported here today that Allan Sothoron, coach for the Cardinals, would join the Boston Braves within the near future. Officials of the St. Louis club would not comment on the change for the former pitcher.

Sothoron pitched an important game, when Rogers Hornsby, now leader of the Boston club, was manager of the Cardinals, and led the team to its pennant and world series victory in 1926.

Clarke Morse Joins Ranks of "Pro" Golfers

Clarke Morse, 18-year-old golf star whose standing as an amateur has been before the National Golf Association for several months, has settled the question definitely himself. It became known yesterday that he has turned professional.

Morse has given several golf lessons during the past few days for pay, thus going into the professional ranks.

Last year young Morse was medalist in the National Public Parks tournament, at Cleveland, in addition to being champion of Forest Park. In the district tournament he carried Eddie Held, a star amateur of national standing, to the seventeenth green.

He is regarded by many as the most promising young golfer developed in the St. Louis district in recent years.

Morse, who has been employed by the Forest Park Golf Club as caddy for several years, and more recently as a workman in the golf shop, was barred from the 1927 district junior tournament on the ground that he was a professional, because of his employment by a golf club after his sixteenth birthday. This was despite the fact that Morse had been in the employ of the club long before he became outstanding as a golfer and that his employment as a workman did not hinge upon his ability as a golfer.

Morse stated that he would try to qualify for the National open, June 11, in the district trials at Sunset Hills, and that he also plans to enter the St. Louis Open Golf tournament at the St. Louis Country Club, in July. He will enter both as a professional from the Forest Park Golf Club.

WASHINGTON TO ERECT STADIUM SEATING 35,000

The building of a $450,000 athletic stadium for Washington University, the first unit of which will have a seating capacity of 35,000, was authorized yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the stadium committee, in conjunction with a committee representing the Washington University Corporation, it was announced by Dr. Ewerardt of the school faculty.

The new stadium will be located on Wydown and Big Bend road, and will be completed, according to present plans, by Sept. 1, 1929.

Construction will be financed by the selling of $300,000 in bonds, and by the selling of $150,000 worth of season tickets for the next three years. It is reliably reported that 20 or 30 individuals are likely to subscribe for the bonds, and many of the season tickets already have been subscribed by business firms of the city.

Following Enlargement Program.

The stadium will be so arranged that additional units can be added as the attendance warrants.

In approving plans for the stadium, the committee is following the enlargement program started when Dr. Al Sharpe, nationally known coach, was signed to take the place of Coach Bob Higgins, who resigned to take over the position of assistant to Coach Hugo Bezdeck of Penn State.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Japan and the United States will fight it out for the right to meet the winners of the European zone Davis Cup competition.

The Japanese gained the final bracket in the American zone yesterday by eliminating Canada, three matches to one, at Montreal, 24 hours after the United States had beaten China in the other semi-final, 5 to 0.

The two survivors meet at Chicago, June 1, 2 and 3 with the Americans favorites to advance to the inter-zone final at Paris later this summer. The winner of the inter-zone final gains the right to attempt to wrest the Davis Cup from France and her musketeers, La Coste, Cochet, Borotra and Brugnon.

If the Americans dispose of the Japanese at Chicago, they probably will meet Italy in the inter-zone final. The Italians, through their defeat of Australia and Rumania, have shown more tennis than the other seven European zone nations still in the running—India, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and New Zealand.

WRAY'S OPINION

At Last a Gate.

THE Waite "stall" starting gate was used yesterday at Fairmount in three races and all the starts seemed excellent. It is probable that this gate eventually will be used at all starting points, but at present its use is limited to the six furlong chute. The inventor, however, claims that it can be used anywhere on the track, provided gaps in the fence are made for rolling the "stalls" off the course, after the race.

Many varieties of the stall starting gate have been tried in the past. The idea is not new, but the mechanics of the Waite gate seem to satisfy the situation without requiring a too cumbersome apparatus.

One of the other starting gates tried at winter courses required 47 seconds to remove from the track. This means that if it were employed in a half-mile two-year-old event, fast horses would be finishing the race before the track had been cleared.

The Waite gate is light, is on rollers and can be removed from the track in four seconds. Whether it has drawbacks not not yet revealed will develop from its further employment in the chute. If it is permanently adopted, the only way in which a bad start could result would be through a balky horse or an inattentive jockey.

More Mile Races.

YESTERDAY'S program at Fairmount was largely made up of sprint races. There was not a mile or one mile and 70 yards race on the program. The start of a race under the old barrier conditions at least, is almost as interesting as the finish. The management might increase the showmanship of their spectacle by having three races of the card each day start in front of the grandstand, where all could watch the maneuvers of the jockeys, the starter and his assistants.

Only Six Left.

CLARENCE MITCHELL was passed along, unconditionally released. Mitchell was one of the little band of spitball pitchers still surviving in the major leagues. Of those remaining today Shocker, Grimes and Quinn are still able to hold their own, when in shape. All are near the end of the string.

The spitball hurlers alone survived (those that already were in the big league) when the order to take the "freak" out of major league pitching was promulgated. The hurlers of other types, such as the "emery" ball, the "shine" ball, the "fingernail" ball and that long list of trick heaves which resulted in the abnormal use of the "sailer," were given the gate summarily.

It was decreed that the spitball hurlers might go their way until their careers ended. Mitchell's release lops one more from the list.

The removal of this type of pitching from the field in one way explains the rise of the heavy hitters of today. With the pitchers privileged to use the "sailer" the batter broke his back swinging. The supremacy of the pitcher was strong in the land.

Promoters of baseball finally saw the light—that the public wanted its hitting and its home runs. And so the "freak" was executed and the curve ball came into its own again. Fewer hurlers can throw and control a curve than can pitch a freak ball. And so the day of the batter is effectively clinched for some time to come.

28 CARS HAVE QUALIFIED FOR SPEEDWAY RACE

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29. —Belated drivers had a last chance today to qualify their cars for the sixteenth annual 500-mile race which will be run tomorrow at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Two hours were set aside to permit five pilots to make the effort. One, however, Wilbur Shaw, who will drive Peter de Paolo's car, will be given until the morning of the race, if necessary. The machine was badly battered when De Paolo lost control and turned over last Saturday. De Paolo suffered bruises which will prevent his racing.

A majority of the stars of the sport will sit in the seats of the 28 machines which already have passed the qualification requirement of 90 miles an hour average for 10 miles. Among them are Leon Duray who set two new track records last Saturday; Cliff Woodbury, Cliff Bergere, Ralph Hepburn, George Souders, Norman Batten, Cliff Durant, Pete Kreis and Ray Keech.

While five cars were being hastily reassembled for their final tests, others that had met their obligation were either being torn down for a final rebuilding or were ready for the long grind which will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Devore Makes Good Time.

As in the last two preceding races, the power plants in the speed creations will be limited to a piston displacement of 91½ cubic inches or less. There is no commercial or passenger automobile in America with such small piston displacement. Every car which will start will have an eight-cylinder motor, and with one exception the cylinders will be in a row. One V-type eight is entered.

The field was increased to 28 yesterday when the veteran Earl Devore, Clarence Belt, L. L. Corum and Charles (Dutch) Bauman put their cars through the proper pace. Devore's average of 109.810 was the best of the day.

The track was due to get its annual scrubbing during the day. A drivers' meeting with track officials also was scheduled.

The course was not open to the public today. Thousands of out-of-town visitors were here for the annual Memorial day classic, while other thousands were arriving. The lineup of automobiles at the various entrance gates started several days ago and was increased hourly.

Close Net Race in Big Ten.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—Ohio State lost an opportunity to win the Big Ten tennis championship with an unblemished record when Wisconsin defeated the Buckeyes yesterday 5 to 3. Wisconsin remains undefeated in the conference and must defeat Chicago Wednesday to win the title. Should Chicago win, there will be a four-way tie for the honors between Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio State.

KNOST TO MEET STRAMAGLIA IN COLISEUM BOUT

The Jackson Johnson American Legion Post will hold its final indoor boxing show at the New Coliseum Friday night instead of Thursday, as originally scheduled, according to Matchmaker Jimmy La Capra, who announced the State Athletic Commission had officially sanctioned the change.

La Capra has arranged a program of four 10-round bouts, with Dave Knost, Irish Kennedy and Walter 'Red' Roland and Tommy O'Laughlin listed among the headliners.

Knost has been paired with Rocco Stramaglia. This will be the local heavyweight's third professional bout. Dave kayoed Sandy Moore and Jim St. Clair in his first professional engagements, stopping both men in less than a round.

Kennedy is slated to oppose Rex Ripple of New Orleans in a welterweight feature. In his local debut last week, Kennedy, who comes from St. Paul, Minn., decisively outpunched Bud McDonald of Scott Field. Ripple forced Eddie Goldberg to quit in the ninth round of a Battery bout two weeks ago.

O'Loughlin and Roland will meet in a junior lightweight event marking Roland's first appearance as a local headliner.

Tommy Maroon, a Kansas City bantam, reputed to be one of the hardest punchers of his weight and inchss arcund this section, will meet Mike Sansone of this city in the fourth 10-round attraction.

A reduction of prices, applying to the reserved ringside, box and lower balcony seats, was announced by Clark Hudson, commander of the Jackson Johnson Post, who stated the new scale will range from $4.10 to $3.30.

VALLEY ARCHERY TOURNEY TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The best archers in the Missouri Valley will compete in the first annual Missouri Valley Archery Tournament to be held at Eden Seminary Athletic Field, tomorrow morning beginning at 9 o'clock. Archery clubs from Peoria, Kansas City, East St. Louis, Webster Groves and St. Louis are entered. Both men and women will take part in the tourney. The men will shoot the York and American rounds, while the women will shoot the National and Columbian rounds.

Arthur W. Lambert Jr., holder of the Midwestern and Central States championship and ranked second archer in the United States, is practically conceded first place in the men's division, although much opposition is expected to come from Dr. Charles Woodhauser, member of the Kansas City Archery Club.

Interest is centered on second place. Woodhauser, Fred Brown of Peoria, Winston Firmuth, Tower Grove Archery Club; J. L. Messing, St. Louis, and S. L. Coffin of Webster Groves have all shot within a few points of each other in practice rounds.

The shooting in the women's division will be extremely close. Sixteen women have practiced well and have been within a few points of each other. Among the women entrants are: Mrs. J. H. Curd, Miss Doris Harsh, Miss Blanch Flood, Miss Spooner, Miss Crosley and Miss Tedford.

J. H. Curd, Webster Groes, is handling the meet, E. B. Snyder, president of the Webster Archery Club, is captain of the green.

The Eden Seminary field is located at Eden Seminary, Lockwood and Bonaparte avenues, Webster Groves. The shoot will continue all day.

Entries will not close until shooting starts and at least 20 more are expected to compete.

Italy Defeats France, 4-3, in Olympic Soccer

AMSTERDAM, May 29.—Italy defeated France 4 to 3 today in a closely contested Olympic soccer match.

The Italian-French contest was hardly of Olympic caliber and was marked by acerbities by both sides. The French started the first half with more dash and aggressiveness, but depended on spectacular passes instead of charges and thereby lost at least five opportunities to score.

In the second half the Italians displayed much more enthusiasm and assumed a decided advantage, although the two teams had been rated as evenly matched in advance calculations.

ST. LOUIS U. DOCTORS WILL HOLD 15-MILE MARATHON TOMORROW

Fifty-five runners, seeking only the honor of victory, will start in a 15-mile marathon race to be held on the grounds of the Forsythe home at Kinloch tomorrow, Coach "Hunk" Anderson of St. Louis University has announced.

Jake Kasying and Augie Schmidt, veteran distance men along with Jim Holland, winner of the 15-mile run at Collinsville last season, are included among those who will toe the marks in the endurance test.

The race will be one of the features of outdoor carnival of the medical school of St. Louis University.

BEAUMONT, C. B. C. AND UNIVERSITY CITY MAY MEET IN TITLE SERIES

The movement for a district championship baseball series between winners in the High School, Prep and County leagues is gaining strength, with negotiations already under way between two of the title schools. University City, victor in the County circuit, is seeking a game with Beaumont, winner in the Prep League, with a strong possibility that the contest will be played next week. It is expected then, that the survivor of this game will play the Prep League champions, Christian Brothers College.

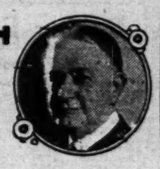
SPORT SALAD



by L. Edaris

Cardinal Colors.

THE Cincinnati Reds
Stood the Red Birds on their heads,
And made their brilliant plumage somewhat duller;
So therefore we're inclined
To believe they're color blind,
Or, haven't much respect for their own color.

The Cardinals were blue
When that Cincinnati crew
With lavish hand was passing around the zeroes;
And moreover, be it said,
That the fans were seeing red
When the Rhinemen started picking on our heroes.

It could easily be seen
That with envy we were green
If we even hinted that the Reds were yellow;
But be that as it may,
With the Cardinals away,
The color scheme the Browns will surely mellow.

And How!

Having hired George Sisler ahd Lester Bell, Rogers Hornsby is said to be angling for Tommy Thevenow. Indicating that Rogers will not be happy until he has an all-St. Louis infield.

George Sisler is going to have his "day" if, when and how. It all depends on the trade winds.

Right now it looks as though it would be on the occasion of the Braves' first visit to St. Louis. But it isn't a cinch. Sisler Day is one of those moveable feasts that is liable to happen on the first blue Monday after the first full moon or the second Tuesday after the 30th of February.

Easy Picking.

We take it that any miner from the Joplin district who intends to tide over the slack season by going to the Ozarks to pick berries will take his pick with him.

It's a long way from California to New York, but 55 bunioneers" came across. Now the question of the hour is, will Pyle do likewise?

On account of the wear and tear on their corns and callouses they are all probably in need of a trimming. And some of them seem to believe that the middle "C" in Pyle's name stands for "Chiropodist."

However, Champaign Charlie says he will pay off Friday night when he puts on his show at the Garden, win, lose or draw. That is to say, if the winners don't draw they will lose.

Only about $000 of the one-a-minute boys turned out to see the finish of the race in Madison Square Garden. Indicating that the birth rate must have slowed up to a whisper.

However, this is the off-season for pay-as-you-enter carp in New York. They don't begin to bite until the six-day bike race is put on.

SECRETARY DAVIS PUTS O. K. ON ARMY GRID GAME WITH STANFORD

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Secretary Davis has authorized a football game between the West Point cadets and the Leland Stanford University at Christmas time on the Pacific Coast, if Major-General William R. Smith, superintendent of the military academy, finds arrangements desirable to contract for such a game.

REIGH COUNT IS WITHDRAWN FROM BELMONT STAKES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Mrs. John D. Hertz of Chicago believes she and her Kentucky Derby winner, Reigh Count, are the victims of a $50,000 kick.

While at the post in the Derby, the big red Chicago colt was kicked, suffering a cut about an inch long on his left hind leg. When the wound appeared to be healing, he was entered in the $50,000 Belmont Stakes, June 9. Yesterday it was announced he had been withdrawn from the rich stakes as the cut was still sore and bothersome.

Mrs. Hertz was confident Reigh Count could have won the Belmont Stakes and thereby establish full claim to 3-year-old supremacy as well as become the biggest money winner of recent years. The colt will be transferred this week from Churchill Downs, Louisville, to Arlington Park, Chicago.

"Reigh Count is sound," Mrs. Hertz said. "Rumors that he was permanently injured in the Derby are false. We are taking him out of training simply to safeguard his future condition. We hope to race him again this summer."

STANFORD FACES TRACK TEAMS OF MIDDLE WEST IN NATIONAL GAMES

CHICAGO, May 29.—Stanford's track and field team, winners of Saturday's Eastern Intercollegiate meet at Harvard, will face champions of the Big Ten and Missouri Valley Conferences at the National Intercollegiate championships at Soldier Field, June 8 and 9.

Illinois, Big Ten titleholder for two years, has entered virtually the same team that won the annual outdoor meet Saturday. Kansas, Missouri Valley champion, has entered several of its most brilliant stars. String teams from the South and East also have been entered.

GALAHAD WORKS FULL DERBY DISTANCE AT FAIRMOUNT IN 2:06 3-5

REUTER'S COLT SURE TO START IN RICH STAKE NEXT SATURDAY

By Dent McSkimming.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK, COLLINSVILLE, Ill., May 29.—A slight rain in the early hours of the morning reduced somewhat the number of serious workouts by candidates for Saturday's Fairmount Derby, but Phil Reuter was very enthusiastic over the showing of his imported gelding, Galahad.

Reuter sent Galahad the full Derby distance of one mile and a quarter. He stepped the distance in 2:06 3-5, wonderful time considering the track was far from being fast.

Running the first mile, accompanied by another colt, Galahad showed a good turn of speed, covering the distance in 1:41 3-5. He then continued for the extra quarter mile without any company, running the full distance three seconds slower than the track record, set by Haste in the Derby of 1926.

Reuter said today that he has decided to put Earl Pool on Galahad in the Derby. He has a very promising apprentice jockey in Elmo Shropshire, but the boy weighs only 96 pounds, whereas Galahad will carry 118 pounds. If Shropshire were the rider, it would be necessary to pile 22 pounds of lead under the saddle, added weight, which might be sufficient to prevent the horse from giving his best performance.

SMITH ESTATE GAINS ANOTHER VICTORY FOR RABBIT CONTROL

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—Limiting the use of mechanical rabbits on dog tracks throughout the country, the fifth United States Court of Appeals here yesterday enjoined infringement of the Owen P. Smith greyhound racing track patents by the New Orleans Kennel Club, Inc., and others.

The Court, in deciding in favor of the rabbit patent owner, affirmed the judgment of the Federal District Court at New Orleans. The order directed a special master to obtain an accounting. The suit was brought by Owen T. Smith and prosecuted by his estate to require payment of patent license returns.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, May 29.—Wheat closed substantially lower with corn prices down a cent on the local market today.

Forecast of unsettled weather in the Dakotas, slowness of export demand and talk of possible private reports on Friday raising winter wheat estimate were mentioned in connection with this decline in wheat.

In the local cash grain market no soft wheat was offered. Hard wheat was unchanged to lower. Cash corn was lower and oats lower.

Opening fractionally higher wheat futures early lost the gain and reacted to more than cent net lower. Liverpool closed 1⅛d lower on July and 1⅝d on October. Winnipeg was fractionally lower early on May and July. The downturn in wheat was credited to cooler weather in Northwest. Corn also declined a cent after higher start.

July wheat opened at $1.49⅞, September wheat $1.50. July corn $1.06½.

Local wheat receipts, which were 30,200 bushels, compared with 58,800 a week ago and 103,600 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 12 through; corn receipts, which were 105,000 bushels, compared with 60,200 a week ago and 180,000 a year ago, included 45 cars local and 30 through; oats receipts, which were 40,000 bushels, compared with 62,000 a week ago and 138,000 a year ago, included 5 cars local and 15 through; hay receipts were 18 cars local and 7 through.

CHICAGO WHEAT SELLS LOWER AFTER UPTURN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Selling on the part of houses with Eastern connections brought about a decided setback of wheat values today. In some quarters the selling was attributed largely to predictions that unofficial reports to be given to the trade on Friday will show a good-sized increase of the estimated yield of domestic winter wheat. Impetus to the selling was also ascribed to a forecast of unsettled weather in the Dakotas and of showers in Canada, as well as to slowness of export demand today for wheat from North America.

Wheat closed heavy, 2⅝c to 3⅝c net lower, corn ⅝c to 2⅛@2⅝c off, oats ⅛c to 1⅝c down and provisions varying from 2@5c decline to an equal advance.

Wheat prices turned downward today after an early advance that was associated with dry weather northwest.

Upturns met with selling from houses which have been conspicuous of late on the bull side. Opening at ⅛c decline to ⅛c gain, wheat rose all around, but later dropped to well below yesterday's finish. Corn was relatively firm, starting at a shade off to ⅝c up, and subsequently showing a general advance. Oats were easy. Provisions held steady.

Cooler temperature in parts of the spring wheat belt tended to act at times today as more than a counterbalance for reports as to moisture. Various North Dakota reports mentioned mercury down to freezing. On the other hand, Kansas official advices telling of crop deterioration from fly damage and root rot in some eastern counties attracted notice.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, May 29.—Wheat closed substantially lower with corn price down a cent on the local market today.

Forecast of unsettled weather in the Dakotas, slowness of export demand and talk of possible private reports on Friday raising winter wheat estimate were mentioned in connection with late decline in wheat.

In the local cash grain market on soft wheat was offered. Hard wheat was unchanged to lower. Cash corn was lower and oats lower.

Opening fractionally higher wheat futures early lost the gain and reacted to more than cent net lower. Liverpool closed 1¼d lower on July and 1½d on October. Winnipeg was fractionally lower early on May and July. The downturn in wheat was credited to cooler weather in Northwest. Corn also declined a cent after higher start.

July wheat opened at $1.49⅛, September wheat $1.50. July corn $1.06¼.

Local wheat receipts, which were 39,200 bushels, compared with 58,800 a week ago and 103,600 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 12 through; corn receipts, which were 105,000 bushels, compared with 60,200 a week ago and 189,000 a year ago, included 45 cars local and 30 through; oats receipts, which were 40,000 bushels, compared with 62,000 a week ago and 138,000 a year ago, included 5 cars local and 15 through; hay receipts were 28 cars local and 7 through.

CHICAGO WHEAT SELLS LOWER AFTER UPTURN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Selling on the part of houses with Eastern connections brought about a decided setback of wheat values today. In some quarters the selling was attributed largely to predictions that unofficial reports to be given to the trade on Friday will show a good-sized increase of the estimated yield of domestic winter wheat. Impetus to the selling was also ascribed to a forecast of unsettled weather in the Dakotas and of showers in Canada, as well as to slowness of export demand today for wheat from North America.

Wheat closed heavy, 2⅝c to 3⅝c net lower, corn ⅝c to 2¼@2⅝c off, oats ⅝c to 1⅛c down and provisions varying from 2@5c decline to an equal advance.

Wheat prices turned downward today after an early advance that was associated with dry weather northwest.

Upturns met with selling from houses which have been conspicuous of late on the bull side. Opening at ¼c decline to ⅝c gain, wheat rose all around, but later dropped to well below yesterday's finish. Corn was relatively firm, starting at a shade off to ⅝c up, and subsequently showing a general advance. Oats were easy. Provisions held steady.

Cooler temperature in parts of the spring wheat belt tended to act at times today as more than a counterbalance for reports as to moisture. Various North Dakota reports mentioned mercury down to freezing. On the other hand, Kansas official advices telling of crop deterioration from fly damage and root rot in some eastern counties attracted notice.

CHRYSLER ACQUIRES DODGE BROS CORP. IN MERGER DEAL

NEW YORK, May 29.

DIRECTORS of the Chrysler Corporation today have approved a plan to acquire the entire property of Dodge Brothers Corporation, including its subsidiaries in this country and abroad through an exchange of stock.

Under the terms of the merger one share of Chrysler common stock will be exchanged for each share of Dodge Brothers preference stock and one share of Chrysler common for each five shares of Dodge Brothers class A common and one share of Chrysler common for each 10 shares of Dodge Brothers class B common.

The Chrysler Corporation will assume all outstanding liabilities of Dodge Brothers, Inc., including the balance remaining of $57,276,000 6 per cent debenture bonds.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The stock market having recovered from the shock of 6½ per cent call money late yesterday, staged a recovery today, during which more than two score issues were elevated to new high levels for the year, or longer. Net gains of 1 to 5 points were scattered throughout the list, with a few high priced specialties closing 6 to nearly 17 points higher. Trading was fairly heavy for a pre-holiday session, the day's sales aggregating 3,478,600 shares.

The rally in prices received considerable impetus in the last half hour by the reduction in call money from the renewal rate of 6 to 5½ per cent. In view of the heavy holiday and month-end demand for funds, the decrease was rather surprising, and probably accounted for the influx of out-of-town funds. There was no change in time money and commercial paper.

Motor shares gave one of the most impressive demonstrations of group strength on buying influenced by merger reports. Dodge Brothers and Chrysler, plans for the consolidation of which were announced after the close of the market, were the leaders. Dodge Brothers preferred advanced 13¾ points to 83, the highest price since January, 1927, and Chrysler advanced 8 points to a new peak at 88½, each closing within a fraction of the top. The turnover in Chrysler was 441,000 shares, and in Dodge preferred 297,500 shares.

Rise in Motors.

Sympathetic strength developed in other motors. The automobile sales tax is eliminated in the revenue measure signed by the President Coolidge today. General Motors, which was weak yesterday, ran up more than 5 points, to 191⅞. Net gains of 2 points or more were recorded by Hudson, Hupp, Nash, Packard and Studebaker, while the Pierce-Arrow issues, Jordan and Moon advanced a point or more.

Violent advances also were recorded in a number of high-priced industrial specialties. International Harvester soared 16⅝ points to a new high record at 286. Wright Aeronautical recorded a net gain of 8⅝ at 178⅝, after having dipped to 163 in the early trading. Curtiss rallied from 120½ to 130 and then eased to 127½, up 7⅛ net. Radio closed 7 points higher at 206½ after fluctuating between 197 and 207½.

Day's News Mixed.

Among the many issues to reach new high ground were Remington Rank, Frank G. Shattuck, Detroit Edison, New York State Railways preferred, Burns Brothers preferred and Metro-Goldwyn Pictures preferred. There were a few soft spots. Adams Express broke 15 points on a few sales and American Radiator, Bayuk Cigars, Baldwin Locomotive and United Biscuit common sold down 3 to 8 points.

The day's business news was mixed in character. The weekly steel trade reviews reported a further slackening in demand and output but with prices holding fairly steady. In contrast with the tendency of the last few weeks, the daily production of crude oil in the United States increased 16,602 barrels in week ended May 26, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. The price of newsprint for 1929 delivery was cut $3 a ton, but common stock of the International Paper Co. nevertheless advanced 4 points to 79 and closed within a fraction of the top.

Exchange Trade Quiet.

Wheat prices broke more than 3 cents a bushel on favorable crop forecasts.

Foreign exchange trading was again quiet, with sterling cables ruling firm around $4.88⅝.

Chrysler to Retire 220,937 Pfd.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Directors of the Chrysler Corporation today voted to retire the 220,937 shares of eight per cent preferred stock outstanding at $115 a share on Aug. 6.

COTTON RANGE NARROW ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 29.—Trading in the cotton market today was attributed largely to the evening-up of accounts for over the Memorial day adjournment and fluctuations were comparatively restricted. After opening lower, prices rallied on apprehensions of showery weather in the South, but the advance was checked by realizing or liquidation and prices sagged off again later. The midafternoon market was dull, at net advances of about 1 to 5 points.

Futures closed steady, unchanged to three points lower; July 20.56-57; October 20.69-70; December 20.54-56; January, 20.45; March 20.40; spot quiet, middling 21.05.

NERVOUS TRADE MARKS SESSION ON THE CURB

NEW YORK, May 29. — Preholiday profit-taking kept the curb market unsettled today. The close was irregular, with many issues closing lower, especially utilities and oils, and some industrial specialties recording wide gains. Reduction of the call money rate to 5½ per cent in the face of predictions that no change could be expected before early June caused a brief upward movement, the effect of which, however, largely was dispelled by renewed liquidation.

Aluminum Co. of America led the upswing in the industrial group, soaring more than 12 points. It was announced that stockholders will be asked June 14 to approve a plan to transfer all shares owned by the company in other corporations to a new corporation to be formed in Canada or other foreign country in exchange for all the common stock of the new company. Some motor and automotive stocks also showed gains at the close, among them Auburn Auto, Bohn Aluminum, Doehler Die Casting, Safe-T-Stat and A. O. Smith.

A few artificial silk stocks, such as British Celanese and Tubize, improved under fairly heavy demand. Good gains were made by Nichols & Shepard, which moved up 5 points to a new top at 59⅝. Noranda Mines, Columbia Graphophone, Hygrade Food Products, National Sugar Refining and General Baking.

Airplane stocks were irregular. Transcontinental Air closed fractionally higher after sagging most of the day and Wright Aero Rights gained more than 2 points. Aero Supply B sold off a point and Curtiss Aero exports closed unchanged.

Oils were firmer, but gains were limited.

BONDS CLOSE IRREGULAR ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Easing money rates and an increase in money offerings resulted in expanded activity and a slightly firmer tone in the bond market today, but the close was irregular. Industrials and some rails particularly were favorably affected by the improvement in the money situation and some issues made further gains on individual developments.

Dodge Brothers debenture 6s led the upturn, reaching a new top for the year at 95, and closing a point or two below this figure, but with a net gain of more than five points on the day. The strength of the issue reflected that of the stock, both being accumulated on reports, confirmed after the market closed, that the company has been acquired by the Chrysler Corporation, which assumes all obligations. Robbins & Myers 7s moved to the year's high at 55, a net gain of five points. Copper Company obligations were in demand late in the day. Andes Copper 7s advancing a point.

The pressure of liquidation caused losses elsewhere in the industrial list, however, with Goodyear Tire and Rubber 5s, International Mach 5s and others declining to the year's lowest levels. Liquid Carbonic 6s sagged nearly 4 points.

Improvement in the railroad group was due chiefly to advances scored by Iowa Central 4s and New York, Worcester & Boston 4½s, both of which gained more than a point on the day, and a number of others which registered fractional gains. Erie General 4s sold off 3 points. Illinois Central first 3½s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s and others were down. Wabash refunding and second 5s reached new lows for the year at 100 and 103⅝ respectively.

Oils and utilities also were soft.

There was little activity in the foreign group, which closed steady. French Republic 7s improved under demand.

U. S. Government obligations were inclined to heaviness, with the exception of Liberty third 4¼s, which showed a small

WALSH AN[D] ... IN CONTI[NENTAL] ...

Fake Company Formed by Sinclair, Stewart, O'Neil and Blackmer for Private Gain, Prosecutor Says.

CHAIRMAN ASSAILS FAILURE OF LAW

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Two separate reports, each phrased in the most biting language, will be submitted to the Senate today by the Teapot Dome Committee, covering its investigation of the Continental Trading Co., the distribution of its notorious Liberty bonds, and other incidents relating to the corrupt leasing of the naval oil reserves by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

The main report, drafted by Senator Walsh of Montana, severely arraigns Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon for his conduct in withholding for three years his knowledge of the use to which some of the Continental bonds were put, and his failure for three years to make any attempt to collect the delinquent income taxes due from the conspirators who shared the Continental's profits.

With equal vigor it comments upon the actions of Will H. Hays and William M. Butler, former chairmen of the Republican National Committee, and deals drastically with Robert W. Stewart, head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and the other oil men who participated in the Continental's famous deal.

Nye Criticises Juries.

A supplemental report, written by Chairman Nye, denounces even more vigorously the entire transaction, involving the lease and the distribution of the bonds, and also the failure of courts and juries to convict Fall, Sinclair and E. L. Doheny for their corruption. It cites the acquittal of these men as a flagrant example of the frustration of justice by wealth and influence, and declares it has done more to damage democracy than all the actions of all the "Reds" who have been deported.

Declaring that the reports are not to be considered final, and pointing out that many avenues of inquiry are yet to be exhausted, the Nye report says:

"The investigation thus far discloses that the leasing of the Naval Oil Reserves constitutes criminal conspiracy against the rights, interests and properties of the United States Government unparalleled in the history of this or any other civilized nation.

"Slimiest of Slimy Trails."

"Never has the world known a case involving a degree of fraud, quite evident bribery, thievery, conspiracy, and corruption to compare with what has come to be known as the Teapot Dome-Elk Hills-Continental Trading Co. case. The leases involved in the case are estimated to have been worth not less than $500,000,000, and were consumated, to use the language of the Supreme Court of the United States, 'by conspiracy, corruption and fraud.'

"The investigation has uncovered the slimiest of slimy trails beaten by privilege. The investigation has shown privilege at its worst. The trail is one of dishonesty, greed, violation of law, secrecy, concealment, evasion, falsehood and cunning. It is a trail of betrayals by trusted and presumably honorable men—betrayals of a government, of certain business interests and the people who trusted and honored them. It is a trail showing a flagrant degree of the exercise of political power and influence, and the power and influence of great wealth upon individuals and political parties. It is a trail of despoilers and schemers far more dangerous to the well-being of our nation and our democracy than all those who have been deported from our shores in all time as undesirable citizens."

Justice a Commodity.

Alluding to the acquittal of Sinclair, Fall and Doheny of charges of criminal conspiracy, the report proceeds:

"The acquittal verdicts which followed the Fall-Doheny and the Fall-Sinclair trials have been considered most deplorable failures of justice on every side, excepting only the side of privilege. These failures have been of such nature as to prove the need for such changes in court procedure as will make advantage no more easily available to the criminal of great means than to the offender who comes out of the most lowly [illegible]

WALSH AND NYE RAKE FRAUD IN CONTINENTAL OIL DEAL

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Two separate reports, each phrased in the most biting language, will be submitted to the Senate today by the Teapot Dome Committee, covering its investigation of the Continental Trading Co., the distribution of its notorious Liberty bonds, and other incidents relating to the corrupt leasing of the naval oil reserves by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. "The acquittal verdicts which followed the Fall-Doheny and the Fall-Sinclair trials have been considered most deplorable failures of justice on every side, excepting only the side of privilege. These failures have been of such nature as to prove the need for such changes in court proceedure as will make advantage no more easily available to the criminal of great means than to the offender who comes out of the most lowly classes. Great wealth in these particular cases has won delays and purchased talent which have served to divert the mind from and cloud the real offenses and criminal acts attendant thereon. Justice has been proven, not a thing to be applied to and enjoyed by all alike, but instead, a commodity to be bought by wealth, and able lawyers in the Congress and out would contribute mightily to the cause of our democracy if they would devote themselves to such legislation as would make justice reach out to all alike.

"Slimiest of Slimy Trails Beaten by Privilege," Nye Says

WASHINGTON, May 29. CHAIRMAN NYE of the Teapot Dome Committee of the Senate in a report supplementing that of Senator Walsh, denounces the participants in the oil scandal in the following language:

"Never has the world known a case involving a degree of fraud, quite evident bribery, thievery, conspiracy, and corruption to compare with what has come to be known as the Teapot Dome-Elk Hills-Continental Trading Co. The leases involved in the case are estimated to have been worth not less than $500,000,000, and were consummated, to use the language of the Supreme Court of the United States, 'by conspiracy, corruption and fraud.'

It is a trail of despoilers and schemers far more dangerous to the well-being of our nation and our democracy than all those who have been deported from our shores in all time as undesirable citizens."

Jurors Denied Information.

"The delays which have been attendant upon the trial of cases growing out of the Naval oil leases is not to the credit of the order that prevails in the dispensation of justice. Because of these permissable delays we become the laughing stock of the world. There are technicalities which do not permit, when expensive legal talent objects, the offering of all evidence bearing upon the case on trial. The complaints offered by jurors who voted an acquittal in one of the cases growing out of the leasing of the Naval oil reserves to the effect that he learned more about the case from newspapers he read after being relieved from duty on the jury, than he had learned during the entire course of the trial, which ran over many days, is a case in point.

"Greed would be served through means, corrupt if need be, so long as there remains the chance to play with and break down the true purpose of law. Conspiracies can be anticipated so long as conspirators are shown to have a chance for trial before juries which can be denied knowledge of conditions and facts attendant upon that fact of conspiracy."

Walsh Traces Consolidated.

The Walsh report, in a manner characteristic of its author, gives an exact and detailed history of the chartering of the Continental Trading Co. by H. H. Osler, a Canadian attorney, and describes how it accumulated a profit of $3,080,000 by purchasing oil and selling it to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co. and the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. It repeats how the profit was divided among Sinclair, Stewart, James E. O'Neil, head of the Prairie, and H. M. Blackmer, head of the Midwest Refining Co., a Sinclair subsidiary.

Although Sinclair, Stewart and O'Neil have since restored their profits to their companies, the committee declared their original intention obviously was to keep these profits for themselves, thus robbing their stockholders of them. Mention is made, in this connection, of the flight of Blackmer and O'Neil to Europe, to avoid testifying, and to Stewart's refusal to answer certain pointed questions.

The report alludes to the previous refusals of M. T. Everhart, Fall's son-in-law, to testify, and relates how, after a special act of Congress had deprived him of that refuge, he appeared and disclosed that he had received $233,000 in Liberty Bonds from Sinclair to be given to Fall, a month after the leasing of Teapot Dome.

"A Shallow Fable."

"There was some pretense," it continues, "that the bonds represented the purchase price of a one-third interest in the Tres Ritos Land & Cattle Co., whose ranch property was to be turned into a sort of riding and hunt club, but so shallow was this fable that its details need not be dwelt upon, although it was accepted by the jury that acquitted Sinclair of the charge of conspiring to defraud the United States in securing the Teapot Dome lease."

After mentioning the flight of Blackmer and O'Neil, and their successful efforts to evade testifying, the report recites how they "crept back to Canada," O'Neil anticipating death, and Blackmer fearful of prosecution by the company which he had mulcted. O'Neil made full restitution of his share to the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., and Blackmer placed his share in escrow in a New York bank.

Concerning the testimony of Stewart that he had no hand in the organization of the Continental, and knew nothing of its purposes the report expresses incredulity, and mentions that the record of his testimony has been certified to the District Attorney for possible action for perjury. It refers also to his early refusals to testify, and to his resulting indictment for contempt.

Hays and Upham.

Then follows a merciless dissection of the various testimony given by Will H. Hays. Recalling that Hays in 1924 was before the committee and failed to disclose the extent of Sinclair's bond donation to the Republican party in 1923, the report states that he reappeared this year on his own volition, but when pressed to explain the bond transaction, gave testimony which was "indefinite and unintelligible."

How $60,000 of the bonds were sent by Hays to the late Fred W. Upham, then national treasurer of the Republican party, and how Upham split the sum up into small "contributions," and recorded them under dummy names, is related. It also is related that Hays asked Secretary Mellon and Republican Chairman Butler to permit their names to be similarly used to mask Sinclair's donation.

While they declined, the report adds, "neither of them manifested any resentment, nor did either rebuke Hays, or counsel him to return the bonds to Sinclair, or make any effort to dissuade him from 'using' them, nor did either take any steps to prevent his use of them."

Mellon Did Not Explain.

"Moreover, at the outset of its work the committee sought the aid of the Treasury, and was assured by the Secretary that the Secretary's secret service would give all possible assistance. It responded, and was collaborating with the committee in its efforts to trace the bonds, but received no information of the Secretary's connection with them.

"Secretary Mellon was unaware that the bonds tendered him came from the Continental but he knew they were contributed by Sinclair, for Hays told him so, and he had information from some other source that Sinclair had made a huge contribution toward liquidating the debt of the Republican National Committee.

"It should be recalled that the lease to Sinclair was at that time under investigation. No explanation was offered by the Secretary as to why he did not communicate to Government counsel the invaluable information in his possession concerning Sinclair's extraordinary generosity, nor why he did not acquaint the committee with the obviously pertinent fact that Sinclair had turned over a large sum of bonds to Hays.

G. O. P. "Shakedown" Intimated.

"The report points out that the Treasury Department itself had assisted Government counsel in tracing some of the bonds from Sinclair to Fall, and continues:

"Although Secretary Mellon had no definite information that the bonds Hays got from Sinclair were Continental bonds, the slightest attention to the facts would have made such an inference all but irresistible, even if he were not prompted by the official duty of collecting the income tax, obviously due from the Continental, to make searching inquiry into what became of its bonds."

The intimation that Sinclair was "shaken down" for the $160,000 contribution which he made to the Republican party through Hays in 1923 is made in the report, which points out that it occurred at the identical time that evidences of corruption in connection with the lease were beginning to appear before the investigating committee.

"This suggests," it states, "that the extraordinary sum yielded up at that critical hour by Sinclair was not altogether voluntarily given, but that either hope or fear, if not gratitude, accentuated his devotion to the Republican party. In the predicament in which he

DRY GRAFT LAID TO BACKER OF PAPER OPPOSING HOOVER

Mrs. Willebrandt Discloses Result of Inquiries About Frank J. Hale, Former Prohibition Agent.

SAYS HE COLLECTED ON SMUGGLED LIQUOR

Asserts at Senate Campaign Hearing He Was Close Friend of General Andrews.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Frank J. Hale, former Broadway actor and erstwhile Federal prohibition enforcement officer and now backer of the anti-Hoover weekly magazine, "Politics," recently told the Senate Presidential Campaign Fund Investigating Committee that the publicity given his publication by the committee's inquiry was worth $1,000,000. This paper profit was completely wiped out yesterday by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, and a Hoover supporter, when she disclosed to the committee the contents of the department's dossier on Hale.

After Hale had refused to give definite information as to where he had obtained the $8500 he had sunk in the anti-Hoover weekly since January this year, it was suggested to the committee that a subpena be issued for Elmer Irey, chief of the special intelligence unit of the Treasury Department, for it was known that Hale had been investigated many times both by the Internal Revenue Bureau and the prohibition unit. This was not done, however, and Mrs. Willebrandt volunteered her testimony. To a considerable degree she erased the "large question mark" Hale was willing to leave on his testimony.

Charges Hale With Graft.

Her testimony indicated a close tie-up between Hale and Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition, who resigned last June. When the new prohibition commissioner, James N. Doran, came in, he summarily dismissed Hale.

The most damaging evidence Mrs. Willebrandt presented was to the effect that Hale had collected $2.50 and $5 a case on liquor smuggled in through Long Island.

Mrs. Willebrandt's testimony was far afield from the presidential campaign fund investigation, but it shed an amazing light on Federal prohibition enforcement in New York and New Jersey under Andrews. It disclosed, to say the least, that Andrews was unfortunate in the choice of his associates. According to Mrs. Willebrandt, Hale "was one of the most disintegrating influences in law enforcement in that section." She stated that in 1926 she realized it was hopeless to ask Andrews to make an investigation of Hale's operations, and went directly to Secretary Mellon for immediate action.

She said Hale had come into the prohibition service in 1922 and had never reported a gross income of more than $5200; including that of his wife, an actress. She stated that the Senate committee could "materially help in ascertaining whether Mr. Hale was swearing truthfully in saying that he was able to bear a loss on his paper of $400 a week."

"Our entire investigation indicates that so far as his sworn statements are concerned, he could not bear those losses himself," she declared. "If his sworn statements are not true, the Government would like this committee to assist us in finding that out."

Investigation Continues.

She stated that the investigation of Hale's operations was still in progress. She mentioned two other persons in connection with Hale's alleged irregularities—the late Jestine Chamberlain, a paint and varnish salesman of Philadelphia and Atlantic City, and Harold Goldman, a New York attorney, who helped Hale incorporate "Politics."

Chamberlain was a close friend of Andrews and secured Hale's promotion in the service. In his letter of recommendation to Andrews, Chamberlain wrote, "You will find Mr. Frank J. Hale one good soldier. Nuff said."

Hale has been the subject of several investigations, Mrs. Willebrandt said. After he had received his promotion from Andrews, the investigating agents reported "it is now understood that Prohibition Agent Frank J. Hale is regarded by his superior officers (referring, Mrs. Willebrandt said, to Andrews and possibly Commissioner Haynes) as a truthworthy and efficient agent, and it is recommended that this investigation be closed."

"The other parts of their reports show they were having difficulty in interviewing agents who had worked with Hale, Hale being in a superior position commanding and controlling those agents," Mrs. Willebrandt continued. "The report had been before Gen. Andrews before Hale was appointed. No denials of the report of Hale's misconduct appear other than this recommendation by this man Chamberlain.

"Chamberlain's success in getting Hale reinstated when the investigation was proceeding to the point where probably the truth would be found, is rather significant. These records show that Chamberlain, prior to connecting up with Hale, had never deposited in the bank more than $300 at any one time, most of his deposits being $203.33, his salary. Immediately after connecting up with Hale and succeeding in getting Hale in this enlarged position, Chamberlain started large deposits of from $1000 to $5000 monthly.

Deposited $156,000.

"In a little more than a year he deposited in the Aldine Trust Co. of Newark, N. J., $90,793, and in another bank, the Chelsea National Bank of Atlantic City, $65,933.37, but during that period his known legitimate income was less than $10,000 including bonus and commission.

"Another significant incident is that on Jan. 27, 1927, Chamberlain spent the evening with Hale in New York City. The next morning when Chamberlain arrived at his place of employment in Newark he showed the president of his firm twenty $1000 bills.

"Another significant fact in the financial transactions of Mr. Hale about which this committee has already made inquiry, arises with respect to Harold Goldman," Mrs. Willebrandt continued. "The Government investigators have also tried to interview Harold Goldman with respect to his business transactions with Hale. Goldman refused to testify on the grounds it would incriminate him, but the papers which the committee has asked for show that Goldman, prior to connecting up with Hale, had an income of around $5000, but never more.

Income Jumped to $50,000.

In 1926, when he connected up with Hale, his income jumped to $50,000 or in excess of that. Also, on Sept. 22, 1925, Goldman rented a safe deposit box—it is No. 16105—at the National City Bank. He arranged for that box to be opened by either himself or one John Morgan. An investigation of the slip signed by John Morgan indicates beyond the question of any reasonable doubt that John Morgan is Frank Hale.

"Hale testified before the committee that he had neither a bank account nor safety deposit box." Referring again to the tremendous deposits which were made by Chamberlain immediately after he secured Hale a position from Gen. Andrews giving him unlimited control of the alcohol output in New York territory, it was found very hard to trace those deposits because all of the deposits by Chamberlain, in piling up these huge sums in the bank, were in cash, except one. There was one check of $5000. That check was drawn by the W. W. Smith Co. When our investigators made an effort to find out why it was so drawn, the W. W. Smith Co. or its representatives refused to testify on the ground that it would incriminate them."

"What was the business of that concern?" Chairman Steiwer of Oregon asked.

"The W. W. Smith Co. has been disclosed as a cover-house for the W. J. Wiggins Co.," Mrs. Willebrandt replied. "Higgins had an alcohol permit to manufacture alcohol in New York and the W. W. Smith Co. has since, in the revoca-

METHODISTS MODIFY VIEWS ON DIVORCE

Bar on Women Delegates to Yearly Conferences Retained by Church.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 29.—Views of the Methodist Episcopal Church regarding the remarrying of divorced persons by ministers of the church were modified here today by the general conference of the church, which adopted a report recognizing "adultery or its full moral equivalent" as grounds for divorce. Heretofore only adultery ahs been recognized.

The Board of Education was instructed to prepare courses of study setting forth the practical values of marriage, for use in church schools. Young people were urged to seek parental, medical and pastoral advice before marrying and all states were asked to pass laws delaying the granting of marriage licenses until applications had ben publicly posted and a reasonable length of time had elapsed.

Divorces granted by the State were recognized as legal and divorced persons may be received into the church upon "manifestation of a proper spirit and satisfactory answers to the usual inquiries."

The conference refused by an almost two-to-one vote, to admit women to annual conferences of the church, which would give them full membership in the ministry.

Women are ordained and permitted to fill local and supply charges, but are given no permanent posts in the Methodist ministry.

The action was taken in the adoption of a majority report of the Itinerancy Committee, presented by the Rev. Manfred C. Wright of Logansport, Ind., who gave four reasons for refusing women full membership, including: "Motherhood: If John Wesley's mother had been a minister the Methodist Church never would have been born.

"Morale: We have no right to expect women to travel our banditinfested and thug-ridden highways in the late hours of the night."

The report, in the form of an amendment to the church discipline, permits ministers to determine in their own minds whether there were proper grounds for divorce instead of being required to examine court records, as heretofore.

The discipline, as amended, reads: "A minister shall not solemnize a marriage of a divorced person whose husband or wife is still living, except for the innocent person, when it is clearly established in his own mind that the true cause of divorce is adultery, or its moral equivalent."

Twelve of the 21 domestic bishops were reassigned today by the Episcopacy Committee.

The assignments include: Atlanta, Ga., Frederick T. Keeney, transferred from Omaha; Chattanooga, Tenn., H. Lester Smith, transferred from Helena, Mont.; Indianapolis, Edgar Blake, transferred from Paris; New York City, Francis J. McConnell, transferred from Pittsburg; Omaha, Neb., Frederick D. Leete, transferred from Indianapolis; Philadelphia, Ernest G. Richardson, transferred from Atlanta; Pittsburg, Pa., Herbert Welch, transferred from Seoul, Korea; Portland, Ore., Titus Lowe, transferred from Singapore; Kansas City, Ernest L. Waldorf, reassigned.

Working under pressure until late last night to clear a crowded docket for final adjournment today, the conference approved a new pension plan, dismissed charges against eight bishops and voted to leave the Apostles creed of the church unchanged.

Under the new pension plan, the church will pay annually into a ministers' retirement fund, 8 per cent of the pastor's salary. This would replace the present annual assessment. The pastor would be required to contribute 2½ per cent of his salary while active, which would go to his heir in case of his death before retirement. As a reserve fund of about $20,000,000 will be required no definite date was set for the plan to become effective.

The charges against the bishops were dismissed on the recommendation of the Episcopacy Committee, which reported that the allegations were of a technical nature and unimportant. Included were charges of heresy filed by the Rev. George A. Cooke of Wilmington, Del., against Bishops W. F. McDowell, Washington, D. C., and Francis J. McConnell of Pittsburg, Pa.

Bishops George A. Miller of Mexico City, Adna W. Leonard, Buffalo, N. Y.; Titus Lowe, former ly of Singapore; Charles B. Mitchell, retired, formerly of Manila, and Edgar Blake of Paris, also were cleared of charges, some of which had been on file eight years.

BROOKINGS INSTITUTION GETS $2,000,000 GIFT

Endowment From Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial Conditional.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The Brookings Institution of Washington, of which Robert S. Brookings, St. Louis philanthropist and educator is the head, announced last night that an endowment gift of $2,000,000 had been received from the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial.

The gift is conditional upon the raising of a minimum of an additional $4,000,000, exclusive of the institution's existing endowment.

The institution was organized last Deecmber as a consolidation of the Institute of Economics, the Institute of Government Research and the Brookings Graduate School. Its purpose is to conduct research and training in social sciences as a means of aiding in the development of constructive economic and social policies and of efficiency in public administration.

In announcing the Rockefeller Memorial gift, Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the institution, also reported that the institution had completed its survey of the administration of the Government's conduct of Indian Affairs and that a similar survey would be made of Porto Rico.

The report on Indian Affairs has just been published. It covers all phases of the Indian problem, including health, education, and general economic conditions, family and community life and activities of women, migration to cities, legal administration and missionary activities.

It disclosed that social and economic conditions among the American Indians constituted a national emergency, requiring increased appropriations from Congress for the employment of more competent personnel in the Indian service. Recommendations were also made with references to the policies which this country should pursue in connection with Indian affairs.

The Porto Rican study will be started as soon as a special staff can be organized, Dr. Moulton stated. It will attempt to diagnose the Porto Rican situation and make constructive suggestions for economic, social and educational reorganization.

RAILROADS DECIDE TO TAKE OVER ALL EXPRESS BUSINESS

Committee Concludes to Buy American Railway Express Co.'s Stock at $110 a Share.

Officers Assert Own Operation Will Save Lines $50,000,000 Yearly — Change Effective March 1

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Ending a year's controversy, the Uniform Express Contract Committee of the American railroads has decided the roads will not buy the stock of the American Railway Express Co. Instead, they will acquire the assets at a figure close to $110 a share, will incorporate a new company and, beginning March 1, 1929, will handle all the railroad express business in the United States. Stockholders had expected to get as much as $175 a share.

The American Express Co. and the Adams Express Co. probably will continue to operate as corporations in business other than railroad express, but the railroads, in taking over the American Railway Express Co. will attempt to take the employes and business offices of the American Railway Express Co. and operate it as a going concern, although the name may be changed. The pension plan for the benefit of employes will not be disturbed.

The only things left for settlement are a few legal details and agreement on a reappraisal of the American Railway Express Co. so that a few "book value" may be set. The legal committees of the railroad companies and the American Railway Express Co. are working out these details, it was learned yesterday.

Distribution of Stock.

American railroads carrying express, except the Southern Railway which has its own company, will participate in the formation of the new corporation. There will be a pro-rata distribution of capital stock and tariffs will be changed by the individual railroads. Any question of new rates will have to be settled by the Interstate Commerce Commission, although no definite plans have been made to ask for an increase.

Through acquisition of their own express business, the railroads expect to wipe out a deficit of $50,000,000 a year, which they assert it now costs them to operate under the contract with the American Railway Express, expiring Feb. 28, 1929. The contract calls for payment of a 6 per cent dividend on the stock of the American Railway Express Co. regardless of its earnings.

The dividend amounts to only $2,086,520 yearly, but the railroads complain that under the present contract they do not make carrying charges.

125,000 Express Employes.

In purchasing the American Railway Express the railroads will take over 125,000 men, 9000 motor trucks, 10,000 horse trucks and a pay roll exceeding $175,000,000 a year.

The air express business of the American Railway Express will probably be continued by the new corporation, although they are not assured of protection from competition in this phase of the business. They fear no competition from the American Railway Express or the Adams Express in the railroad express business, as United States Supreme Court decisions have held that express is a railroad's own business and any line could accept or refuse traffic from another company as it choses.

The American Railway Express is a "war baby" formed during Government administration of railroads by a merger of the Adams Express, American Express Co., Southern Express Co. and the Wells-Fargo & Co., into one concern. The company was formed under the laws of Delaware, June 22, 1918. Its contract with the railroads ran out Feb. 29, 1928, but was extended for one year.

First Plan Changed.

The plan first favored by the railroads was to buy the stock of the company and continue operation. According to a member of the legal committee, however, this plan had to be shelved because the wide distribution of the stock made it impossible to acquire every share as required by Federal law to consummate an absolute merger.

Propaganda in the Schools.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE just read your editorial "Propaganda and the Schools," and feel like a dunce. Who would have believed that school superintendents and school teachers were so ingenuous as the power combine found them to be? It reminds me of the story about the man who had never bet on a horse race. He went out to a track with some friends one day, and after they had railed him about being too tight to risk a dollar on the sport he yielded and bet $5 on a 100 to 1 shot. His horse won. As he was handed his $500, he looked around wistfully and asked, "How long has this been going on?" That is the way some of the rest of us feel about the power combine and its propaganda in the schools. SINGLE TAX.

"Civilizing Haiti."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your editorial "Civilizing Haiti," you say:

> The American-bossed native assembly plans to take the lands away from the Haitians, the lands upon which they have lived for generations, and give them to American corporations.

As a great newspaper, you appear to be like the babe in the woods, all "altruistic." This childlike benevolence goes out to Nicaragua in every issue. Now won't you please tell your readers: Do you cry every morning when you think of the dastardly conduct of the American people when they, step by step, took the poor Indian's land and country from him, or do you justify that because the Indian was in the way and "to hell with him anyway?"

If the native Haitian or Nicaraguan is any better than the Indian, I would thank you to point it out. Your effort to make every little nation hate America is one of the anomalous policies of your paper that is past understanding. Even your beloved President Wilson could not agree with you in regard to Haiti, and continued the American supervision. J. C. FISHER.

Touching Solicitude.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WAS much gratified to read that the St. Louis Public Service Co. was going to take an active and unselfish part in local politics. One of the organizers of the Citizens' League was W. W. Kay, of the legal department of the street car company, and this shows that our much maligned public utility really has the welfare of the citizens of St. Louis at heart. Not content with giving us better street car service the company is going to give us better candidates for office, according to Mr. Kay's announcement. This attitude is in refreshing contrast to that of so many public utility corporations, and we should deeply appreciate this solicitude for our welfare. After seeing how much the St. Louis Public Service Co. really cares for us we cannot entertain any fear that it means to get an exorbitant valuation for rate making purposes. Three cheers for the Citizens' League and the St. Louis Public Service Co.

ARTHUR A. TOLLEY.

Two Administration Theories.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE pleads with the public to keep Government out of business. But business, unregulated by Government, would speedily become itself the Government.

The Secretary of Labor advises us that machines are the cause of unemployment. What a silly theory—machines save labor and should give everyone more leisure. Rather, the restricted ownership of machinery and the sites of its operation produces unemployment. At least, people should own collectively all the natural power. The rivers are national possessions—therefore, the work they do should belong to us all. Instead, natural power is only an integral portion of the monstrous electric trust's holdings.

The coming election will show whether people have swallowed entirely this administration's solemn but childishly illogical justification theories.

VERNUS PYLE.

Reed to Patagonia; Heflin to Yap.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF Al Smith is nominated, as now seems probable, it will be due chiefly to two reasons: First, because he has resolutely refrained from making campaign speeches, while his opponent, Senator Reed, has been shelling the woods with re-echoing salvoes of hot air. His most strenuous efforts were expended in California and Oregon, and you know what happened there. Wonder if Pollyanna Meriwether still believes he will enter the convention with 180 votes. The other reason is that blatant ass, Tom Heflin, and the reaction that has followed his attacks on Smith, which will result in the latter's carrying many Southern States that he might otherwise have lost.

If Smith is elected, he ought in gratitude appoint Reed Minister to Patagonia and Heflin Consul to the Island of Yap. H. H. HOLT.

MR. DAWES' "NO."

Mr. Dawes projected himself into the campaign picture on Monday when he voted against the administration's plan to adjourn Congress today. Had the resolution carried the filibuster against the Boulder Dam bill might have succeeded, and the work Senator Hiram Johnson of California has put into that measure through laborious years would have had to be resumed at the next session. Incidentally the Power Lobby would have won a temporary victory and would have been encouraged to take up the obstructive battle with renewed confidence.

Mr. Dawes' action in this instance was consistent with the philosophy he so dramatically expounded in his inaugural address when he thundered against the capacity of a minority to delay or defeat legislation.

It is a fair inference, we believe, that the Vice President was aware of the political significance of the "No" he "barked out" when the tie vote empowered him to cast the decisive ballot. But if that be politics it is politics of the right kind. The Boulder Dam measure has been before Congress so long that it is among our legislative perennials. A certain sympathy may be felt with the opposition to it as led by Senator Ashurst of Arizona; at least that opposition may be accorded sincerity—a sincerity blighted, however, by sectional shortsightedness, and untenable in the broad perspective of public policy. But most of the opposition is inspired by special power interests that are seeking to exploit this property for their own enrichment. In the protracted discussions of this bill its merits have been established to the satisfaction of the House which has passed it and probably to the Senate, also, which, it is predicted, will likewise pass it if given a chance to vote. In those circumstances the filibuster is apparently the last tactical resort of an opposition that is striving to win by trickery a fight it has lost in the fair field of debate.

Someone has said that "No" is the biggest word in any language. Certainly the "No" just pronounced by Charles G. Dawes is the biggest utterance in his vice presidential career.

MISSOURI ROADS.

The best argument for the proposed $75,000,000 supplementary road bond issue in Missouri is what we are doing and have done with the $60,000,000 voted for roads in 1920.

It is almost a revelation to discover what has been done in the last year, but the next year will show even more surprising results. This is because in a state entirely without good roads when the work began it took years to join everything that was being done into a whole. Not even the first primary road, the pavement between St. Louis and Kansas City, was completely articulated a year ago.

It is this articulation that is making such a fine showing today. It is possible to drive all day without making a detour, possible to drive from one end of the state to the other without getting off an all-weather road. It is the great era of Missouri, a time in which the state is discovering itself. Certainly no one could ride over the beautiful roads already built with the first bond issue without becoming enthusiastic for the second.

MR. COOLIDGE AND THE UTILITIES.

Apropos revelations in the power inquiry, Mr. Coolidge expresses doubt that the situation is one that should be remedied by Federal legislation and thinks the right to control public utilities lies with the states.

The Post-Dispatch heartily agrees with the latter view, and it has suggested how the power to control, lost in recent years through Supreme Court decisions, can be regained. There is widespread protest from the states that the utilities go over their heads by resorting to the Federal courts. The state of Indiana has asked Congress to compel the corporations to exhaust the legal processes of the states before they turn to the Federal courts. The very excellent regulatory body of Massachusetts, which is perhaps the most forward-looking in the country, has ventured the opinion that the courts of the states afford the utilities due process and there ought not therefore to be any resort from them on that score.

This is a difficulty to which the country must give serious consideration. That the utilities are able to set the judgment of the states aside by resorting to the Federal courts is notorious. In New York the traction interests made no effort to exhaust their right of appeal in the State. The moment there was danger of a ruling against them by the State Commission they turned to the Federal courts. It is a widespread practice of which almost all the states complain, and resulted from the Federal theory of valuation upon the basis of reproduction. This principle of law upsets even the contractual relations of the municipalities and the utilities, as illustrated by street car fares in St. Louis. In the company's contract with the city this fare is 5 cents. Under the Federal valuation theory it is now 7 1-2 cents, and the company is asking 8.

It would be interesting to know what Mr. Coolidge's thought is as to recapturing that control of the utilities which the states and municipalities have lost. The Post-Dispatch again suggests that consideration be given to granting no more franchises and substituting permits that may be terminated for cause. It is so that the city of Detroit is exercising control over her utilities. In St. Louis the People's Motorbus Co., which operates under permits, is easily controlled. Upon the other hand, the street railways have a franchise and threaten to get from the Federal courts the valuation they want if it is denied them by the State. The Laclede Gas Co., which is now proposing to increase its rates 15 per cent, claims a perpetual franchise in St. Louis.

The people whose methods are being exposed by the power inquiry, and of whom the country had already learned through Prof. Ripley's "Wall Street and Main Street," are not so much engaged in giving public service as they are in finance. The franchise, which has nothing to do with service, is one of the necessities of exploitation. Thus, the street car utility of St. Louis, which has a franchise now that has at least 12 more years to run, wants a new franchish for 30 years. It wants the new franchise because it wants to exploit the property, not because it needs one to give street car service. It can give street car service with the franchise it has now, and if it still wants to operate street cars when the franchise expires it can do so under a permit.

THE AFFAIRS OF SHERIFF WILMAS.

Sheriff Wilmas of St. Louis County has been "getting along fine." During the three years prior to 1923 he accumulated something like $30,000 besides his official fees. His failure to report this earning in his Federal income tax return was exposed by the Post-Dispatch. It has also developed that, at the instance of the Internal Revenue Bureau, Wilmas has paid the sum of $900 account taxes and a civil penalty which, according to his attorney, was preferable to fighting the case.

The Sheriff, it seems, also failed to mention this income in his State return, and Auditor Thompson promises an immediate investigation of the matter. Further, Circuit Judge Mulloy announces that a special grand jury will be impaneled to look into "existing conditions" in the county, which survey, it is assumed, will include the Sheriff's prosperity. And United States District Attorney Breuer thinks the matter worthy of his official inquiry.

The Sheriff, meantime, continues reticent as to his Aladdin's Lamp or whatever magical medium it is that transmutes his wishes into coin of the realm. The extra-salary $30,000, he explained to a Post-Dispatch reporter, is "my own business. My personal affairs are my own affairs."

But the Internal Revenue Bureau did not think so. The Federal District Attorney does not think so. The State of Missouri does not think so. Circuit Judge Mulloy does not think so. We venture the special grand jury will not think so. Indeed, we suspect that Sheriff Wilmas is virtually alone in imagining that this honorarium of his is his "personal business" for which he owes no accounting.

His own constituency, we are sure, will be as curious about their Sheriff's $30,000 as the public at large was curious about the sale of a third interest in a New Mexican ranch to Harry Sinclair which Albert B. Fall has repeatedly declared was "a purely personal transaction."

UNIFORMS FOR DRY OFFICERS.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran has decided to put in uniform prohibition agents doing open patrol work on highways. These men will henceforth wear badges and caps, and thus distinguish themselves from highwaymen. It is said this is to curb a tendency of automobile parties to open fire when they are stopped under the misapprehension that they are being held up. We think the shoe is on the other foot. Usually it is the dry agents who do the firing when their commands to halt are disobeyed by frightened automobilists. Deaths and injuries so caused have aroused a terrific protest which must have reached even the heavily insulated office of the Prohibition Commissioner. As a step to make the job of snooping less barbarous, Doran's order is to be commended.

HOOVER AND LOCKWOOD.

As chief of the important central committee which keeps in touch with the progress of the Hoover boom and that of its competitors, George B. Lockwood may be said to be putting himself in the way to a very fine place in the public service should Mr. Hoover become President.

This is causing considerable uneasiness among some of the Secretary's liberal friends. When the oil scandal broke, George B. Lockwood was secretary of the Republican National Committee. He did everything in his power to stop the investigation, and publicly denounced the Walsh committee. Subsequently, when the investigation of Daugherty began, not only did he abuse the committee but sent Blair Coan to Montana for the purpose of lighting a fire behind Wheeler. The indictments of the Montana Senator which followed in his own State and in Washington demonstrated as nothing else did the defensive tactics of the Ohio gang. It was reduced to defaming its accusers.

What the country would like to know is whether the necessities of the Hoover boom are such that it must traffic with the political underworld. If not, why was Lockwood, who had a $15,000 place with Will Hays in the movie industry, taken out to fill a place on the Hoover committee? And if Mr. Hoover became President, would men like Lockwood, men who have proved themselves unworthy of any public place, have claims upon the administration which would again elevate them to high-salaried posts?

If so, rejuvenation of any member of the Ohio gang is too big a price to pay for a President, even the illustrious and efficient Herbert Hoover.

An "amphibian rodeo" in a California town, in which 51 frogs contested, drew an attendance of 15,000. The Ramona Kennel Club might stage that show.

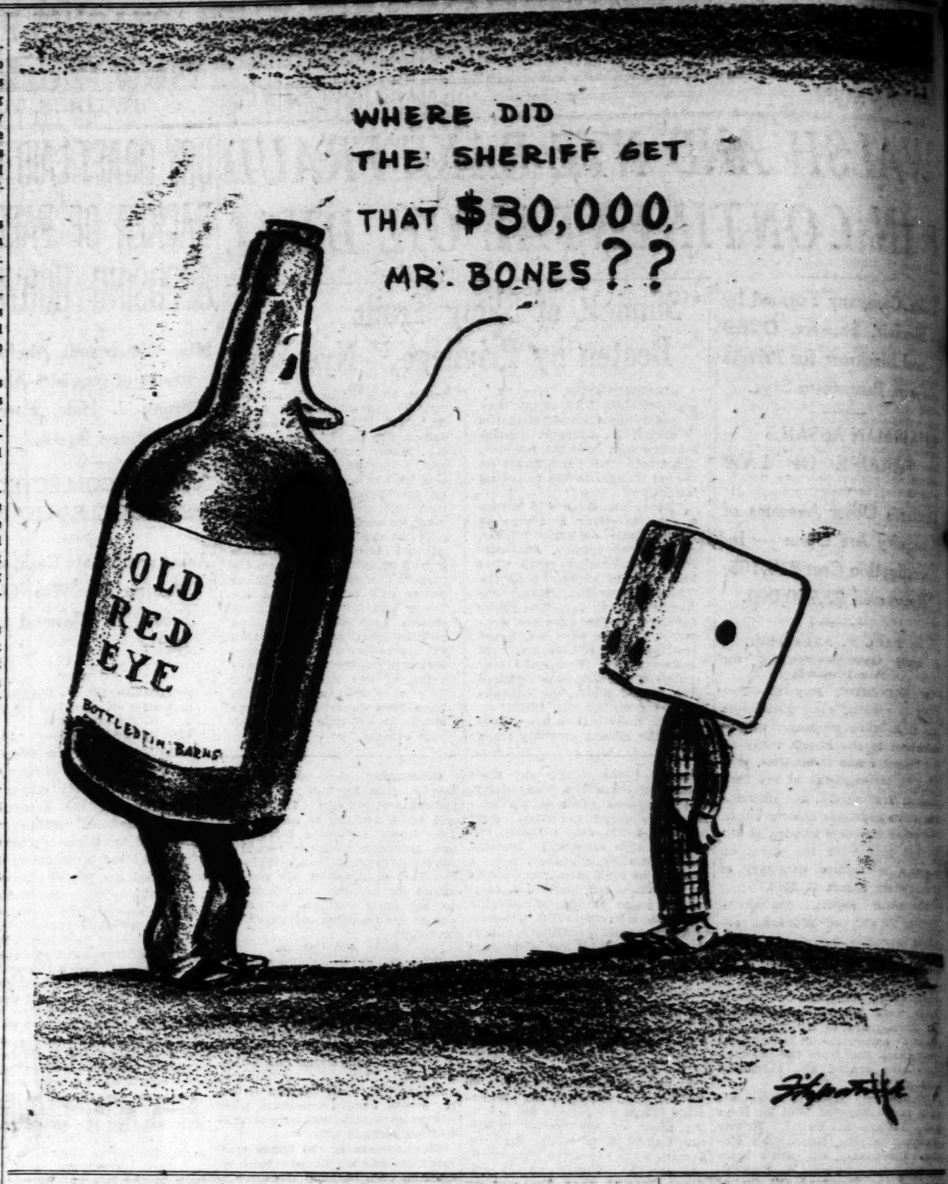
PANTS PRESSING AND SPUNK.

If it is true, as Mr. Mencken says, that editorial writing on the American press has largely descended to the level of pants pressing, it cannot be the fault of editorial writers.

The National Press Club at Washington is just proving what American newspapermen are like when they are free. The governing board of the club has recently committed the incredible folly of electing Benito Mussolini a non-resident member. It is represented by the board that his proprietorship of a newspaper in Rome makes him eligible. At any rate, there is rebellion in the club. Some of the members cannot understand how the national body of American newspaper writers, which perforce reveres the tradition of a free press if some of the proprietors do not, can so put its endorsement upon the greatest enemy of free speech and an unfettered press now living anywhere in the world. The members who are protesting say that if Mussolini comes in they will go out. They have talked with too many Italian journalists who have felt the enmity of this arch enemy of their craft, and they have too much fraternal sympathy for the gagged newspaper writers of Italy, to stay in the same club with the man who has denied everything precious to the profession.

The Post-Dispatch applauds their spunk. It is heartening to know that they have not forgotten the men who, like Voltaire, Milton and our own Jefferson, rescued the press from tyrants and made it free. If they supinely permitted their addle-pated governors, who seem not to know what journalism is about, to make Mussolini a member, they would be unworthy of what the great heroes of their profession did for it.

The Rev. Mr. Upshaw is, we suppose, back on the Anti-Saloon League's payroll. And that's all right for Private Citizen Upshaw, but it was all wrong for Congressman Upshaw.



Two Views of Sandino

Upon receiving some time ago Mr. Mackay's letter on the career of Sandino, the Post-Dispatch referred it to Carleton Beals, who knows more about Sandino than any other American, for such reply as he would care to make. Mr. Beals is the only journalist to reach Sandino's camp in Nicaragua and to interview him. Mr. Beals' articles on Sandino, written for The Nation, were published in the Post-Dispatch.—(Editor's Note).

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

COMPARISON of the notorious bandit and outlaw, Sandino, with George Washington by "T. T." is a gross insult to the memory of the father of our country.

Sandino has been a common criminal throughout his entire career. He fled from Nicaragua to escape punishment for a murderous assault and joined the Mexican banditry. He returned to Nicaragua, several years later, for looting purposes, when Mexico backed the Bolshevik Sacasa to overthrow the peaceful, recognized government of Nicaragua and Mexicanize that country.

When the United States, by request of the Nicaraguan Government, cut off Mexican assistance to the rebels, the so-called revolution speedily collapsed. Contenders on both sides peacefully disbanded, surrendered their arms to the United States authorities and agreed to abide by the results of a fair election supervised by our Government. All leaders obeyed the orders of their superior officers, excepting Sandino, who was denounced by his commanding General, Moncada, head of the Liberal army, as "a deserter, traitor and bandit." Sandino speedily proved that he was.

He took his armed followers to Ocala, kidnaped an Italian and German and held them until a $5000 ransom was paid. We sent a garrison to Ocala to protect it, 45 each of marines and Nicaraguan guards. Sandino next seized an American mine. Warned to surrender it or be attacked, he plotted to massacre the Ocala garrison. Secretly planting 100 confederates inside the town, he attacked outside with 400 more. For 16 hours, the heroic garrison repulsed the attack, killing 100, until our bombing planes arrived, killed 200 more besiegers and routed the remainder into the mountain fastnesses. There they continue their criminal career, assisted by Honduran, Guatemalan and Mexican bandits.

The recent looting and destruction of American mines, and abduction of their superintendent, on the east coast, is further evidence of Sandino "revolutionary patriotism." JEFF MACKAY

MR. MACKAY'S letter would serve as Exhibit A for one of Dean Inge's dissertations on the shortcomings of democracy.

George Washington was considered a bandit and an outlaw by the English, and he was assisted by French and other "bandits." France was the Mexico of our independence struggles. The English, on their side, hired Hessians. Some Nicaraguans consider the American troops to be the Hessians of an unjust Government. We seized German property as late as 1918. Shall Sandino, fighting an unequal battle, have less privilege?

However, it is quite fantastic to argue with Mr. Mackay until he informs us as to the origin of his facts, so-called. Until he can answer certain questions regarding the information he presents as bona fide, there is no need to debate his conclusions.

John Brown stole horses; so did some of the Texas heroes; Andrew Jackson perpetrated murderous assaults. Sandino's career has no essential bearing on whether his present struggle is justified or not. However, I might ask Mr. Jeff:

When and against whom did Sandino commit a murderous assault?

If he assaulted anybody, what was his motive?

Mr. Mackay declares that Sandino joined the Mexican banditry. When in Mexico, Sandino worked for the Huasteca Petroleum Co., and at no time was connected with Villa (didn't President Wilson himself declare Villa was not a bandit) as has been commonly stated.

Mr. Mackay uses the term "Bolshevik Sacasa." Senor Sacasa was vice president in a Government recognized by the United States. Can Mr. Jeff quote a single "Bolshevik" utterance of Sacasa? Mr. Mackay calls the puppet Government of Diaz "peaceful" and "recognized." When was Diaz's Government ever at peace? Has Costa Rica ever recognized it? Have any of the Central American countries recognized it except as a result of pressure from the United States? The puppet Government of Diaz called on us for aid, as might be expected, but even so when did "the so-called revolution speedily collapse?" as Mr. Mackay declares. At the time of the Stimson agreement was not Moncado at the gates of Managua? Did he not have the Conservative troops bottled up in Boaco? Did not Sandino effectively assist Moncado in the final outmaneuvering of the Diaz forces? Moncado, according to Mr. Mackay, called Sandino "a deserter, traitor and bandit." Is not Sandino equally justified in calling Moncado a deserter and a traitor? Who supplied Sandino with arms? When did he recognize Moncado as his superior officer? These answers are known facts. Let Mr. Mackay provide them.

Mr. Mackay declares Sandino took his armed followers to Ocala. I defy Mr. Mackay to find any place called Ocala in all of Nicaragua. (Of course, he refers to Ocotal.) Will Mr. Mackay kindly name the Italian and German held for ransom? When were they held? Who paid the $5000? How was it paid?

Is not the cost of our intervention in Nicaragua already greater than the value of all the American investments in Nicaragua? How many Americans have lost their lives in Nicaragua? Is not this number much less than the number of Nicaraguans whom we have killed in Nicaragua?

I am not an apologist for Sandino, though perhaps he will ultimately prove a better friend of American democracy than the Mr. Mackays. I merely wish to point out that until the truth is presented, and a fair picture of all the events in Nicaragua is drawn, no conclusions can be established. What Mr. Mackay needs is a little more knowledge and a little less dogmatism.

PROBLEM IN PSYCHOLOGY.

Why does a man like a dog? It is not because of the dog's loyalty. As a matter of fact, a dog is indiscriminate in his loyalties. Visit a house often enough, and any dog on the premises will adopt you into his circle of friends. A pup is loyal to all the children in a neighborhood. A cat's loyalty is more impersonal. If you move, you can induce a dog to take up a new abode, but not a cat. Loyalty to a place or to a principle, if you will, is a finer type than loyalty to a person. Nor is the dog particularly intelligent. A cat is wise enough not to learn any tricks; a dog is pathetically anxious to learn any new one, except keeping his dirty paws off a counterpane. Call a cat, comfortably stretched out in the sun, and she is sufficiently intelligent to feign sleep, deafness, rheumatism, or death. A dog comes before you have had a chance to call him. Under the most trying conditions, a cat retains its dignity; a dog never had any to begin with. It is an utter lack of dignity, and not any copy-book virtues, which endears a dog to man. If you are in a jovial mood, so is the dog; if the market reversed itself, the dog's perpetual attempts to interest you in the latest trick he learned with a stick make you forget the stock on which you plunged. Man likes the dog because a dog is nature's supremely successful attempt to create an unconscious Harlequin. Q. E. D.

CREATION BY EVOLUTION. Edited by Frances Mason. (Macmillan.)

FOR the layman who sincerely desires to know what the word "evolution" really means today and how the theory is supported by facts in many fields of research, it is probable that the volume here considered may be the most valuable thus far published. Although no reviewer can be familiar with more than a very small portion of the books in which the subject has been discussed, it is fairly reasonable to assume that there is no other work in which so many of the world-leaders in scientific research have set forth in simple language the gist of what they have learned in their various specialties and shown how the theory is supported by their findings.

What we have in "Creation by Evolution" is a consensus of present day knowledge—not opinion—set forth by 26 of the foremost scientific thinkers of our time. In recommending such a book it is necessary to remember that there are as many ill-informed people on one side of the controverry as on the other, and that the subject is very generally approached in a contentious mood by the rank and file of both parties. This natural human tendency in matters of conviction is only aggravated by such curious phenomena as the Dayton trial, which served to increase the heat on both sides without contributing any light. No doubt thousands upon thousands, who have no clear understanding of the theory but accept it merely because it is unscientific, have chortled with glee over the ignorance displayed by the Bryanites. How widespread this ignorance is, regardless of the view taken, can be demonstrated by a simple word test. Ask a hundred people what word first occurs to them when evolution is mentioned, and in the majority of cases the answer will be "monkey." Ask a hundred faithful religionists how they feel about professed evolutionists and the majority will reply that evolutionists are the deadly enemies of religion, being atheists.

Since it can hardly be doubted that the popular attitude towards evolution, whether for or against, is practically as suggested above, the simple, thoroughly honest and illuminating volume here considered cannot be too confidently recommended. Nevertheless, a certain class of readers on both sides of the question may as well be discouraged at once. Those who seek for proof of atheistic, anti-religious leanings among mature thinkers on evolution will waste their efforts in reading this volume, although those who mistake the body of religion for its soul may, here and there, by implica-

FOR the layman who sincerely desires to know what the word and "evolution" really means today and how the theory is supported by facts in many fields of research, it is probable that the volume here considered may be the most valuable thus far published. Although no reviewer can be familiar with more than a very small portion of the books in which the subject has been discussed, it is fairly reasonable to assume that there is no other work in which so many of the world-leaders in scientific research have set forth in simple language the gist of what they have learned in their various specialties and shown how the theory is supported by their findings.

What we have in "Creation by Evolution" is a consensus of present day knowledge—not opinion—set forth by 26 ofg the foremost scientific thinkers of our time. In recommending such a book it is necessary to remember that there are as many ill-informed people on one side of the controversy as on the other, and that the subject is very generally approached in a contentious mood by the rank and file of both parties. This natural human tendency in matters of conviction is only aggravated by such curious phenomena as the Dayton trial, which served to increase the heat on both sides without contributing any light. No doubt thousands upon thousands, who have no clear understanding of the theory but accept it merely because it is understood to be "modern" and iconoclastic, have chortled with glee over the ignorance displayed by the Bryanites. How widespread this ignorance is, regardless of the view taken, can be demonstrated by a simple word test. Ask a hundred people what word first occurs to them when evolution is mentioned, and in the majority of cases the answer will be "monkey." Ask a hundred faithful religionists how they feel about professed evolutionists and the majority will reply that evolutionists are the deadly enemies of religion, being atheists.

Since it can hardly be doubted that the popular attitude towards evolution, whether for or against, is practically as suggested above, the simple, thoroughly honest and illuminating volume here considered cannot be too confidently recommended. Nevertheless, a certain class of readers on both sides of the question may as well be discouraged at once. Those who seek for proof of atheistic, anti-religious leanings among mature thinkers on evolution will waste their efforts in reading this volume, although those who mistake the body of religion for its soul may, here and there, by implication chiefly, find some occasion for resentment. All the scientists represented in the present symposium have gone far enough in their researches to reach the inevitable point where all human conceptions are lost in awe. It is not a book for the cocksure, the contentious; it is a book for the humble. And humility, some suspect, is still a fundamental of both religion and science.

Here speaks a professor of biology:

"If the idea of evolution of a species is atheistic, so is the idea of the development of an individual, for individual development involves the same principles as race evolution."

And here again:

"The actual facts of development are vastly more wonderful than any that were ever conceived in pre-scientific times. Just as astronomy and geology and physics and chemistry have given us grander views of the universe than were ever dreamed of before, so biology, and especially the study of development and evolution, have given us grander views of the living world—its unity, its integrity, its mystery—than were ever before held or suspected."

And here speaks a professor of zoology:

"Evolution no more takes God out of the universe than does gravitation. Both these great principles are mere manifestations of the grand strategy of nature. The theory of evolution, as has often been said, does not deny creation; it merely explains the method of creation."

It may be a matter of generations before the great mass will be aware of the fact that as early as the first quarter of the twentieth century the vanguard of science had already arrived by strictly scientific methods at conceptions differing not at all in essentials from conceptions reached by the great mystics long, long ago. It is the noisy and ill-advised camp-followers of the army of science who have leaped to the conclusion that all mystery and wonder and reverence are now known to be "the bunk." Those yonder in the van know better. One tells us, for instance, that life seems to differ only in mode of manifestation; that somehow all life is one. Might it not be Little Brother Francis speaking? And here is what a professor of natural history has to say:

"What the evolutionist discloses is man's solidarity, his kinship, with the rest of creation. And the encouragement we find in this disclosure is twofold. In the first place, though we inherit some coarse strands from pre-human pedigree it is an ascent, not a descent that we see behind us. In the second place, the evolutionist world is congruent with religious interpretation. It is a world in which the religious man can breathe freely."

UNITED PRESBYTERIANS DEMAND DRY CAMPAIGN

General Assembly Adopts Report Urging Candidates Favoring Prohibition.

Dry presidential candidates and party platforms were demanded in a report adopted yesterday by the United Presbyterian Church General Assembly, at the First United Presbyterian Church, Washington and Adelaide avenues.

The report records "firm adherence to the prohibition principle" and joins "the Anti-Saloon League and other friends" in requesting the political parties "to include in their platforms a positive, clear-cut declaration pledging the support of the party and its nominees to a program of vigorous and efficient enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and necessary supporting legislation."

The report also calls upon the political parties to nominate candidates for President and Vice President who are openly committed to this policy. "Continued loyalty" was pledged in the report to Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and a United Presbyterian minister, who addressed the assembly Friday.

In other sections of the report, it is stated "the greatest danger to the nation and church today is the unhallowed fireside. The home is the seat of Christianity and the center of civilization. We therefore recommend that on this seventieth anniversary of the establishment of the United Presbyterian Church, its pastors, elders and members be urged to give the home the place it properly deserves in their Christian life, service and intercession."

A discussion of proposed unification of the United Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church (Southern) took place this morning, with Dr. R. M. Kerr, vice president of Xenia Seminary, in charge. The assembly will close this afternoon.

The party will take place after the close of the performance of "Princess Flavia," which opens the opera season at Forest Park. The opera guarantors also have been invited to be guests at the performance.

"The Captive" Canceled in Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., May 29.—Presentation of "The Captive," a play which opened here Sunday night, has been abandoned, it was announced today by David Nederlander, manager of the Shubert Theater, after a conference with Mayor John C. Lodge. The Mayor condemned the theme of the play which Gilbert Miller, its producer, withdrew during its New York presentation rather than face prosecution. Later the production was closed in Los Angeles.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 29.

ETIQUETTE sleuths report the dinner coat no longer permissible at smart gatherings where there are ladies. It has become strictly a stag garment this season and the tail coat has again been plucked out of the moth balls.

It tried to stage a come-back for several seasons, but only recently made the grade. Nor can it be worn with the crush opera hat as it was last season. A plush high hat is required. The Long Island verandah crowd is wearing white flannel dinner suits.

Another fashionable dining wrinkle is also reported coming from London. The very best people these days do not smoke at the table until the hostess lights up her cigarette. That is the signal that all are privileged to smoke. In my day it would be a signal for many women to go home with their noses in the air.

The one-stud shirt has held ground, but the sawed-off white vest has made way for the return of the V pointed weskit. The top swank in evening sticks is an ebony with a small white knob and the replica of the owner's signature engraved on the side.

The evening handkerchief should be folded into a square and only a slight edge should show from the breast pocket. The smart evening shoes are of one piece of patent leather. The gardenia is the correct lapel flower, although Michael Arlen is wearing a bright red rosebud.

Every gentleman should have a platinum chain for his key. It is attached to a suspender button and falls in a loop to the left trouser pocket. Of course, he must have the monogrammed accessories—such as a cigarette case, patent lighter and pencil. All to match.

Oh, yes, pearl cuff links and white gloves are necessary pour le nuit. The Prince of Wales continues to set styles, not only over seas, but for America. News comes he is now preparing to introduce a dark gray dinner suit with wide velvet lapels. Can you beat it?

THERE is a general belief that New York gentlemen invariably "dress" for dinner. Before I came here I had an idea they went straight from their infantile youknowwhats into dinner clothes. Proportionately there is no more dinner dressing here than in Indianapolis or Spokane.

GREENWICH, Conn., an hour by train from Grand Central, is said to be one of the richest towns in America in proportion to population. It is also one of the most aristocratic communities in the New York suburban zone. There are more yacht owners there than any other spot hereabouts. Greenwich is pronounced "Gren-itch."

NOW they are saying that chowmein in the Broadway Chinese cafes for which a charge of $1.50 is made really costs 21 cents. Well, even that is an improvement over the $1.50 charge of the night clubs for a six-cent bottle of ginger ale. I'll never get over that, it seems. It has been breaking my heart for five years.

THE real justifiable holler should come over the gyppery in one of the smartest dining places in town. Before each diner they place a few olives and a sprig of celery, whether you have ordered it or not. If you eat a single olive or nibble at a stalk of celery you must pay $1.00 per person. This is no polite gyppery. It is plain second-story work. Still the place continues to be crowded, so don't mind my squawk.

INCIDENTALLY, the old Palais Royal is now known as the Palais d'Or and the Chinese proprietor is known as Mr. d'Or. Many ask for him.

A SIGHT-SEEING bus starter is authority for the news that Brooklyn Bridge is the most popular attraction for summer tourists "because they want to see the place where Steve Brodie made his leap."

LARGE CROWD AWAITED AT BENEFIT CARNIVAL

Elaborate Program to Be Presented Tomorrow at Fordyce Gardens.

An elaborate program and accommodations for a vast crowd have been made ready for the benefit carnival for St. Louis University Charity Hospital, to be held tomorrow at Mrs. Sam W. Fordyce's gardens on Brown road.

Seven acres has been reserved for parking space. Motorists will find a huge sign at Brown and Natural Bridge roads, with the trail from there "blazed" by flags. Busses will leave Wellston every 15 minutes beginning at 2 p. m., and the Kirkwood-Ferguson line, north from Wellston, offers direct transportation to the gardens.

A pedigreed hunting dog, a woman's bathing suit, an oil burner and a pair of rare vases will be auctioned by Leon Errol, leading man of the Garden Theater. From 5 to 7 p. m. he and others of the company, directed by Charles Sinclair and accompanied by William Parsons, will sing, dance and talk. They include Lillian Crossman, John Cherry, Dorothy Humphreys and Irving Fischer.

A flag presentation, with music by the Sixth Infantry Band, is to be made at 5:30 o'clock, and a half-hour later is expected the finish of a 15-mile marathon in which 45 university students will run. At 7 o'clock a parade of freaks—trained seals, snake charmer, bearded lady, fat lady and exhibition of antebellum styles—will traverse the grounds.

A Hawaiian band will play all afternoon in the flower garden, where iced tea with fresh mint leaves will be served. A dance orchestra will play in the evening and in the dance pavilion. The Jefferson Barracks band will play after the flag presentation.

The Varsity Drag, a "mad girl" dance and others will be given by 30 children of Mrs. Boehmer's dancing academy dressed as dolls. Minstrels and singers of Negro songs will stroll. Everything from home-made candy to a golden rosary will be on sale, and debutantes will conduct many booths.

C. S. NEWHARD WEDS ANNE WALLACE

Garden Setting Under a Marquee for Ceremony at 4976 Pershing Av.

A FLOWERING woodland garden of pink and white blossoms bordered with a tall hedge of tree ferns was inclosed in a great canvas marquee for the wedding this afternoon of Miss Anne Kennard Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brookings Wallace, and Chapin Slater Newhard, at the Wallace home, 4986 Pershing avenue.

The bridal party walked from the house down a garden pathway aisle bordered with white ribbons caught to posts topped with clusters of pink peonies and white larkspur. The ceremony was performed at the end of the path before a trellis entwined with pink blossoms by the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of St. John's Methodist Church.

Trailing vines relieved the dazzling whiteness of the marquee walls and the contrasting color notes against the tall hedge are pink and white flowers, gracefully arranged in baskets.

The bride, of the petite titian-haired type, wore a gown of fluffy tulle over white satin. The full skirt was embroidered in pearls and rhinestones, and the slender bodice had a rose point lace yoke in bertha effect with matching lace edging the long close tulle sleeves. A court train of satin was bordered with rose point and a coronet of the lace held in place the tulle veil which almost enveloped her. She carried lilies of the valley.

The gowns of the maid of honor and the six bridesmaids were of the simplest new-leaf green tulle. Their many-layered, deeply scalloped skirts suggested flowers with the petals down. The close-fitting bodices were finished with double tulle bertha collars slashed in front to the V neck and adorned with a velvet rose. The girdles were of turquoise ribbon tied at the side front and the ends trailing, and the broad hair braid hats to match the green of the gowns were finished with a bow of turquoise ribbon slashed through the crown. Their flowers were larkspur in pink lavender and white; yellow snapdragons and blue delphinium.

Miss Mary Lees Kennard, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Warren Temple Chandler, Mrs. George Herbert Walker Jr., Miss Martha Love, Miss Alita Davis, Miss Elizabeth Douglass and Miss Katherine Smith bridesmaids.

Frederick Newhard was his brother's best man. The groomsmen were John Kennard Wallace, brother of the bride; Warren Temple Chandler, Mortimer Price, Sproule Love, Frederick Krug, Elmer Joslyn, Kenneth and William C. Bitting Jr., James Ward of Kansas City; Jesse Elting Iuboise of New York; Lawrence and Edward Lanphier of Providence, R. I., and Robert Kiphuth of New Haven, Conn.

A reception followed the wedding with a flower-bedecked table seating 26 guests for the wedding party. Mr. Newhard and his bride will spend seven weeks in Honolulu on their wedding trip and will make their home on their return at 4292 Maryland avenue.

The bride gave her attendants gold buckles for suede belts, and Mr. Newhard gave his groomsmen key rings. His gift to his bride was a diamond necklace.

The bride is one of St. Louis' most attractive young women. She attended Mary Institute, is a graduate of the Westover School in Connecticut, and has traveled abroad extensively. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Samuel M. Kennard and a grandniece of Robert S. Brookings. She was a debutante of two years ago.

Mr. Newhard is a son of Mrs. Grove F. Newhard of 5564 Delmar boulevard. He is a graduate of Brown University and a member of the Racquet and the University clubs. He is an executive in the firm of Bitting & Co., investment securities.

Mrs. Frederick Fowler Campbell, 5100 Washington boulevard, will return home this week from Washington, where she has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Stephen Blaine Elkins, and from Virginia, where she was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Billy Hitt, formerly Miss Katherine Elkins, at her beautiful estate. Mrs. Campbell also visited in Baltimore.

The largest party for this evening will be a dinner dance to be given at the St. Louis Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Moore of Portland place, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter of the Litzinger road in honor of three of the debutantes, Miss Martha Pettus, Miss Alita Davis and Miss Julia Wells. The guests will include the debutantes and their escorts and a group of the young married set.

The English class of Roosevelt High School will give a one-act sketch entitled, "Whiskers," this evening in the night school auditorium. The production is under the management of Miss Kate Farrell, teacher of the English class, and L. M. Parrott, principal of the night school. Miss Clara Rothweller will direct the play. Those who will take part are Miss Florence McManus, Miss Helen Hausman, Miss Katherine Womes, Miss Esther Schmidt, Miss Catherine Meier and Miss Mary Manestar. F. W. Ahrens, A. C. Plex, Gregory Bowers and M. A. Newman.

Walsh and Nye Rake Fraud in Oil Deal

Sinclair Disbelieved.

Referring to Sinclair's final appearance before the committee following his acquittal on the conspiracy charge, the committee expresses disbelief in his testimony that he had no knowledge of the organization of the Continental. It mentions the circumstance that he kept his share of the bonds in a safe in his residence, and that he did not return them to his company until his possession of them had been discovered.

That "the four conspirators," Sinclair, Stewart, Blackmer and O'Neil, never intended at the outset to turn the bonds over to their companies, but intended to keep them as personal "velvet," is concluded by the committee from the evidence. The report states:

"It is impossible to offer any sane reason for organizing the corporation and paying Osler $60,000 for conducting its affairs, if there was an honest intention that the companies should have the profits."

As a matter of fact, it adds, Blackmer's share never has been returned, and although the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co. has now been reimbursed with the shares of Sinclair and Stewart, the Prairie is still "out" half of the amount of which it was milked for the jackpot, and this takes no account of the interest which both companies have lost in the intervening years.

Treasury Delayed.

The report states that the "four conspirators," following the disclosure of the facts, paid $606,000 in income taxes to the Government, and that the information disclosed by the committee enabled the Treasury to collect an additional $1,398,900 in interest, penalties and deliquent taxes. But it adds: "No explanation has been made of the failure of the Treasury for nearly three years to exact the payments due it."

In this connection it recalls again that the Treasury Department was aware three years ago of the existence of the Continental and points out that a suit instituted then might have afforded an opportunity to examine Blackmer and O'Neil before they fled the country.

As is known, the Senate resolution directing the committee to trace the remainder of the Continental bonds resulted in part from the publication of a series of news stories in the Post-Dispatch, calling attention to the fact that about $2,770,000 of the Continental jackpot remained after the bribing of Fall, and suggesting that some of the remainder might have been used for similar corrupt purposes in this connection the report says:

"The committee was directed to resume its work because of a widespread belief that the fund accumulated by the Continental Trading Co. had been devoted to corrupt purposes, seeing that some of it was known to have been so employed. It seems now, however, to have been the illgotten gain of a contemptible private steal, the peculations of trusted officers of great industrial houses, pilfering from their own companies, robbing their own stockholders, the share of the boodle coming to one of the freebooters serving in part as the price of the perfidy of a member of the President's Cabinet."

Nye Differs on Corruption.

The concluding paragraph contains a sardonic shot at those persons and newspapers who harp on the "expense" of Senate investigations. Remarking that the sum in taxes recovered for the Government by the investigation was more than $2,700,000, it adds: "the expense of the inquiry has been $14,165."

The conclusion that the Continental deal was conceived as a mere "private steal," however, is challenged in the Nye report, which argues that the entire jackpot may have been organized as a corruption fund and that other bonds may have been devoted to corrupt purposes, in addition to those which Sinclair gave Fall. In this connection, it points out that a large amount of the identical bonds distributed by the Continental have never been traced. It states:

"In view of what Sinclair did with his share of Continental Trading Co. profits and the interests of all of the men and their companies concerned, it is much easier to believe that it was the purpose of the organization of the Continental Trading Co. to create a huge slush fund to be available for such purposes as have been suggested.

Became Cautious.

"It is true that the investigation of the committee has disclosed that only one-fourth share of these profits, that share going to Sinclair, ever entered into such channels as would call for use of a 'slush' fund, but it must be borne in mind that the inauguration of these investigations in 1922 was at the time that distribution of the profits was taking place and the participants of the profits immediately became cautious in the use of the Liberty Loan bonds into the purchase of which the profits of the company were turned. In fact the testimony received by the committee discloses such caution on the part of at least one participant, namely, Robert W. Stewart. There is, under the circumstances, ample ground upon which to base the belief that the entire profit was intended for propaganda, corrupt and 'slush' purposes.

"The committee is still without knowledge of the uses to which about a third of the profits of the Continental Trading Co. were put. Representation is made that the one-fourth share which went to James ONeil was finally given by O'Neil to the oil company of which he was the head official, at the time he received the said profits. The bonds which were thus paid over to the oil company were not the Continental Trading Co. bonds, however. It may be that O'Neil still possesses the original bonds received as profit from the Continental Trading Co., but there has as yet developed no opportunity to ascertain this.

"In addition to this quarter share of said profits there is unaccounted for a portion of those bonds received by Harry F. Sinclair. Since the investigation has disclosed that approximately half of his share entered channels which have been considered of a corrupt nature, it seems essential that every possible means ought to be exhausted to learn of the uses to which that portion unaccounted for was put."

Wants Law Tightened Up.

The report concludes with recommendations, as follows:

"The ease with which the intent of the corrupt practices act has been evaded makes apparent the need for such enactments of law as will require from year to year more accurate accounting of all receipts and expenditures for political and campaign purposes, and afford a thorough and accurate recording of those accounts. Three bills offered by Senator Bronson Cutting in the present session of the Seventieth Congress merit consideration. There can be no excuse for the ability, for example, to conceal as large a contribution of $160,000, such as was disclosed in one instance by this investigation.

"Tax evasions such as the investigation has disclosed demand the enactment of legislation that will tighten up the machinery of Government and make more readily available knowledge of the sources of taxable income and provide a check on taxes paid.

"This report has already suggested the need for such changes in the law governing court procedure as will avoid delays and make justice as certain and as available to one individual as to another, no matter what their rank in our social structure may be.

"The investigation has indicated need for Congress, the direct representative of the people, to pass upon and approve or disapprove any losses or transfer having to do with the naval oil reserves."

BARGE LINE BILL SENT TO PRESIDENT

Raises Capitalization to $15,000,000, Permits Sale to Private Interests.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Congress approved the Government operation of barge lines by completing legislative action yesterday on the Denison bill to extend the service on the Mississippi River's tributaries and to increase the capital of the Inland Waterways Corporation, which operates the service, from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000.

The measure, which also provides for an investigation by the War Department of the feasibility of extending the barge service on the inland water route from Boston to Beaufort, N. C., now goes to the President.

It was disclosed today that while Mr. Coolidge believes the bill is not exactly what he desired relative to the powers of the Secretary of War to make sales or leases, he has concluded that it is the best that can be obtaind from Congress. Although he has not made up his mind definitely, it is probable that he will sign the measure.

A Senate revision of the bill as it passed the House stipulated that no single unit of the Mississippi River Barge Service could be sold to private interests. This was changed to permit the sale of the Mississippi (including the upper river) or the Warrior River Lines as units. The measure also authorized the Secretary of War with the approval of the President, to sell the lines as soon as private interests are able to operate the services profitably. The extension of the service to the tributaries would be made whenever those streams were provided with channels which would insure "adequate and safe navigation." The Ohio River was excluded from the tributaries because private barge lines are now operating on that stream.

tion proceedings in the Higgins case, been discovered to be the cover-house for the Higgins company. That one check was the only check deposited by Chamberlain in these sums.

Another Source of Inquiry.

"There is another source of inquiry that this committee might make into the Latin-American Alcohol Co., which was a manufacturing permitee, during the period Hale had control in New York from 1924 to 1925. I am not just sure of the date of the promotion. Hale was at that time working with a man named Harper. Capt. Merrick, administrator—first director agent in charge, and later for a short time administrator in New York and whose services have always been found by me to be most creditable, assigned two men to investigate the alcohol releases of the Latin-American Alcohol Co. Those two men were thrown out. This Latin-American company continued to operate without check. It had a permission to manufacture 50,000 gallons a month.

"When Administrator Mills was appointed in New York, Harper and Hale were moved out of that territory. Harper was sent to Buffalo, where he was made administrator, and I might say that we now have him under indictment in Buffalo. Hale was sent to New Jersey. Coincident with those two men being moved out of the New York territory, this Latin-American company surrendered its right to make these 50,000 gallons of alcohol and discontinued its permit privileges.

"A New Jersey agent, named Sparks, had tried to ascertain where this alcohol was being dispensed in New York. He sent two inspectors to find out. When these two agents arrived in New York at the suspected permittee house, which Sparks concluded might be the distributing points for excessive amounts of alcohol, the president of the company immediately telephoned to Frank Hale. Within a very little while Sparks received a telephone call, as these records show, from Hale, challenging him to send any man into New York without getting permission from him (Hale).

Arrested by Hale's Men.

"When these two inspectors returned to the plant the next day, they were put under arrest by some of Hale's men and held and abused and finally dismissed and sent on back to New Jersey without completing their investigation."

"What was Hale's position or function with the Bureau at that time?" Steiwer asked.

"He was the head of the alcohol and brewery control, a title that was devised after General Andrews took charge of the service, carrying with it almost unlimited authority in any investigation involving any permits of breweries or alcohol manufacturing plants. Hale was a free lance and at that time under the control of nobody, and working with Chamberlain, the friend of General Andrews, who had gotten him the position in 1925, the time the special intelligence had him under investigation.

"Now in 1926, again assuring from repeated reports of good agents that this man was one of the most disintegrating influences in law enforcement in that section of the country, I appealed for a new investigation. This time feeling it hopeless to do so to General Andrews, in view of the previous experience in his enlarged capacity in the midst of an investigation, I went to Secretary Mellon and got action almost immediately.

Investigation Started.

An investigation was started as to both his prohibition activities and as to his income tax reports General Andrews' successor had not yet been appointed, but Dr. Doran was at that time appointed commissioner of prohibition, and within a very short time Hale was summarily dismissed from the Department."

Mrs. Willebrandt denied Hale told the truth when he swore that he had some resources before he entered the Government service. Sale also testified that the funds for "Politics" had come from several fortunate promotions in Mexico. Mrs. Willebrandt said the closest thing she had to evidence regarding this was Hale's connection with the Latin-American liquor plant.

At the conclusion of her testimony, Mrs. Willebrandt emphasized all her testimony had dealt with investigations made prior to Hale's sponsorship of "Politics." This emphasis undoubtedly was laid to clear up any presumption that the investigations were a matter of retaliation for the anti-Hoover articles in the publication.

PASTOR ACCUSED OF MORAL TURPITUDE; FACES TRIAL

Los Angeles Clergyman Charged With Unbecoming Conduct Toward Women.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—The Rev. Frank Dyer, pastor of the Wilshire Congregational Church here, today faced in Superior Court a charge of moral turpitude in addition to a summons to appear before an ecclesiastical tribunal for trial on charge of conduct unbecoming a minister.

The church corporation, in an amended complaint in a suit to oust the pastor, accused him of holding love trysts in his study. The complaint specifically alleges the pastor made love to a married woman of his congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Dyer, who has occupied pulpits in several Pacific Coast cities, was ordered to appear before the church tribunal June 7.

of both groups held a meeting, which was attended by W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway and head of the uniform contract committee. The date of the next meeting has not been set.

The book value of the assets of the American Railway Express on the balance sheet, dated March 31, 1927, was $37,890,487, equal to $109.38 a share on the 346,420 shares of capital stock of $100 par value.

The contract says that, in case of acquisition by the railroads, each company shall take the property "on its line."

Stock of the American Railway Express Co. closed at $123 a share yesterday on the New York Stock Exchange, a drop of $4 a share. Officials of the company assert the reappraisal will result in a valuation much higher than $109.38 a share, while railroad representatives expect the final cost will not be much more than $110 a share.

ROBBERS GET $600 AT LACLEDE GAS STORE

Two Hold Up Manager and Take Money From Safe.

Two men obtained $600 in a holdup last night at the Laclede Gas Light Co. branch store, Grand boulevard and Connecticut street.

John F. Stovall, the branch manager, stepped forward to greet the men as they entered, at 8:15 o'clock. One drew a revolver, the other held a piece of paper before his face as a mask. Stovall was ordered to keep his hands down, face the wall and be quiet.

After taking the $600 from a safe, the robbers marched Stovall into a rear alley and left him there. In escaping one dropped the paper mask, on which was written "Grand and Connecticut."

Crackers, Milk Keep Carpenter, 51, Alive

"All I could eat was crackers and milk, due to stomach trouble. I took Adlerika, and now, at 51, I am a new man and eat anything."—L. Gariepy.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, writes: "Adlerika, in addition to the usual cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and putrefaction."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my years of practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you to see the amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would not believe was in your system. For chronic constipation, gas, bloating, sour stomach and sick headache, ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading Drug Stores in St. Louis. Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

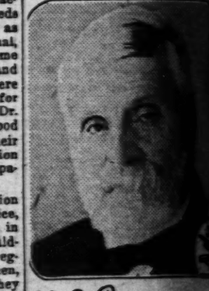
When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth, and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.



W. B. Caldwell, M.D. AT AGE 69

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is used by mothers for themselves and their children, though Syrup Pepsin is also valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the genuine Syrup Pepsin.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how quickly Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can relieve you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

The HUMAN BODY — by LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

What Diabetes Is, and How It Can Be Checked Though Not Cured by the Use of Insulin—A Curious Discovery.

Diseases of Nutrition.

DIABETES mellitus is the disorder of sugar and starch nutrition. Patients with this disease and their relatives usually experience considerable difficulty in understanding its nature. Their chief trouble, because the amount of sugar in the urine is such a good guide to its severity and treatment, is that they get the idea that it is a disease of the kidneys. Nothing could be further from the fact.

But the medical profession itself for long was under similar misapprehension. Aretaeus the Cappodocian, who lived about the first decade of the Christian era, and who first described it, conceived it as a "melting of the flesh, which flowed away in the urine." This description emphasizes two of the cardinal symptoms of diabetes—emaciation and increased flow of urine—and if loss of weight and frequent urination are ever complained of in your hearing, your acquaintance should certainly be advised to consult a physician.

The discovery that diabetics' urine contains sugar was made many years after Aretaeus. Just where the fault lay was a mystery. The liver, the intestines and the blood were all impugned. The story is that Naunyn, the famous Strassburg physician, in about 1890, was walking across a bridge connecting one wing of his hospital to another when he happened to observe two packs of dogs in the bricked courtyard below, separated from each other by a fence. The professor of physiology had been performing a set of experiments in digestion, and to further these he had removed the pancreas from some of the dogs.

In order to avoid confusion he had segregated the dogs from which the pancreas had been extirpated from the others. The day was warm, and Naunyn, leaning on the railing in one of those moods which come to scientists as well as to poets, when the intellect and the spirit are both bright and clear, noticed that swarms of flies gathered on the urine of the dogs whose pancreas had been excised and not upon the urine of the dogs unoperated upon. He went himself and collected some of the urine which the flies swarmed on and tested it for sugar. Sugar proved to be present: the dogs had diabetes. Naunyn stalked into the laboratory of physiology—

"What have you done to those dogs in the courtyard?" he demanded of the professor of physiology.

"I have removed the pancreas," was the reply.

"Then," cried Naunyn, "lack of a pancreas causes diabetes."

Shortly afterwards it was shown that if the duct of the pancreas, which conveys the digestive juices to the intestines, were cut and the pancreatic digestive fluid allowed to flow outside the body, no sugar appeared in the urine. Therefore the role which the pancreas plays in the causation of diabetes must be from the elaboration of a secretion which is poured into the bloodstream, not into the intestines.

In a cut section of the pancreas a number of nests of cells, differing from other pancreatic tissue, were seen by Paul Langerhans in 1869. This finding was amalgamated with Naunyn's later observation and the islets of Langerhans in some diabetic cases were found to be destroyed. Just in our own day extracts of these islet-of-Langerhans tissues, injected hypodermically into diabetic patients, have resulted in the ultimate triumph over the disease.

What, then, does happen in diabetes? Normally the nutrition of starches and sugars begins with their being turned, by the digestive juices, into glucose, chemically a very simple sugar. From the intestines glucose is absorbed and carried to the liver. Here it is converted into a form of carbohydrate, glycogen, or animal starch, found in animal livers. This is apparently the only form of starch which an animal can keep in storage.

When a muscle contracts and needs energy to do it, the energy comes almost entirely from glucose. To supply this the liver sends out glycogen, which is reconverted either in the liver or in the muscle to glucose, and when the muscle contracts, the glucose is burnt, or oxidized—it unites with oxygen from the blood—producing heat and energy and reducing the glucose molecule to water, carbon dioxide and a little lactic acid. The spark which causes the glucose to burn—i. e., to unite with the oxygen—is insulin, the secretion from the islets of Langerhans in the pancreas. When the muscle contracts, this insulin is also called for from the pancreas, just as the glycogen is called for from the liver.

In diabetes every detail of this procedure is the same, except that, the islets of Langerhans being more or less diseased, there is either little or no insulin. (They are probably never completely destroyed.) Thus the glucose gets to the muscle, is not burned, and accumulates in the blood. The kidney is very sensitive to the presence of glucose in the blood above the normal amount—about .09 mg. per 100 cc. Therefore, when the glucose is increased in the blood, the kidney removes it from the blood along with enough fluid to dissolve it in the urine. That is why the urine is involved at all. That is why the kidneys get a bad name in diabetes. That is why untreated diabetics are always thirsty.

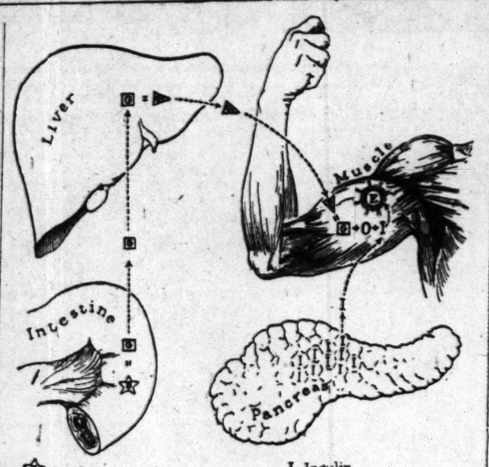

Diagram of carbohydrate nutrition. Start in the lower left-hand corner. Here the starch after being swallowed is converted to glucose in the intestines, absorbed and carried by the blood-stream to the liver, where it is converted into glycogen and stored as such. When a muscle contracts, it needs fuel, and the glycogen is carried by a blood-vessel from the liver to the muscle, converted again into glucose, mixed with oxygen which comes from the lungs, and "fired" by insulin which comes from the islets of Langerhans in the pancreas, producing energy. The only difference between this normal process and the diabetic's is that the diabetic has no insulin. Therefore in the diabetic the glucose accumulates in the blood and passes off as sugar in the urine.

Woodyatt, a brilliant living investigator of diabetes, has compared the condition to a gasoline engine. In order to have the cylinder of the gasoline engine pump (in order to have a muscle contract) gasoline must be brought from the tank (glycogen—glucose—must be brought from the liver) and mixed with air in the carburetor (the glucose mixed with air from the lungs via the blood), but for an explosion the spark plug must produce a spark (the pancreas must produce insulin). If the spark plugs are dirty (if the islets of Langerhans are diseased), the combustion is incomplete and black smoke comes out of the exhaust (glucose comes out in the urine).

The treatment of diabetes is perfectly logical from an understanding of its nature. If the diabetic body cannot burn as much starch as a normal body, the amount of starch in the diet must be cut down. Fortunately, now, through the discoveries of Banting, Best, McLeod and Campbell, who found a method of isolating the secretion of the islets of Langerhans, which they called insulin, we are able also to supply the deficiency of that substance. Diet is, however, always still the mainstay of treatment, and with every diabetic, proper dietary adjustment must be maintained.

There are several pieces of advice which every diabetic should take to heart. First, the patient should realize that the medical profession knows all about diabetes. It knows all about the cause, the nature and the treatment of it. As the treatment may be very complex, the patient should always put himself or herself into the hands of a member of the regular profession. With certain other diseases it is of no real importance whether a regular practitioner, a chiropractor, a Christian Scientist, or an Indian medicine man is called in. But in diabetes it is nothing short of a crime not to employ a regular physician, because, over this disease at least, we can say with absolute confidence that we have complete mastery.

Second, the patient must become acquainted with the principles and the details of the treatment. He must learn to examine his own urine for sugar. This is done by using a testing fluid—Benedict's solution or Haines' solution, which can be purchased at any drug store. An alcohol lamp or gas flame will be needed, also a test tube and a medicine dropper.

The Benedict's solution is put in the tube and boiled over the flame. A few drops of urine are then added and the solution boiled again. If a reddish or yellowish or greenish cloud (a precipitate) forms, glucose is present. Besides this the patient must learn the composition of all the foodstuffs—the amount of carbohydrates, fats and proteins each contains. A scale must be obtained and the food to be eaten weighed, at least until an estimation by the eye of the weight of the regularly eaten articles is possible. There are a number of books written especially for diabetics in which complete explanations of all these things are given. I can heartily recommend as one of these Elliott Joslin's Diabetic Manual (Lea & Febiger).

Third, if insulin is to be used, it will in the present state of our knowledge have to be given by hypodermic, as taken by mouth it is immediately destroyed by the stomach juices. The patient, of course, must learn the technic of hypodermic injections and give them to himself. The syringe should be a glass one: that is the only kind which can effectively be sterilized. The needle should be a No. 26 gauge. The syringe and needle should be boiled for sterilization purposes before every injection. For traveling a Sterno tin is a convenient method of carrying a fire. The skin should be wiped with alcohol before injection.

Fourth, treatment is carried on to avoid complications. Patients frequently say to a physician: "You say that a part of my food is not burned, and flows off in the urine in the form of glucose. Very well, why can't I just eat that much more food and let the excess go?" The answer is that, with the carbohydrate metabolism disturbed, there inevitably follow disturbances in the metabolism of other foodstuffs, particularly fats. The fats also furnish fuel, and if they are to burn, a certain amount of carbohydrate combustion is also necessary. If this does not occur, they burn incompletely and chemical bodies which represent partial stages of the breakdown of the fats accumulate. These are fatty acids and lead to the most fatal of the complications of diabetes—acidosis and diabetic coma.

Fifth, patients often make one serious mistake in calculating diets. They calculate the amount of starch they can utilize and then eat it in the form of very simple sugars or starches, such as candy, ice cream, bread, etc. These may cause glucose to appear in the urine even if the dietary calculation is carefully made. More complex forms of starch should be used, such as green vegetables. This is because the simple sugars and starches are very quickly converted into glucose by the digestive apparatus and carried to the liver in such quantity as to overtax its power to convert them quickly into glycogen. This may happen even in health—alimentary glycosuria. Vegetables, particularly green vegetables, cauliflower, carrots, etc., are the best form of starch for the diabetic.

Sixth, the treatment must be continued for life.

Seventh, waste no pity on yourself. Diabetes is the pleasantest of all the chronic diseases. There is no pain, and man has written on its face: "This disease I have conquered."

Fruit Stains.

At this time when the summer fruits are just beginning to appear in market it might be well to remind the housewife that a little pure glycerine will remove fruit stains from the table linen. Apply before sending to the laundry and the linen will come back beautifully white.

Safety First.

If you notice a thin place or a small hole or "runner" in your stocking upon removal, darn it before putting it in the laundry. Then the hole will not increase to a hopeless size in the washing process.

Badly Stained.

With so much iced tea our pet pitchers are apt to become a little discolored inside during the summer. Hard water will also cause these dark stains. Let milk stand in it until it sours. When washed the pitcher will look like new.

CHILDREN'S BEDTIME STORY

By Thornton W. Burgess

CUBBY FINDS LONGBILL.

That which at first seems strange and rare,
May prove an everyday affair.
—Cubby Bear.

CUBBY BEAR was still looking for a few more roots. Presently he came to where the ground was quite soft in the alder swamp. Right in front of him he noticed a little round hole in the earth, and then he noticed another and another. He looked all about greedily to see if he could find the maker of those holes. He thought someone must have come out of those holes. He hadn't the least idea who it may have been, but he didn't care. It was all one to him, for a hungry little Bear can eat almost anything or almost anybody.

But he couldn't find anyone who had come out of those holes and they began to puzzle him a little. As he shuffled this way and that way, looking for roots, he found more and more of these little round holes. They were about the size of a lead pencil—a rather small lead pencil.

"It's queer I can't find the maker of those holes," muttered Cubby. "Holes don't just grow. Someone has to make them. Hello! Look at those footprints I didn't notice those before. They seem to be wherever those holes are. They look like the footprints of a bird. In fact, I am sure they are the footprints of a bird. I wonder if that bird has been examining these holes the same way I have. They look to me like the holes of earthworms. Probably that is what they are and that is why this bird, whoever it is, is so interested. Hello, who is that fellow over there?"

Cubby stood still and stared. In a little open space just ahead of him was a bird very busy about something. Just what he was doing Cubby couldn't make out. He was a queer-looking bird. He was mostly brown, like the warm brown of newly fallen leaves in the autumn. He had some black markings on him and Cubby suddenly discovered that it was hard work to keep track of him. It was hard work to distinguish him from the brown leaves about him. His legs were not very long, but his feet were a very good size. Cubby looked at those feet and then he looked at the tracks he had been noticing.

"Excuse me," said Cubby. "Do I know you?"

"That's the fellow," he muttered. "That's the very fellow! He is the one who has made these footprints. He is the one so interested in these little round holes. And, as I live, he is the very fellow who gave me such a fright flying up almost in my face! Now, I wonder who he is. He is a stranger to me."

Cubby stared harder than ever at the stranger. "My goodness!" he exclaimed. "What a long bill! I should think that bill would be in his way. Yes, sir, I should think that that bill would be in his way. And what a funny place to have eyes! Why, they look as if they are almost on top of his head. I wonder who he is, anyway. I should like to catch him. I feel sure he would be good eating. But there is no chance to catch him here, so I suppose I'll have to be polite. Here goes!"

Cubby stole forward a few steps. The stranger paid no attention to him, or at least seemed to pay no attention to him. Cubby took two more steps. Then the stranger moved off two or three steps. "Excuse me!" said Cubby. "Do I know you?"

The stranger looked at Cubby with a twinkle in his big eyes, for, for his size, his eyes were unusually big. "How should I know?" said he. "I know you, and that is enough for me. I don't care to furnish you a dinner, thank you. I'm not quite ready to be eaten today."

"Perhaps you will be tomorrow," said Cubby hopefully.

"I doubt it," replied the stranger. "You see, I am much more interested in filling my own stomach than in filling the stomach of someone else."

"I haven't heard you mention your name," said Cubby.

"Really, how careless of me!" exclaimed the stranger. "My name is Longbill—Longbill the Woodcock."

"Pleased to meet you," replied Cubby politely. "May our acquaintance be a lasting one."

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

ELINOR GLYN ON THIS MODERN LIFE

(Thirty-Ninth Article)

By Elinor Glyn.

THE TRUTH ABOUT PRESUMPTUOUSNESS.

ONE of the most detestable qualities is presumption—making yourself at home without asking leave in other people's houses. Picking up their private books, flopping into their chairs, in short, behaving, without any authority so to do, as though you were the chief person, and the arbiter of the situation.

The presumptuous interrupt conversation, address people who are above them in station, social or commercial, without waiting for any indication that their conversation will be welcomed. They are "fresh" with everyone, and quite sure of themselves upon no premise whatsoever. They take liberties with their friends and relations, and generally arouse indignation so that eventually they draw so many hostile currents upon themselves that some crushing blow falls upon their vanity or their pride.

Presumption in anyone who is receiving money from another person to do a certain job always shows a want of intelligence, because if intelligence were well developed, he or she would realize that to be paid for work, whether you are an official or in a great public office, or a day laborer, makes you technically the servant of the person who is paying you, so it is not for you "to call the tune." Now remember this, boys and girls, you are not showing independence or character when you are being free and easy with your employer or those placed above you by circumstance—you are merely demonstrating that you are ignorant little creatures without much brain, for you are expressing yourselves in a manner which you would certainly resent if some one else so expressed himself to you, and the instinct to do so springs from a subconscious change of inferiority in you which wants to bluster equality in words and acts, to comfort itself by too proud to be presumptuous or to try to grasp what is not your due.

No-Stitch Patching

ONE busy mother has a novel way of applying a patch on her children's trousers, dresses and other garments. She lays the torn part of the garment flat on the table wrong side up. She carefully adjusts the tear as near as possible to its original state and applies the white of egg around the rent. Over this she places a piece of linen or matching fabric somewhat larger than the torn section and presses it down firmly over the egg white; then she goes over it with a hot iron. She affirms even laundering will not loosen a patch applied by this method.

How to make better STRAWBERRY JAM

Certo "short-boil" method saves the fresh flavor and bright color of your fruit—makes 10 glasses of jam from 2 quarts of berries—insures success every time.

NO OTHER FRUIT, perhaps, suffers so much from the old method of long cooking as the delicate, delicious strawberry.

You need never again stand over the kettle watching your strawberries darken, their fragrant fresh flavor drift away in steam, while you "boil them down" for jam.

For with Certo you can make perfect strawberry jam with only one minute's boiling!

Certo is the natural jellifying substance in fruit which causes it to jell. Because nature has distributed this substance so unequally in the different fruits—giving very few of them enough to jellify all of their juice and causing all of them to lose it as they ripen—you have always had to go on cooking and cooking your fruit in the effort to reduce it to the point where it would jell.

Now we have extracted this jellifying substance from fruit, refined, concentrated, and bottled it, all ready for you to use with any fruit. With Certo no long cooking is necessary. It provides enough jellifying substance at the start to jell all the fruit juice.

Famous cooking expert recommends Certo

Miss Alice Bradley, Principal, Miss Farmer's School of Cookery; and Cooking Editor, Woman's Home Companion, says: "I strongly advise all housewives to make all their jams and jellies with Certo because:—It's easier—Takes only one minute's boiling. Tastes better—No flavor boiled away. Better color—Not darkened by long boiling. No worry—Never fails to set. It's economical—Fifty per cent more from given amount of fruit and no waste from failures."

Get Certo from your grocer. In the recipe book which comes under the label of each bottle you will find nearly 100 simple recipes for making better looking, better tasting jams and jellies from all the other berries and fruits in their season.

"Never-fail" recipe for crushed Strawberry Jam or Blackberry Jam

4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries
7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ cup Certo.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure crushed berries into a large kettle, add sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax. (This recipe as well as recipes for sliced and whole fruit strawberry jam are in the book of recipes which comes with each bottle of Certo.)

Helping the School Child

By Emilie Hoffman

TEACHER remarked, "You would be surprised to know how few of our pupils are really good readers."

Parents who are eager to help their children will gladly give their assistance (too much so in many cases), but few interest themselves in the reading of their children. They probably, do not regard this school as a study, so it is entirely overlooked in the home helps.

Reading, however, is a decidedly important subject in the school curriculum, especially in the elementary grades, and many a child would have a higher class standing if they were good readers.

Teachers would probably object to pupils using the school readers at home as familiarity with the lesson story would detract from the interest of the pupil in the reading class and thought would be anything but helpful to either the teacher or pupil. There are many good supplementary graded readers, also interesting stories adapted for each grade, so there will be no difficulty in finding suitable reading matter for the home study of each child.

When your child enters the first grade display an interest in his reading. Each day ask what new words he learned. You will be surprised at the large vocabulary he will master in that first grade. The sentences each day of the words he has learned and ask him to read them. It will not be long before he will be able to read most monosyllable words. The phonetic method used in the schools enables children to quickly familiarize the words by sound.

From that time on reading aloud should be a daily duty. Do not make it a lesson. Let the child feel you are interested and he is giving you a pleasure by reading a story to you each evening. This will soon become a habit, and it is one that should be encouraged.

Before allowing the child to read a lesson aloud ask him to hunt out the new words in the lesson. This can be made a jolly hunt between the parent and child, the explanations often suggesting new words. Let the child give you sentences using the new words correctly. Then tell him to read the lesson to himself, after which he should read it aloud quite fluently. Reading is not simply familiarity with the words. There must be expression and clear enunciation. Be sure that he gives the final sound to the ending of each word. Teach him to count one after each comma and three after a period.

If this is done daily your child will probably be an A reader when he enters the second grade. However, keep up the reading evening under the guise that the child is entertaining you.

Be careful in the selection of books. You had better secure a list of the supplementary books suggested by the school or teacher and follow that course of reading. By the time a child thus trained reaches the fourth grade he will be able to read fluently and you can have him read newspaper items according to your discretion and whatever informational reading you may desire for him. In fact, through this method of home reading you will not only establish a good custom, but you will lay a strong foundation for your child's education, for, as all intelligent parents know, is benefited or marred by the literature the student reads. So does the character of your son or daughter.

Crush about 2 quarts of berries one layer at a time so that each berry is actually crushed or broken up to a pulp. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil, and prevents fruit rising to the top or floating. Best results are obtained by running berries through a food chopper. Measure crushed berries into a large kettle, add sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard from 1 to 2 minutes, remove from fire and stir in Certo. Skim and stir constantly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire to cool slightly, which prevents fruit floating. Then pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot paraffin wax. (This recipe as well as recipes for sliced and whole fruit strawberry jam are in the book of recipes which comes with each bottle of Certo.)

FASHIONS SKETCHED AT FAIRMOUNT—By Marguerite Martyn

RUMORS persisting in the fashion news of a renaissance of the shirtwaist are given verification by the fact that Miss Carol McDonald wore to the races Saturday, opening day at Fairmount, a frock that had the tucked-in blouse, both Miss McDonald and her mother, Mrs. Stewart McDonald, being noted for good taste in dress and knowledge of the mode.

As sketched, the costume which breathed an air of youthful simplicity, consisted of the blouse of handkerchief linen with wide frill round neck and sleeves and skirt pleated in deep kilts into a hip yoke of pussy willow taffeta printed in tones of dark, and light blues on white. A small cravat matched the skirt. The jacket of dark blue silk was unlined.

Her hat was a fitted crown of dull blue crocheted visca dipping into a point over the left ear.

A good looking top coat of grayish tweed had a stand-up collar notched at the back, raglan sleeves set into a pointed yoke and big pockets cut in geometrical sections. It was worn by Mrs. Harry Langenberg with a dark red crepe frock and matching hat of felt.

Another youthful costume with some novel touches indicative of new style tendencies was the cape ensemble worn by Miss Virginia Simmons of New York. It was made of light weight tweed in a blue and gray mixture. The cape was waist length, rounded at the sides and cut in sections put together so as to produce a slight circular flare. The skirt was similarly fashioned and the slip-over blouse was of white pique with turnover collar, shirtwaist sleeves and belt of the material knotted at the front. Pique is a material enjoying the favor of the couturiers again.

Her hat was black bankok with an outer edge of hair braid turned back becomingly at the front.

ANGORA coats were very smart and suitable, since the day was damp and none too warm. One sketched was of the soft wool in a pale gray shade. It was lined with billiard green crepe de chine of which the frock was made. A short scarf collar showed the green lining, as did also slot seams in a pouch pocket on one side of the coat. The dress had a deep oval yoke of lace, a sash belt and finely knife-pleated skirt. Belt and coat sleeves were fastened with single large pearls. The wearer was a fair-haired, blue-eyed young woman to whom the gray, green and pearl ensemble were most becoming.

A costume sketched not for its unusual qualities but rather because it epitomizes the most popular of this season's modes is the ensemble with straight-lined coat lined with print matching blouse or frock beneath. In this case the coat was of Independence blue kasha and the printed material crepe in rather a large Chinese patern in which shades of blue predominated. With slight variations a difference in the neck line which often is quite collarless, two inches difference in the length of the coat, or a different sleeve, this model is ubiquitous and yet seems not to

The hat sketched with it is a little out of the ordinary, having its bankok brim pressed into folds and notched into two points at the front.

Nailheads are enjoying a vogue and never have they been so lavishly applied. A bisque colored flat crepe jumper suit was so thickly sewn with tiny gold nailheads round the waist and upon the sleeves that had they not faded off into a more scattered arrangement the blouse would have resembled a coat of mail. A band of gold braid edged the blouse and wristbands. With the frock were worn a bright red milan hat and red suede pumps.

A PRINT FROCK, black with bright blue and red flower pattern, worn by Mrs. Edward A. Limberg, another woman noted for her chic, was sketched to show a new variation of the Viomet neck line. It is effected by crossing two scarf ends flatly at the front, so that they form a V-shaped yoke, the other ends hanging free from the shoulders.

Coats and frocks of ensemble suits need not always match either as to color or material. One with a cape of blue twill belonged with a frock of beige crapella, the two garments being related chiefly by the navy braid used as bindings and bands on the frock. The cape sketched is one of those cut in gores, so as to produce a flare. It is scalloped and lined with pin-dotted crepe.

The accompanying hat was of dark vlue crocheted straw trimmed with flat triangles of beige.

Coin-dotted blue foulard and navy kaaha-composed the costume worn by Miss Lillian Crossman of the Garden Theater. The wide cape was slashed to the shoulder for armholes and there was a scarf collar besides.

The hat she wore was of navy felt with a border round the medium brim of blue and white plaited straw.

Londoners Buy Handier Houses

THE plan of running a small country house within easy motoring distance of London is being increasingly adopted by society folk, who have a town residence also.

Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught have just bought a small house in the Surrey hills from which they can easily reach town by car to attend many functions, and be able to follow country pursuits in their spare time.

The Prince of Wales bought a home in Surrey some months ago. Lord and Lady Lee of Fareham, who gave Chequers to the nation for the use of prime ministers, have returned to White Lodge Richmond Park. Several wealthy people who have country estates in the north or west of England find the weekend journey to those places tiring, and have bought small houses, 20 or 30 miles out, which they can easily reach from the West End after a theater or other functions.

The British jeweled sword of state is considered the most valuable as well as the most beautiful sword in the world. It was made for George IV at a cost of about $30,000.

Short Sleeves Are Bidding for Favor

THE short puff sleeve makes a hesitant bid for popularity and short sleeves not puffed but stopping midway between shoulder and elbow are likewise visible in Paris. Sleeveless dresses are shown in all collections for the spring, but with moderation.

Long sleeves decline to follow slavishly the plain fitted lines from shoulder to wrist. Many a sleeve breaks out into a puff or flare and in thinner stuffs like chiffon print, sleeves become exuberant. The full gathered section set on above the elbow and divided at the front is just one version.

For sports the long tight sleeve continues. Mannish link-fastened types prevail exceedingly, the turnback cuff accompanying.

Sometimes immoderate are the wings and other things that fall off the back of the arm in evening dress. These either float through chiffon lightness or fall heavily under the influence of beads and spangles.

A convenient electric toaster reverses the pieces of bread while they are toasting, and has six places on top to keep them hot after they are toasted.

Frayed Edges Find Favor

FRAYED edges as trimming are made fashionable by their use on suits and sport sweaters by one of the biggest Paris dressmaking houses. The frayed finish is particularly adaptable to asperic, a rough surfaced, rather loosely woven material which ravels easily. Angora wool is treated in the same way.

THREE GENERATIONS

by WARWICK DEEPING "AUTHOR OF SORREL AND SON"

Hallo, Conrad!" "Hallo, my lad!"

SYNOPSIS.

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourn, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven when one of his sons sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war.

A FAMILY COMPLICATION

EARLY in 1917 John Pybus sold himself up, lock, stock and barrel, and after paying all his creditors, disappeared from Winterbourn with some 25 pounds in his pocket. He disappeared, too, out of the lives of his sons. He had cursed them, and without wishing that the old fellow's curses would come home to roost, they found it convenient to remain estranged. Not that they made no effort to find the old man, or failed to make a magnanimous gesture. Probyn, softer fibered than his brother, happening to be in the southwest on business, broke a journey at Winterbourn on one reeking December day, and found the little bookshop in other hands. Squeezed in between two bigger buildings rather like a child in a crowded railway carriage, it reproached Probyn. It looked cold and gray. His father's name had disappeared. The paint was cracked and peeling, and Probyn was wearing a fur lined coat.

He had made inquiries. His father's putting up of the shutters had signalized a voluntary bankruptcy. John Pybus had departed with honor, but no one knew what had become of him. It took Probyn three months to discover that his father was earning a living as a tram conductor in a midland town. Probyn held out a filial and magnanimous hand.

It was repulsed. John Pybus was not to be pitied. He was quite capable of working. He had no intention of accepting three pounds a week and obscurity in a south coast watering place or a London suburb. He said in effect, "You can keep your money, the money that ought to have gone to the men out there in the trenches."

Obstinate old man. After that there was silence, and the silence lasted for ten years. The two Pybus sons had made use of their opportunities. Probyn had bought and sold mills; he had a place at Windover in Bucks; in 1920 he was knighted; Dolly Pybus became Lady Pybus; Lancelot was at Eton. Conrad, still a bachelor, and in the cream and the plumpness of the forties, had translated sundry shipping deals into a country estate and culture, and some two hundred thousand pounds safely stowed away.

Old Pybus came at last to Castle Craven. He liked the large sky and the rolling country, and the cheerful human bustle of the inn, and the little stone cottage he was allowed to occupy between the garden of the Saracen's Head and the castle field. He had a niche. He was both a nobody and a somebody. He had books and one or two intimates.

After his tea each evening, John Pybus fed the pigeons. White fan tails, blue rocks and half breeds, they came to him from the red roofs of the inn's stables and out houses, and from the ruins of the castle.

Any time of the day he had only to take his stand in the stone paved yard or broad passage between his cottage and the inn garden, and whistle his pigeon call, and half a dozen birds would come to him. There were some of them ready to follow him into the cottage, but since the fan tails shed white feathers and John Pybus had a passion for tidiness, he allowed them as far as his doorstep, but no further.

The cottage was half stone, half red brick, with a pantiled roof. The kitchen faced the inn. The window of the living room looked out over John Pybus' patch of garden, and beyond it to the green slopes of the castle field and to the castle itself with its walls tufted with wallflower and snapdragon.

John Pybus made his own bed. It was a very simple affair, a camp bed of green canvas with one army blanket below and one above and a pair of cotton sheets between them. His furniture, too, was of the simplest, a couple of windsor chairs, an oak table very worm eaten, a five tier deal bookcase full of books, a basket chair with a red cushion, a square of green cord carpet to cover the floor. His bedroom floor had no carpet. On the living room mantlepiece in front of a little gilt framed mirror he kept a calendar, his pipes, a tobacco tin, and three photographs, the photos of his wife and his two sons. It was an ironic yet human touch.

He fetched in his own water and swept his own floors, though help was available. The women liked John Pybus. He was a clean and handsome old man. They spoke of him always as Mr. Pybus, and in an irreverent age that was no light tribute.

He read a great deal by the light of a paraffin lamp with a green shade, sitting in the basket chair with the red cushion, and wearing horn rimmed spectacles. He read poetry and philosophy. He was a great admirer of Blake. He was both classical and modern. He subscribed to one of the London libraries, and each month he had a box of books sent down. He was amazingly up to date in his knowledge of social tendencies and of scientific thought. His interest in life as life was deep and unabated.

Mr. Conrad drove over to Windover.

Mr. John Pybus' presence at Castle Craven, within a morning's drive of both Windover hall and Chlois court, was a family complication, and Conrad was a cautious fellow.

Turning in at the lodge gates between two stone pillars capped with griffins, he saw before him the famous avenue of beeches arched like a great green tunnel. Always there was a soft, cool movement of air under the spreading boughs of the old trees. The gray trunks were spaced like the pillars of a temple, and the cool drift of the air between them made young Lance Pybus imagine that he was feeling the breath of the divine afflatus.

He was an imaginative lad; he had a temperament.

Mr. Conrad Pybus, proof against all such fancies, saw the redness of the Queen Anne house glowing at the end of the avenue. The old brickwork had the sun upon it, and the sashes of its windows were very white. Chlois Court was bastard Gothic conceived by some early Victorian, and though Conrad's house had a more dramatic exterior than his brothers, Conrad was a little envious of that old red brickwork. It was so mellow. It suggested that Probyn himself had mellowed more gracefully than had his younger brother. Yes, there was something Georgian about Probyn. He had developed a country manner, or what he conceived to be a country manner.

Conrad stopped his car on the gravel to the east of the yew hedge and the terrace. Through the square openings in the yew hedge he had glimpses of Probyn's lawns, and the flower borders, and the pleached lines of the Dutch garden. It was all very still, and slightly autumnal, with the dew yet upon it, and some of the old trees showing here and there a tinge of yellow. Conrad's broad nostrils seemed to narrow. Always it appeared to him that Probyn's head gardener got better results than his man did at Chlois Court. Damn the fellow! Still, his dahlias were always better than Probyn's. Jealousy can include the most trivial of details.

You might be jealous of your brother, but you entered his house informally, and Conrad walked towards the terrace, but in the angle that the yew hedge made with the southeast corner of the house young Lance was reading Noel Coward's plays. He had tucked a deck chair into this sheltered corner. His flannel trousers were well up to his knees; his dark blue socks were the socks of a rowing man. He wore a white, blue edged Third Trinity blazer.

"Hallo, Conrad."

"Hallo, my lad."

There was a sulkiness in these salutations, for Probyn's son had the knack of making his uncle feel aggresive and uncomfortable. Eton and Trinity! This second edition of the Pybus text book had received the author's corrections. It was a more complete and polished product. It could lounge in a chair, and glancing up casually, address its uncle as "Hallo, Conrad." Young prig!

"Father in?"

"Try the library."

Lance Pybus resumed his reading, and his uncle walked on towards the French window of the library. He disliked his nephew, because Lance—even as a child—had been a creature of queer aloofness, the kind of boy who watched you and listened to you with a mysterious grave face, and remained insultingly silent. Lance's very looks were curiously disturbing to his uncle. There was something challenging in the eager, upward lift of the head. His dark hair gave the impression of being blown back. It was like the head of youth running swiftly against the wind. His broad face, with its large and sensitive mouth and short nose, had a young matureness, a reticent but sparkling obstinacy. And there were those very blue eyes, either very bright and near or very distant. They were the eyes of that incorruptible old man—his grandfather.

MISS E. K. AND THANKFUL.—If cloth is burned enough to change the color to brown, a removal of the burned portion is about the only thing that will remove the spot. One thing you might do for the gray flannel suit, is to have one of the textile companies which darn holes in fabric, repair the place by substituting new threads. Get in touch with them through your cleaners, or see telephone directory classified section under "Textile." The process to remove scorch from cotton goods is: First wash and boil, then wring from the suds and hang in the sun to dry, or wet in suds (hot or cold) and hang in sun to dry. Repeat the process until spots are removed. You might tell its effect on color by experimenting with a piece of the goods. Some colors are fast, some are not. If used on silk, omit the boiling. It probably is not practical for flannel, as this should not be subjected to very hot water.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

MISS E. K. AND THANKFUL.—If cloth is burned enough to change the color to brown, a removal of the burned portion is about the only thing that will remove the spot. One thing you might do for the gray flannel suit, is to have one of the textile companies which darn holes in fabric, repair the place by substituting new threads. Get in touch with them through your cleaners, or see telephone directory classified section under "Textile." The process to remove scorch from cotton goods is: First wash and boil, then wring from the suds and hang in the sun to dry, or wet in suds (hot or cold) and hang in sun to dry. Repeat the process until spots are removed. You might tell its effect on color by experimenting with a piece of the goods. Some colors are fast, some are not. If used on silk, omit the boiling. It probably is not practical for flannel, as this should not be subjected to very hot water.

THANKED FOR ANSWER.—If the facts you ask about in connection with Miss Annette Kellerman, the swimmer, are taken from her own statements, it does not seem possible to refer you to any better authority.

IGNORANT. — Practically the only difference between the American and National baseball leagues is in the name. In reading a box score the initials in the first line mean: A, times at bat; R, runs; H, hits; O, times put out or "outs;" A, assists; E, errors. The letters after a player's name is the position he plays.

HOUSEWIFE. — The ordinary cleaning mixtures containing naptha are not recommended for overstuffed furniture as they are inflammable, and especially so under the friction necessary to clean furniture by any home process. Some preparations that are on the market are not inflammable, and these you can get by asking your druggist to let you read the labels before buying.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

X. Y. Z.—A marriage license issued in St. Louis can be used anywhere in Missouri. If the dispensation papers referred to relate to a church dispensation this is not a legal question.

H. J. K.—You do not have to support the stepchildren. You might repay to your wife the amount she invested in the farm, and she could then do with that as she pleased.

CONSTANT READER.—The collection agency can collect interest on the debt at the rate of 6 per cent per year. However, if the bill is 10 years old, a suit to collect it would probably be barred by the statute of limitations.

MRS. D. R.—You can sue the doctor for damages. You should consult a lawyer without delay.

WINDOW WASHER.—The agent who was selling the article found to infringe a patent would not be liable to any punishment if he was not a party of the injunction suit. (2) The injunction naming but one company is not enforceable against a company making a similar alleged infringement, but not named in the suit described.

LOUIS.—You can file an injunction suit to stop the erection of the shacks in violation of the building restrictions. Presumably these buildings would have a tendency to depreciate your property. You should consult a lawyer.

H. L. A.—A clear title to the property cannot be conveyed unless your niece's husband signs the deed. The property would have to be sold at a partition sale, unless your niece obtained a divorce, in which case her husband's signature to the deed would not be necessary.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

J. S. M.—You ask for a positive cure for ringworm. The following has been found successful many times: Betanapthol, one drachm; petrolatum, one ounce; mix and apply night and morning.

A FRIEND.—Most of the large hospitals such as Barnes, Saint Mary's, etc., have clinics where the disease mentioned may be treated free or for a nominal charge. Having no knowledge of the institute you ask about, advice cannot be offered.

MRS. E. L. K.—The term you ask about is not a name for a single remedy, but is applied to a number of the same kind. The treatment most advanced as successful in such a case as yours is by a preparation known as Sanitablets (Harrower) of which the dose is one tablet three times daily. It can be had in any first-class drug store without prescription. It should be borne in mind that any and all things which tend to raise the standard of general health and well-being will contribute to the desired result, that is, leading a well-regulated, hygienic life, correcting constipation, and taking systematic outdoor exercise.

RAMONA. — When used by skilled experts the electric needle leaves little or no scarring, or such as would not be noticeable. It is given prefernece here for the removal of superfluous hair only because of familiarity with its success and safety.

Chocolate Roll.

Beat the yolks of 4 eggs until thick and add gradually ½ cup sugar and 2 tablespoonfuls cocoa. Beat whites until dry and fold in the mixture. Spread on buttered pans and bake. Turn out on a paper sprinkled with powdered sugar and spread with ½ pint of whipped cream, sweetened. Roll as you would jelly roll, spread with chocolate icing. Very rich but a lovely party dessert.

NEGRO SEIZED, LYNCHING IS REPORTED AT SLATER, MO.

Masked Band Takes Prisoner, Who Killed Man in Gambling Game, From Marshal and Constable.

AUTO OVERTAKES CAR OF OFFICERS

Ocie Wilson Being Escorted to County Jail at Marshall, Mo., When Abducted by Party.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARSHALL, Mo., May 30.—Several masked men forcibly took Ocie Wilson, a middle-aged Negro, from Constable Price Thompson and City Marshal Ballew of Slater last night about five miles east of Marshall and are reported to have lynched him. His body, however, has not been found.

Wilson killed Romeo Logan, another Negro, in a gambling game at Slater yesterday.

Officers thought Negro friends of Logan, a shopworker, took Wilson from Ballew and Thompson, who were bringing him to the county jail here. The fact that Logan was highly respected by Negroes in Slater led to the theory that Wilson was taken by members of his own race. Little was known of Wilson, who arrived in Slater recently from Mississippi.

Ballew and Thompson had arrested Wilson following the fatal shooting of Logan, and decided to take him to the Marshall jail. When about half way here, a large car carrying the masked men cut in ahead of them and forced them to stop.

Thompson, who was driving, attempted to get his car in reverse when four of the masked men with revolvers drawn jumped on the running board and demanded the Negro's release. Wilson was still handcuffed when he left the officers' car.

A report early this afternoon that Wilson's body had been found hanging to a tree south of Slater proved to be unfounded.

A tourist arriving here this morning reported he saw a body hanging from a tree beside the highway, but officers were unable to find it.

LABOR TRIBUNAL SET UP BY NEW SWEDISH LAW

Statute Safeguards Agreements Between Employers and Employes, Restricts Strikes.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, May 30.—New labor laws to uphold collective agreements between Swedish employers and employes and for the establishment of a labor tribunal have been adopted by the two chambers of the Swedish Riksdag.

The first law safeguards agreements between workmen and employers. It also applies to cases where the Government is involved. The agreements are binding both on the labor organizations and on their individual members.

During the agreement, the workmen's organizations and the employers alike are forbidden to declare strikes, lockouts and boycotts inspired by a dispute about the validity or interpretation of the agreements. The labor organizations, furthermore, are obliged to try to prevent their members from taking any steps in this direction. Sympathy strikes and sympathy lockouts are allow, except where they are aimed to help a party which has no right to take action.

A labor tribunal is to pass on all questions concerning the collective agreements, and its judgment cannot be overruled.

NEW OLIVE STREET PAVING SAME WIDTH ON EACH SIDE

Apparently Greater Breadth South Is Merely Optical Illusion, Engineer Explains.

Many persons driving on widened Olive street in its present half-finished condition have gained the erroneous impression that the pavement on the south side, now in place, is wider than the surface on the north side will be when completed. This is an optical illusion, as the two sides are of equal width, or, rather, the car tracks are in the exact center.

"It all depends on which side you're looking from," says Chief City Engineer Horner.

The vehicle surface is 78 feet wide between curbs and the double tracks take 16 feet of this, less a few inches, leaving 30 feet on each side. The sidewalks are 12 feet wide.
